MINERS DEFY ROOSEVELT TRUCE

Today

Great Flying News.
Hitler's Boys?
Our Blue Eagle Plan.
Mussolini's New City.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE TWO French fliers, Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi, who flew from Long Island on Saturday morning, on their way to Bagdad, or Karichi, India, and the world's non-stop long distance record, flew over Paris last evening, only nine minutes behind the mark set by Col. Lindbergh.

And the French plane, prepared for a 70-hour, 7,000-mile flight, carried the heaviest load ever lifted from the ground by a one-engine plane.

YOU CAN almost, not quite, imagine the enthusiasm of the Frenchmen gathered at Le Bourget flying field, the spot where Lindbergh 'anded, when they saw their own plane, carrying the French tricolor, flying low over the field, to drop a message. Then roaring on to beat the world's long-distance non-stop record, set by Frenchmen in Algiers.

Wonderful people, the French, and their government, which knows what airships will do in future wars, has the greatest fighting air fleet on earth.

FUTURE DAYS glancing through Hitler's book, Mein Kampf ("My Fight"), will find in it explanation of the Hitler wind-up.

For instance, Hitler writes:

"All education must be so planned as to give the (German) boy the conviction that he is unquestionably superior to the youths of other nationals. His physical training must give him the feeling that his nation is unconquerable."

THE SPARTANS had that idea, but they died out, although they trained boys to waylay miserable unarmed slaves on their way to work, in the early morning, and murder them with knives.

You cannot make boys or men superior by telling them they are superior. The Kaiser and his officers tried that, and their soldiers kept repeating, as they marched through Belgium, "Paris in five days." But they are not in Paris yet.

The Germans are a very great nation, in science, literature, courage, endurance, industry, EVERYTHING. But to be pushed into another war now, is what they do NOT need.

THERE IS, however, another Hitler, not afflicted with any Frederick the Great complex, and that Hitler shows when the Chancellor talks of unemployment, and acts to correct it.

He is able to boast that he has restored 2,000,000 idle Germans to their jobs, he promises to keep down unemployment through the winter, and to abolish unemployment permanently, next spring.

If he keeps that last promise, Germany will follow him, whatever his mistakes in other directions.

IN MANY different ways the world deals with unemployment. Russia, with her method, has not an idle man or woman. Russian labor organizations are part of the government.

Italy puts men to work, where and when the government chooses, forbids strikes, takes away the right of workers and employers to choose. France, since the war, has had the least serious employment problem of all the nations. Every Frenchman has a relation who owns French land, and he works on the land if city work is lacking.

Even here, we have at last concluded that the greatest of problems is the government's business, and have our "NRA blue eagle" plan. May it work better than all the others.

FIRST MUSSOLINI conquered the Pontine marshes, that have plagued Rome with fever perpetually, succeeding where all others had failed in one thousand years of trying.

Now Mussolini lays the first stone of a new city, Sabaudia, to be built on reclaimed marshes that were once uninhabitable. The Italian ruler works quickly and expects to have his city for 50,000 people ready next year.

NOT SINCE Alexander the Great have cities been thus built to order. Alexander did not live to carry out his most interesting city plan, which involved carving a stone mountain into a statue of himself, with a highway running along his outstretched arm, and a city built in the palm of his hand. But he did build in the Mussolini fashion.

In this building, Mussolini helps solve the employment problem and benefits Italy for all time to come. Our government is working along similar lines in the Tennessee Valley projects.

MUSSOLINI, who has a low opinion of self-government, has said:

"Democracy in the last analysis can only talk."

Perhaps this government will show him that President Roosevelt's kind of democracy, with General Johnson and Lawyer Richberg in action, can do more than talk.

ROBERT INGERSOLL, born August eleventh, one hundred years ago, would be surprised to know how little interest exists today in the questions that he discussed so savagely in his denunciation of Christian doctrine.

Men no longer argue about Joshua making the sun stand still, in the heavens, or about the whale swallowing Jonah. Mental fashions change. New discoveries have changed the direction of thought, such as the atom with its "electron-planets" revolving around the "protonsun," trillions of times in a second, or 2,000,000 star cities as big as our milky way, one of them located 300 million light years from our solar system. If the known universe is

3 BLONDES FACE QUIZ IN KILLING

Tangled Love Life Of Slain Executive Under Probe

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Along the tangled path of his love life, police today sought clues in the murder of Harry F. Sanborn, railway executive, found shot to death and buried in a shallow grave in a wooded section of Bayside, N. Y.

He was engaged to marry one girl. When he died six nude pictures of another girl, a pretty blonde, were found among his possessions; and police want to question a third.

Magnhild Almskaar, 27, of Brooklyn, is the fiancee. She was questioned by police today but not arrested.

Police refuse to disclose the name of the blonde who posed without clothing, but they have talked to her. She lives in Brooklyn also.

The other woman police are seeking was said to be Peggy Burrows. She was said to have been the room-mate of Miss Almskaar at one time and to have lived later in a nearby rooming house. She is thought now to be somewhere in Connecticut.

MITCHELL SOUGHT

While police center their hunt for clues along Sanford's romantic trail, they haven't failed to scrutinize his business activities.

In this connection French and Italian authorities were cabled to locate Bancroft Mitchell, business associate of Henry F. Sanborn, railway executive, in the hope Mitchell might supply some aid in the investigation of the murder.

Mitchell, son of former Attorney General William D. Mitchell and a friend of the slain man, sailed for Europe on the liner Rex on July 22, four days after Sanborn disappeared from his New York residence.

Police were hopeful Mitchell, or Willard McNeir, another associate of Sanborn, might throw some light on the mystery. The exact whereabouts of McNeir is unknown, although police indicated they had been in touch with him.

DREW MONEY FROM BANK

Mrs. Grant Van Sant, socially-prominent sister of the dead man, said she was puzzled by the $2,000 withdrawal that Sanborn made from his bank on the day he vanished. She said that Sanborn, although a man of independent means, had never carried much cash with him.

The socially-prominent Mr. and Mrs. James Irving Bush identified the body yesterday in a morgue. Mrs. Bush is a niece of the slain man. Mrs. Van Sant, sister of Sanborn and daughter-in-law of former Gov. Samuel Rinnah Van Sant, of Minnesota, came to New York as soon as Sanborn was reported missing. She is staying at the home of Miss Alice Morrow, sister of the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow.

Minister Drowned In Baptismal Rite

FORT SMITH, Ark., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—What was to have been 26-year-old Rev. Willie Wilson's first baptismal ceremony ended in his drowning in the Arkansas River yesterday.

The preacher stepped off into deep water and was caught in a whirlpool. Nine persons who were to be baptized witnessed the tragedy. The body was recovered.

Pennington And Staff Fired

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Commander John D. Pennington and the entire personnel of the Prohibition Bureau for the tri-state district, including New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania were dismissed today by Maj. A. V. Dalrymple, national prohibition director.

Notice of the dismissals were contained in a telegram received from Maj. Dalrymple this afternoon.

Many of those dismissed are expected to be appointed to the newly-created division of investigation of the Department of Justice which is scheduled to take over the liquor law enforcement duties of the prohibition department.

From Philadelphia John D. Pennington, former prohibition director in Pittsburgh, told the Sun-Telegraph today by telephone that he hopes to remain on the government payroll after his bureau is eiminated on Wednesday. He said:

"The Attorney General was quoted recently in the Philadelphia Record as saying that Pennington was honest and trustworthy, and for this reason I hope to be retained. At any rate, I have no other plans.

"There are 32 men now in the Pittsburgh office and I believe most of them will be retained in the new department, including Mr. Krause, the deputy administrator."

SAYS HUSBAND KILLED BABY

JEFFERSON, O., Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Repudiating details of her first alleged confession, Mrs. Aleeta Fleming, 28, today implicated her 55-year-old husband, Mertis, in the slaying of two of their children, both boys, police announced here. Sheriff C. H. Blanche quoted the woman:

"I was afraid of my husband. I was afraid he would kill me."

Mrs. Fleming assumed full responsibility for the slayings in her first alleged confession, declaring she killed the infants because her husband "didn't like boy babies." Today, however, she shifted the blame to her husband and accused him of strangling to death 4-month-old Mertis, Jr., last week after a potion of ammonia had failed to kill him.

Willis Fleming, another child of the couple, died more than a year ago at the age of four months from the effects of a strong acid.

Mrs. Fleming declared today that she expected to die in the electric chair. She cried:

"I want to die."

200 in Poor House March From Blaze

MERCER, Pa., Aug. 7.—Two hundred male inmates of the Mercer County Poor Home marched out of the living quarters in orderly fashion today while members of the staff searched the building for fire.

Burning rags were discovered in a hole near a radiator.

FRENCH TAKE AIR RECORD, SPEED ON

New York-to-Syria Non-Stop Flight Sets New Mark

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Reuter's News Agency reported from Bagdad that Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos landed this afternoon at Rayak, Syria, having completed a non-stop flight from New York.

ORLY, France, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, French airmen who took off from New York Saturday morning, said today in a wireless message received here at 3:17 p. m. (11.17 a. m. Pittsburgh time), that they planned to fly until nightfall and thought they would land at Rayak, Syria, 50 miles north of Damascus.

The message indicated that the fliers had abandoned their plan to reach India. There is a French military field at Rayak.

NEW RECORD REPORTED

PARIS, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—The Havas News Agency received an unconfirmed report that Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, French airmen who left New York Saturday, passed over Aleppo, Syria, today at 12:30 p. m., Greenwich mean time (8:30 a. m., Pittsburgh time).

Confirmation of the report would mean that the airmen had broken by about 200 miles the non-stop record of 5,340 miles set in February by Squadron Leader Oswald R. Gayford and Flight Lieut. Gilbert E. Nicholetts, of the British Royal Air Force.

REPORT 'ALL WELL'

BUCHAREST, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Still pressing forward in their quest for a long-distance, non-stop flight record, Lieut. Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, French airmen, made contact with the airport radio here today to report "all well."

The plane was speeding toward Karachi, India, after spanning the Atlantic Ocean from New York.

This advice put an end to fears expressed in a previous message from Rossi and Codos that they had developed a gasoline leak and were using up too much fuel.

The message added the plane passed over Munich, Germany, shortly after midnight, and near Vienna a little before 2 a. m.

The airmen passed over the Island of Rhodes at 5:30 a. m., Pittsburgh time.

The pair hopped off from Floyd Bennett Airport in New York at 5:41 a. m., Pittsburgh time, Saturday.

DIFFICULT CROSSING

PARIS, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—The Atlantic crossing of Rossi and Codos was fraught with difficulties. The French fliers dipped in salute over Le Bourget Field 33 hours and 39 minutes after leaving New York, just nine minutes behind the record for the flight set by Charles A. Lindbergh in his memorable dash across the ocean in 1927.

Parisians waved an enthusiastic greeting to their flying countrymen as they swooped low over Le Bourget Airport, roaring along at more than 100 miles an hour. The fliers dropped a note which read:

"All is well. Continuing."

They also dropped messages to their wives, who were at the field, and to M. Bleriot, builder of their plane.

Wilkinsburg Youth Hurt in Car Crash

COATESVILLE, Pa., Aug. 7.—(INS.)—J. Donald Ferguson, Jr., 19, of 936 Wallace avenue, Wilkinsburg, was critically injured today when his automobile was sideswiped by another machine in a heavy fog on the Lincoln highway, near here.

Ferguson is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Donald Ferguson, and was driving to Atlantic City. He is employed in his father's automobile repair shop.

Girl Thrilled as Kidnap Threat Brings Militia

NORTH SUTTON, N. H., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—A line of National Guardsmen hemmed a girl's camp at Lake Kezar today to prevent kidnapers from carrying out a threat to abduct Betty Downes, 15-year-old daughter of a Pennsylvania Railroad executive.

Sheriff's deputies, highway police and motor vehicle inspectors helped the 25 guardsmen guard Camp Bueno. All automobiles on adjacent roads were searched yesterday. Federal authorities sought the authors of the threat.

James Downes, father of the girl, said at his Philadelphia home that he received a letter Saturday threatening kidnaping and that about the same time a voice on the telephone told his wife to warn her husband to "go ahead with what we told him—the plans about your daughter."

Downes said the letter did not demand $100,000 or $50,000, as reported, but it asked "an amount larger than I am accustomed to talk about, and I couldn't have got it together if I had had to."

He said the girl is "quite thrilled" by the excitement.

Voila—We Made It!

FATHER HELPS MRS. COSTELLO

Katharine Brush, celebrated novelist, gives her impressions of the Costello case in an article appearing on Page 17.

SALEM, Mass., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—A father came stoutly to the defense of his daughter today when Andrew J. Fyfe testified at the trial of Mrs. Jessie B. Costello for the murder of her fire captain husband, William J. Costello.

Fyfe told how he ordered Edward J. McMahon from his daughter's home the morning "Bill" Costello died. The state charges and McMahon claimed from the witness stand that he was Jessie's clandestine sweetheart.

Fyfe is a lieutenant of artillery, a ruddy-complexioned and iron gray-haired man. His face darkened as he said:

"I told McMahon I had heard rumors of him being around that house and that I would give him one minute to get out or I would break every bone in his body."

Fyfe said that McMahon told him he didn't want any trouble, but that he wanted "to have one word with me before he went." The witness continued:

"I walked out to the garage with him, and he said to me: 'As true as I have a God to answer to, I never had anything to do with your daughter except clean and wholesome friendship.'"

Fyfe said McMahon held up his right hand as he spoke the quoted words. He said McMahon continued to speak of how good the Costellos had been to him and his family.

Before Ffye testified, the prosecution completed its cross-examination of Mrs. Costello.

BANK-OPENING PARLEY HELD

Representatives of closed national banks in Western Pennsylvania are conferring with government officials today at the Federal Reserve Bank, Grant street.

Judge Sveinbjorn Johnson, special counsel to the United States Comptroller of the Currency, has arranged a series of conferences with conservators and others connected with the closed banks.

Depositors, anxious to learn the condition of the closed institutions, will also have an opportunity to meet with the federal officials and learn the facts, Johnson said today.

His time, however, is closely taken up with sessions with the conservators, he indicated. The purpose of his visit, he has announced, is to get action either in reopening the banks or liquidating them.

Regarding the part the depositors will be called upon to play in reopening banks, Johnson declared the case of each bank must be considered separately.

Sew 'Dead' Boy's Heart, Pumped Back to Life

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—A 16-year-old youth with a sewed-up heart was alive today and his physician said the delicate operation performed after the victim was mysteriously stabbed by an unidentified assailant, probably would be successful.

The boy, Elihu Garmissa, was rushed to the Lutheran Deaconess Hospital late Saturday night by police immediately after the attack. Dr. J. D. Koucky, assistant professor of surgery in the University of Illinois School of Medicine, operated. The doctor said:

"The heart had stopped beating when the boy was placed on the operating table."

Thirty seconds later the operation would have been futile, he said. He said he knew he took four stitches to close the inch-long wound, but that in his haste he may have taken five.

Following the operation the heart was massaged until it resumed its normal beating. In giving Garmissa a 75 per cent chance to recover Dr. Koucky said the greatest danger now lay in the possibility of an infection developing.

COKE REGION PICKETED, EVERY MINE CLOSED; PEACE MOVE JEERED

PITS HERE SUSPEND

Workers Ignore Terms Of Capital Pact.

The Pittsburgh district coal diggers today refused to abide by the terms of President Roosevelt's truce in the Western Pennsylvania mine strike.

Most of the mines in the area were closed despite the acceptance of the "peace terms" by officials of the United Mine Workers of America.

Union officials said some of the mines were not working because companies "misunderstood" the terms of the agreement and would not allow the men to have their own checkweighmen at the tipples unless they were elected on company property.

Even at mines of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, which have been operating under union agreements, the men did not show up for work.

RECOGNITION ISSUE

There was nothing in the truce requiring the operators to recognize the United Mine Workers. Despite this, the union officials signed it and said the men would go back to work.

Union officials attributed the walkouts in the earlier stages of the strike to insistence of the miners that the union be recognized.

P. T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers, said the strikers were "exercising bad judgment" in the face of the union's appeals that they return to work pending settlement through the coal industry's code in Washington.

Hearings on the code are scheduled to open Wednesday at 10 a. m. Two proposed codes have been submitted. One is from union operators of 14 states and the other from nonunion producers in fields that include Pennsylvania.

One of the controversial issues is recognition of the United Mine Workers. Observers saw a likelihood of a claim on the part of open-shop operators that the union does not represent the miners. They will point to the continuation of the present strike in the face of the union appeals to bear out the claim, these observers believed.

FAGAN RAPS REDS

Fagan said there is "a bad Red influence" circulating in the district, and added:

"Someone is furnishing the men with moonshine liquor and

UNION BLAMES REDS

Leaders Charged With 'Betrayal' in Handbills.

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 7.—Thousands of pickets defied the Roosevelt mine truce in the Connellsville coke region today by continuing the strike at more than 50 plants in the district.

Mining operations were suspended at the request of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, who listened late yesterday "in the interest of industrial peace."

There were no serious outbreaks of disorder, although numerous demonstrations kept state police and National Guardsmen on the move.

The last active mine in Fayette closed this morning. The Davidson mine of the Purity-Connellsville Coal and Coke Company suspended when pickets assembled there.

Refusal of the miners to return to work was blamed by operators and close observers of the controversy on communistic agitation.

Handbills bearing the signature of the National Miners Union, an admitted communistic group, appeared in the ranks of the strikers for the first time.

CHARGES BETRAYAL

One of the handbills declares:

"Over 70,000 striking miners are being betrayed by Lewis, Fagan, Feeney and company. President Roosevelt, who was trusted by the miners, is leading the betrayal through an arbitration board, which will never decide in favor of the miners."

The pamphlet added:

"The strike is being called off in the President's truce because it is so strong the operators

U. S. 'BUY NOW' DRIVE OPENS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—The plea to "buy because buying supports your job" started today the Recovery Administration's attempt to utilize the increased purchasing power it feels is being created by hour-shortening, wage-raising agreements of the government with business and industry.

Along with that request from Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, went this boycott threat:

"Where should you spend? Can there be any question? You should spend under the Blue Eagle.

"If you spend there you are spending for increased employment.

"If you spend elsewhere you are hurting the chance to end unemployment because you are

Zita to Ask Princess As Bride for Son

MADRID, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—The former Empress Zita of Austria will leave for Rome shortly to arrange the marriage of her son, the Archduke Otto, and Princess Maria Francesca of Italy, her friends said today.

Zita, according to the reports, will personally ask King Victor Emanuel in behalf of her son for the hand of his daughter.

Fifty Offer Blood To Bill Amos' Kin

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Fifty persons, including nearly every member of the Washington fire company, today answered a hurry call for volunteers for a blood transfusion for 5-year-old William Amos.

The lad is a nephew of Bill Amos, the famous Washington and Jefferson football star, now coach at Grove City College.

Berlin to Deport American Student

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—A report was current in informed quarters today that Walter Orloff, medical student from Brooklyn, who was arrested on a charge of inciting Communists, will be deported on a ship whose name will be withheld until he sails.

MINERS DEFY TRUCE AND REFUSE TO RETURN TO WORK

would be forced to grant all the demands of the miners."

It urges mass picketing with women and unemployed in the ranks; spreading of the strike to every mine and sending mass delegations to the code hearing.

Tom Myerscough is named as president and Frank Borich, secretary, of the National Miners, headquarters of which is advertised as being at 1524 Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh.

The request of Pinchot to operators of the district to remain closed was accepted by the H. C. Frick Coke Company for today only. The company's answer to the Governor's request was contained in this curt statement issued shortly before midnight:

"At the p sonal request of Gov. Pinchot, received by officials of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, the mines of that company will remain closed for one more day, namely, August 7, 1933."

It was strongly intimated in well-informed circles that the Frick interests would force the issue tomorrow by reopening their mines whether the strikers agreed to the truce or not. Such action was looked upon as a sure sign of trouble and National Guard headquarters was waiting for some further word from the Governor as to what will be expected of them.

M'CALLUM ARRIVES

Duncan McCallum, private secretary to Gov. Pinchot, arrived here yesterday to work with Joseph Washington, special investigator for the State Labor Department, who has been devoting his entire energies the past few days to securing the ratification by district locals of the Washington truce.

Both men attended a mass meeting of strikers at Colonial No. 4 mine of the Frick interests yesterday.

Open dissension broke out in the gathering as Martin Ryan, local leader, urged the men to remain on the picket line until Friday and Washington urged them to meet tomorrow and end the strike.

Skeptical miners questioned Washington about the authenticity of a telegram from Gov. Pinchot in which he asked the miners to accept the truce and gave his "solemn pledge" to protect them against violation of the agreement.

Even McCallum was unable to convince them. A messenger was dispatched to Uniontown to bring back a certified copy of the wire.

Washington was quite optimistic at the conclusion of the meeting. He said:

"The strike is over and the men will be back to work by Wednesday morning."

He flayed the tactics of organizers and agitators for the National Miners Union, which he called a "hangover." He said:

"This campaign is carried on in the ranks of the miners by Radicals and Communists in no way affiliated with the United Mine Workers and whose sole aim is to foment rebellion and violence."

On the picket lines this morning all over the district were lively discussions among the men on their right to continue the strike. Often the argument waxed hot and threatened to boil over into open disorder, but nothing untoward occurred under the watchful eyes of National Guardsmen and state police.

ROW OVER BOSSES

At Edenborn mine of the Frick company a call was sent hurriedly to guard headquarters when an argument arose over the right of pit bosses to go into the mine. The U. M. W. A. recognizes this right.

Adam Cobatchka, secretary of the local, placed himself at the head of the group of bosses and through a double line of troopers and guardsmen, he led them through. The pickets had previously threatened to stone the bosses.

More than 2,500 pickets assembled at the Frick-owned Standard mine near Mount Pleasant this morning. This mine had operated until today. It was closed under the Pinchot request.

At Star Junction, scene of the wounding of six pickets by gunfire from company deputies last week, there were 1,500 or more singing, shouting pickets.

PICKETS MASS

Several thousands pickets massed in front of the Colonial mines of the Frick company. They lined the highways and sang and shouted while guardsmen patrolled with fixed bayonets and machine guns.

William Feeney, president of District 4, United Mine Workers of America, denounced the activities of "red agitators" who, he declared, "were only interested in causing trouble."

He said:

"These fellows don't have the interest of the miner at heart. They have only their own selfish and vicious motives. I am confident that our boys will rally around with full 100 per cent support when the time comes.

"We are going to observe the President's truce."

PINCHOT'S WIFE BACKS BOARD

HARRISBURG, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot last night said President Roosevelt's plan for a national board to arbitrate labor disputes "is the one thing necessary to translate the policies of the National Recovery Act into practical action."

Resting in the executive mansion from her picketing in Philadelphia and other factory centers of the eastern part of the state, the wife of Pennsylvania's Governor said:

"President Roosevelt's plan for a peace labor board is a magnificent one. It is the one thing necessary to translate the polices of the national recovery act into practical action. It marks a great step forward in the peaceful settling of industrial disputes. Everyone who wants to see America come quickly out of the depression will welcome the plan and cooperate wholeheartedly with it."

HOSE DRENCHES GIRL PICKETS

POTTSVILLE, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—State police took charge of a garment workers' strike demonstration today after a fire hose was turned on pickets at the Phillips-Jones shirt factory.

Girl pickets, held in the Council chambers while police investigated, were lowered from windows by friends, and the demonstration was resumed.

The Phillips-Jones employes are not on strike, but a truck filled with girl workers from Frackville, Minersville and other towns arrived in Pottsville at dawn and attempted to parade. They were escorted to City Hall and the girls assembled in the Council chamber.

Shortly after the parade was resumed at the Phillips-Jones plant somebody turned on the fire hose. State police arrived about this time and replaced the local authorities.

Business Man Shot In Coal Mine Strife

CLINTON, Ind., Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Bloodshed occurred in the first serious outbreak of mine strife in many months near here today.

Sam White, business man of Universal, was shot and wounded seriously in a clash between union mine pickets and mine guards at the Bunsen mine at Universal, west of here. Vermillion County authorities were seeking "Rip" Caveny, mine guard.

Sleuths Seize 'Bomb,' But Find a Candle

City Detective Joseph Linden, of the bomb and arson squad; Lieut. Dennis Hennessy and several patrolmen handled with caution a package wrapped in black paper today fearing it might explode.

They had found it in the home of Carl Callinionello, 55, of Clay way, who had been arrested yesterday while carrying a revovler, and had been heard threatening to place a bomb under someone's house, police said.

Finally the officers opened the package and found a wax candle. Callinionello said he used it for illumination. He was held for court in Center Avenue Station, charged with violating the firearms act.

Pittsburgh District Pits Idle Despite Truce

a bunch of irresponsibles are causing trouble."

He said he did not know the source of the liquor, but it was prevalent in the districtt. About 1,000 men met in the Coverdale area last night and voted not to go to work. Fagan said "irresponsibles" sponsored this rump meeting.

The district president said union members had not returned to the Terminal Corporation mines on the ground that they had quit work in sympathy with the strike at the H. C. Frick Coke Company workings and would stay out until the Frick employes go back to work.

Thomas Moses, president of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, at noon today said no decision had been made concerning the opening of the mines tomorrow. He declared:

"I'm going to consult the Governor later today and see what his wishes are."

MINES CLOSED

The Frick mines remained closed today at Pinchot's request.

Mr. Moses said the Frick men desire to go back to work, adding:

"If we get police protection on the highways, our men will go back to work peacefully. There is only one demand we ever got—that was for unionization, and that demand came from 'across the river'".

By "across the river" he meant from those outside the ranks of the Frick company employes.

Led by William Bell, 1,000 men appeared at the Pittsburgh Coal Company's Montour No. 10 mine at Library this morning. They said they had chosen two from among their number as checkweighmen, but that Supt. William Phillips told them that if they went back to work, they must accept the company weighmen. They refused to do this.

OFFICIAL SILENT

Supt. Phillips refused to comment on the men's assertion.

A similar situation was reported by miners at the Moon Run mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company.

Fagan said Pittsburgh Coal and Bethlehem Mines Corporation officials "misunderstood" the terms of the truce and insisted the miners must elect their checkweighmen on company property. He said there was no such provision in the agreement.

In Washington, Edward F. McGrady, of the recovery administration's labor advisory board, said there had been a misunderstanding of the agreements the operators and U. M. W. reached last week. He said he thought the miners would understand them in the light of telegrams sent to the union locals by John L. Lewis, international president of the union, and that he expected the situation to be cleared up in a few days.

POINTS IN DISPUTE

The agreement entered into between the operators and the United Mine Workers' officials provides that the companies shall employ checkweighmen selected by the miners when desired by the employes. Bell said the miners would telegraph President Roosevelt and Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson to acquaint them of the alleged refusal of the Montour officials to abide by the terms.

The Terminal Corporation's Mollenauer Nos. 2 and 3, employing 500 men, and Coverdale No. 8, were closed. The Coverdale men prepared to hold a meeting today.

In view of the acceptance of the truce by the United Mine Workers' officials, the failure of the men to go back to work clearly had union officials worried, although Fagan said he was certain the difficulties would be ironed out shortly.

PANHANDLE WORKING

Fagan said several mines were working in the Panhandle district. These included the Carnegie Coal properties at McDonald and Atlasburg, the P. & W. mine at Avella and National mines Nos. 1 and 2 in the Bridgeville district.

In the Monongahela River and Charleroi section, the Marianna, Cokeburg and Ellsworth plants of the Bethlehem Mines Corporation, the Gibson mine of the Hillman Coal and Coke Company, the Soudan of the Valley Camp Coal Company, the Warner mine, and independent operation, and Pricedale, Arnold City and Monongah mines of the Pittsburgh Coal Company were closed.

Vesta mines of the Jones & Laughlin interests, employing 4,500 men, also were closed. These mines have been shut down and no attempt made to operate them since the strike began.

More than 12,000 miners in the Cambria, Clearfield, Indiana, Armstrong, Jefferson and Somerset County fields went back to work.

DISTRICT 3 AT WORK

Miners in District No. 3, U. M. W., returned to work today, Frank Hughes, district president, reported. The miners are employed by the Westmoreland Coal Company, Keystone Coal and Coke Company, Jamison Coal and Coke Company and Ocean Coal Company.

Hughes said a mass meeting was held at Mt. Pleasant yesterday, during which the miners were advised to return. Hughes blamed the walkout on radical pickets who, he said, invaded the county from nearby strike districts.

An Associated Press dispatch from Washington today quoted Deputy Recovery Administrator Sinmpson as saying the administration had not yet decided whether one code from the entire bituminous industry would be the best plan, but was awaiting developments at the hearing to start Wednesday.

He said plants owned by steel companies and other industries that operate mines for their own supplies will be subject to the provisions of whatever code or codes are approved.

RED ACTIVITIES IN COAL STRIKE PROBED

Federal Investigators To Trace Origin Of Handbills

The Federal government today began an investigation of alleged communistic activities in the coal strike area of Western Pennsylvania.

Assistant United States Attorney Lloyd W. Bryan said immigration authorities had come into possesion of handbills circulated among miners, charging that officers of the United Mine Workers and President Roosevelt were "betraying" the cause of the miners and were seeking to adjust differences in favor of the companies.

According to Bryan, the National Miners Union whose name appears on the circulars has been decreed by the courts to be a Communistic organization, affiliated with Trade Union Unity League, a federation of Communistic organizations controlled from Moscow.

FILM, HOSIERY STRIKES SIFTED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Dr. Leo Wolman, chairman of the recovery administration labor advisory committee, said today that the Pennsylvania hosiery and Hollywood movie strikes would be taken up by the new conciliation board as soon as it met.

Wolman, also member of the new conciliation board, created Friday by President Roosevelt to end industrial strikes that were interfering with the recovery program, said the board might meet late today. If the members could not get together for a meeting today, he said, a meeting would be held tomorrow.

Wolman said the procedure probably would be the appointment of sub-committees to take up the hosiery and Hollywood strikes.

SHIRT STRIKERS GIVE DEMANDS

UNIONTOWN, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Demands of 400 women strikers at the Michael Berkowitz Company, shirt manufacturers, which will be presented to the company today, include a stipulation that foremen abstain from using obscene language in the presence of girl workers.

The women walked out a second time Friday. The factory was the scene early in the summer of one of the first of a long list of Pennsylvania strikes.

A strikers' committee met with Jules Lesnick, of Valentine, Pa., sent by Mrs. Gifford Pinchot to help negotiate in the strike, and B. Peppercorn, of Cleveland, a representative of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

They decided to hold out temporarily for a minimum scale of $13 for a 40-hour week and acceptance of the shirt workers' code now before federal authorities. The code provides $16 for a 35-hour week.

Union Glaziers Seek $10.20 Per Day

Union glaziers are demanding continuation of their present wage scale agreement calling for $10.20 a day, Alex J. Thompson, business agent, said today denying statements said to have been made by officials of the Watson Standard Company, wholesale and retail paint and glass concern, that the men were demanding $12.

The company representative said the glaziers have a standing offer to return to work at any time at a wage rate of $7 a day.

Miss Pitt Sees End Of Upholstery Strike

Miss Emmelinne Pitt, local commissioner for thr United States Department of Labor today said a strike of employes at two North Side upholstery plants may end today. Pickets were withdrawn from the Madison Upholstering Company where 50 workers were on strike and a truce declared until Tuesday.

so big that light, traveling 186,000 miles a second, would need 600,000,000 years to cross it, what is the use of arguing about old Jonah?

THE MOST interesting thing about Ingersoll is the fact that his father was a devout clergyman, who hated and denounced human slavery, while telling his congregation that the Creator of the Universe sentenced millions of beings created by himself, to the horrid slavery of hell fire through all eternity.

To young Ingersoll, that seemed unreasonable.

WHILE AMERICA and some other countries TALK about thrift, France practices thrift. Bismarck, after the War of 1870, calculated that France could pay an indemnity of five billion francs—one billion dollars. He was surprised when Frenchmen, largely of the peasant class, subscribed the five billion indemnity loan fourteen times over.

Paris reports that French thrift in the form of currency, and gold and silver hoarding still persists, reaching the huge total of thirty-five billion francs.

Billions of the hoardings are in gold coin, hidden away in boxes, chimneys, mattresses, etc., and largely United States gold coin, which was imported into France by the hundreds of millions of dollars, while France forbade the distribution of gold coins.

Our new rule will stop French collecting of American gold coin, as soon as we have shipped to Paris some $200,000,000 in gold still held here, "earmarked" for France.

'MYSTERY MEN,' ROOSEVELT TO CONFER

President, Eyeing Coal Fields, Accepts Truce In Good Faith

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt is keeping a close watch on the involved monetary and government fiscal problems and has summoned three authorities here for a talk.

He has asked Profs. George Warren, of Cornell, and James H. Rogers, of Yale, the "mystery men," who have been making a secret study at the Capitol, and James Warburg, financial adviser to the London Economic Conference delegation, to meet with him.

The President had planned for the meeting for today, but inability of some of the trio to arrive before tomorrow caused a postponement until then.

Just what the visit is to be about remained as much of a mystery as the purpose of the secret study the professors have made in Washington. They say they cannot discuss it.

Meanwhile, Mr. Roosevelt kept his calendar for the day comparatively free. T. V. Soong, Chinese delegate to the London Conference, and Sao-ke Alfred Sze, the Chinese Minister, were invtied for luncheon.

EYES ON ALL FRONTS

A busy week-end gave the President a full report on the recessed London Economic Conference from Secretary Cordell Hull; a personal talk with Gov. Lehman on New York State affairs, and a summary, of world efforts for wheat production control from Henry Morganthau, Sr., the chairman of the delegation to the Geneva wheat parley.

He also is keeping a close watch on the national voluntary campaign for industrial peace, which he regards as vital to the drive for better times.

Reports from Pennsylvania of doubt over the acceptance of the peace truce in the soft coal war by some of the miners brought no reaction here. Mr. Roosevelt is accepting the truce agreement in good faith. He has put fullest confidence in his board of mediation—Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric; George Berry, president of the Pressmen's Union, and Louis Kirstein, Boston merchant.

COUNTS ON CO-OPERATION

Moreover, he is counting fully upon the voluntary co-operation of national industrial and labor leaders to preserve the peace for all trades.

In his talk with Secretary Hull, the President focused attention upon improved trade relations with other countries, particularly the Western Hemisphere.

He is looking ahead with keen interest to the forthcoming Pan-American parley at Montevideo.

As for the London Economic Conference, Mr. Hull reported that plans for the future were indefinite. However, both Mr. Roosevelt and he are confident of eventual accomplishments there.

They are also looking ahead to individual effort by the United States for new world relations in the event the members of the conference fail again in the fall to get down to real business.

HULL AT HOME DISILLUSIONED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull returned to the Capital today a somewhat disillusioned man.

He still is convinced that the world's principal ailments are high tariffs and other artificial trade barriers—against which he has preached constantly—but under existing circumstances even his buoyant optimism can see no way they can be overcome at this time.

He found in Europe no sincerity equal to his own, no mood to make any sacrifice of any kind. He discovered there is very little use of ever attempting to reconstruct the elaborate framework of the World Economic Conference, for no country in Europe is in a concession-making mood.

Marking his first intimate contact with European diplomacy, it was all very disillusioning.

All this he reported to President Roosevelt over the week-end at Hyde Park, and Mr. Roosevelt assured him that it was "all right."

HUNGER PERILS CHILDREN

UNIONTOWN, Aug. 7.—Undernourishment among the 25,000 Fayette County children threatens the future health of many of them, according to Dr. Charles H. Smith, chairman of the Emergency Child Health Committee here.

Speaking at the meeting of the eleventh councilor district of the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania, he said:

"No county in Pennsylvania has been harder hit than this soft coal community. We have already examined more than 700 children of families on relief and find 50 per cent of them underweight, caused primarily by undernourishment."

He pointed out that his committee had begun a program of practical education teaching mothers of families on relief how to properly cook and prepare the standardized diet provided by the Welfare Committee.

Fugitive

PAUL MAXIN

SUCCESS WON; BACK IN CELL

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—After five years of stolen freedom in which he attained success in the business world, Paul Maxin, 25, returned today to the state reformatory at Mansfield, O., to serve out a one-to-15 year sentence.

Since he walked away from the prison honor farm the youth had completed a university night course in advertising and was advertising director of a paint firm here when arrested. He had been sentenced for stealing a typewriter.

Maxin's employer, R. E. Reardon, said he would make a plea to Gov. White in behalf of the youth.

COAL SHORTAGE PERILS MILLS

The threat to Pittsburgh's steel production due to a shortage of coal grew more pressing today as most of the mines in the district remained closed.

Representatives of the steel industry estimated that there is available a supply to last on an average about 10 days. The miners' strike also affects steel operations in Ohio districts.

The American Steel and Wire Company at Donora has been hauling coal from small mines by truck to keep its plants going. It was reported that these small operations also were closing and the company's production was menaced.

BOY TRAPPED BY TRAIN LEAPS

CHARLEROI, Pa., Aug. 7.—Trapped on the 65-foot high trestle of the P. & W. Va. Railroad in Pricedale, near here, by a fast freight, 12-year-old Nick Pehote jumped and suffered serious injuries last night.

Standing at the doorway of their home, which is close to the scene, Nick's mother, Mrs. Barry Pehote, saw her son leap and rushed him to the hospital.

The boy is suffering two broken legs, a broken right arm, a fractured left shoulder, and a fractured skull, doctors say.

Auto Mishap Kills Bloomfield Woman

Louise Mierzwa, 66, of 4724 Liberty avenue, died today in West Penn Hospital of injuries received in an auto accident near Shippensville, Clarion County, yesterday. The Coroner's office reported that a statement will be taken from the driver, Dr. A. Bianco.

HUNGER STALKS HAVANA AS ALL CUBA STRIKES

Martial Law Looms; Doctors, Druggists To Join Walkout

HAVANA, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—The specter of widespread hunger stalked Havana today as a strike in many industries grew apace and a governmental edict warned that troops would be called out to curb increasing violence if police could not handle the situation.

Eating places closed because a walkout of transportation workers, including United Railways employes, prevented them from getting food. Thousands of food handlers were idle, and housewives were frantic as they saw their supplies diminishing.

Street fights and mob demonstrations resulted in the death of one person and injuries to many.

The Federated Physicians' organization decided to strike tomorrow, and the National Pharmaceutical Association instructed all but a few drug stores to close.

Everywhere the paralyzing strike was called "a passive revolution" or a race between United States Ambassador Sumner Welles' attempts to mediate the troubled political situation and open revolt. In usually reliable circles it was said President Machado would resign, but this was denied at the palace.

THREATEN MARTIAL LAW

Dr. Octavio Zubizarreta, Secretary of the Interior, announced the government would use military forces if police failed to put down lawlessness. The President prepared to call a special congressional session seeking authority to suspend constitutional guarantees and invoke martial law.

Cintura Alonso, 27, was killed, and three persons, one of them an 11-year-old boy, were seriously hurt as they stood on a street corner and were shot at by three men who sped past in an automobile containing a sub-machine gun.

Anatole Tomaselli, Italian charge d'affairs, who investigated the shooting of Giovanni Minervine, 31, an Italian, said occupants of police cars were involved.

POLICEMAN STONED

In suburban Marianao a crowd stoned a policeman. Several persons were injured here when police charged into a group of strikers trying to collect food supplies. Salvador Rodriguez, a chauffeur, told Welles he saw a policeman shooting Francisco Herrera, 17, who was among a group of strikers stopping a milk truck. Herrera was seriously wounded.

Unidentified persons cut telephone lines to nearby Los Pinos. In Santiago the military supervisor and soldiers broke up a meeting of street car men and clubbed five or six of them. In Camaguey a meeting of employes of the Consolidated Railways was suspended by the militia. It was said the railwaymen had expected to declare for joining the strike. Another meeting was set for today.

Transportation facilities were stopped by the walkout of United Railway Workers. Bus and taxi drivers, who began the movement more than a week ago by their demands for lower operating fees, were still out.

THE BUTCHER, THE BAKER . . .

Among the latest groups to join the strike were butchers, barbers, messenger boys, truck drivers, dairymen, bakers, reporters, laundrymen, gasoline dealers, grocerymen, factory workers, and many others in the strikes were waiters, bartenders, hotel workers, and garbage collectors. News papers suspended publication.

Meanwhile, liberal leaders from all parts of the island were summoned to attend a meeting tonight when, it is expected, a mediatory program will be discussed and approved.

The mixed commission working with Ambassador Welles on the constitutional reform program, one delegate said, had agreed on a four-year presidential term, with no provision for re-election. The terms of representatives would be four years, with senators elected for eight. The action of Liberal leaders in accepting a cut in congressmen's terms was said to have removed the last obstacle to immediate submission of the reform program to Congress.

Police Pistols Rusty, McQuaide Opens School

Pittsburgh police must become sharpshooters, Supt. of Police Franklin T. McQuaide decreed today.

McQuaide announced a ballistic school conducted by City Detective William T. McCready, former world champion police pistol shot, will be opened soon.

McCready will instruct a group of picked men from each station, and they, in turn, will instruct their fellow patrolmen:

McQuaide said:

"I am tired of seeing policemen with revolvers only as ornaments. Some haven't used their revolvers in years. A lot of service pistols are so corroded I doubt if they would discharge if someone pulled the trigger."

CONSTABLE KILLS MAN TO SAVE CHILD'S HOSPITAL FUND

SLAYS FIGURE IN LINDBERGH KIDNAP CASE

Extortion Suspect Tried to Rob Him, Officer Says

The bullets that killed a figure in an aftermath of the Lindbergh kidnaping case may have saved the life of a Springdale child.

Deputy Constable Roy T. Hirtle, of Springdale, who early yesterday shot John Sonnie, 24, of Greensburg, revealed today that he fired to save $250 he had borrowed for an operation on his small daughter.

Hirtle claims, according to a report to the Coroner, Sonnie threatened him with a revolver, but no gun was found at the scene of the shooting.

Before dying at Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington, Sonnie moaned he didn't have a gun—only a wrench, it is said. His brother Carl, being held for questioning by county detectives, who took him to the hospital, also asserts his brother was armed only with a wrench.

SEARCH FOR GUN

County detectives Harry Barker and John Duderstadt are searching for the missing gun. Pending the completion of their investigations, and in view of the conflicting accounts of the shooting, Hirtle is being held under $2,500 bond by James L. Davidson, chief clerk to Coroner W. J. McGregor.

Sonnie was questioned in May, 1932, by federal authorities in connection with the writing of a letter asking $35,000 from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh for the return of his kidnaped son. He was arrested then in Nebraska.

Patrolling lonely Riddle Run road in search of bandits preying on petting parties, early yesterday, Hirtle related, he pulled his machine from the side of the road when Sonnie jumped from some bushes and said:

"Stick 'em up!"

FIRES TWICE

Reaching for his back pocket as if to get his money, Hirtle said he whipped out his revolver and fired twice, both shots hitting Sonnie. Hirtle said the money he carried was to save his daughter's life in a hospital.

Excited after the shooting, he drove to the Springdale Police Station for assistance. Patrolman Harry Lloyd accompanied him back to the scene, where they found no one.

A check of hospitals revealed Sonnie had been received at the Citizens' General Hospital at New Kensington. Wounded twice in the chest, he died three hours after the shooting.

AUSTRIA SENDS TROOPS TO BORDER

Charge Germans With Ambushing and Killing Guard

International News Service.

VIENNA, Aug. 7.—The official Austrian news agency today circulated the following dispatch:

"An Austrian auxiliary policeman named Michael Schwaninger was shot dead this morning near Kufstein in the Tyrol while patrolling the Bavarian frontier.

"Fifteen uniformed Germans from Bavarian territory ambushed Schwaninger and a comrade.

"Austrian troops have been sent to the border. A diplomatic protest is forthcoming."

Britain, France Charge Nazis Violate Treaty

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Violation of the spirit of the four-power peace pact was charged against Germany today by Great Britain and France.

In a move that left the Reich surprised and perturbed, the French and British ambassadors protested to the government of Chancellor Hitler on the following three points:

1—Distributing Nazi propaganda by radio.

2—Violating Austria's sovereignty in the air.

PROTESTS SUBMITTED

Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet, of France, and the British charge d'affairs handed the memorandums to Foreign Minister Baron Constantin von Neurath. They were reported to have informed him the points were contrary to the spirit of the four-power pact.

The protests were prompted by the alleged action of German airplanes in flying over Austrian territory, dropping Nazi leaflets, as well as by the propaganda campaign carried on by Nazi wireless stations.

Italy did not join in today's protest but reliable information stated the Italian Ambassador lodged a verbal representation with the German government last week.

RADIO EDITOR SHIPWRECK HERO

Pittsburgher's Yacht Rescues Victim At Sea

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—John Chester Vaden, 24-year-old member of Yale's 1927 swimming team, and three others were rescued in a Long Island Sound shipwreck yesterday in which a frightened fourth companion drowned and Vaden was hailed as a hero. The rescued youths had been from at least six to nine hours in the water.

Vaden and his 15-year-old brother, Alan; Stanley Nelson, of New York, Gilbert Sharkey, of Brooklyn, and Edward Jay, also of New York, who lost his life, set out in a 32-foot sloop late last night from Milford, Conn., for Greenport, L. I., a sail of little more than 10 miles.

SLOOP CAPSIZES

The craft had made little progress when a squall capsized it, throwing all into the water.

Jay, an inexperienced swimmer, was a co-worker with Vaden, who is assistant radio editor of the New York American.

Vaden and his younger brother raced through, beating seas, to seize and hold up Jay. Each had a share in holding him up, but the heavy going and the terror Jay had of holding the others back in what he seemed to realize was a fight for life finally overcame him.

BREAKS FROM RESCUERS

Jay screamed, struck out at the Vadens, they related, wriggled free of their grasp and sank before he could be reached.

Realizing the grave situation, Chester Vaden pointed out they were within sight of land and quieted their fears. Finally they were separated by the seas and Nelson aid Sharkey were picked up about 11:30 a. m. by a craft of Lavater C. White, of Englewood, N. J. Both were suffering from exhaustion.

An alarm was spread and an hour later Alan Vaden was rescued by the Solana, owned by W. C. Robinson, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

At 2:20 p. m. the Onwego, of George L. Bourne, of New York, picked up Chester Vaden while he was swimming toward Port Jefferson, Long Island. The four were reunited at Stratford, Conn.

Society Girls, Escorts Fight Sea After Boat Capsizes

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Four members of prominent and wealthy families of the fashionable Prouts Neck summer colony and two Yale graduates swam a mile in choppy seas to shore when their sailboat capsized today.

Miss Elizabeth Payson, one of the six, swam ashore with her brother, George, after he had become exhausted fighting the seas.

Others in the party were Miss F. Evelyn Parker, Miss Paula Walton and "Buck" Carter and Maurice Everett, of New York, the latter Yale graduates.

PRIZE FIGHTER SHOT DURING CAFE BRAWL

Nebraskan 'Wildcat,' On Punching Spree Floored by Bullets

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Ace Hudkins, dubbed the "Nebraska Wildcat" by boxing fans, is in a hospital with two pistol slugs in his chest received in what police described as a cafe brawl.

Physicians said his condition was serious, but not critical. He goes on the operating table today in surgeons' efforts to remove the bullets, one of which lodged in the right upper lobe of his lung, and stop a hemorrhage.

Hudkins embarked on his most recent night club fistic celebration, witnesses told police, when he with several friends arrived at the cafe in an openly belligerent mood. The middleweight, whose fists still carry weight in spite of lack of training, punched a few of the patrons for a warm-up.

As the proprietor, R. H. Harris, asked Hudkins to take his fights outside, the witnesses said, Hudkins decided to show him "how to run his place."

THE GUNS POP

Police were told that the boxer pulled a gun from his pocket and brandished it in the face of Harris.

Harris, alarmed, drew a gun at the same moment and fired. Hudkins pitched to the floor, face down, while patrons fled to the street.

The cafe proprietor fired only twice. The one slug, of small caliber, entered the lung. The other ranged downward into the pelvic cavity.

A favorite with fight fans throughout the country, Hudkins used to boast in and out of the ring that he could "take it." In Los Angeles he has been a ring attraction since he came here as a youngster from Nebraska in 1924.

KNOCKED OUT FOR 8 DAYS

He fought Tommy O'Brien in the first open air feature bout here under the 10-round boxing law in 1925, climbing up the fistic grade to become middleweight challenger and battled most of the good men in his division. Wesley Ketchell, left-hander, beat Hudkins in his last fight, a 10-round bout at the Olympic Auditorium a few months ago.

He has been arrested several times on drinking or street fighting charges. In one instance Leonard T. Parks testified Hudkins hit him so hard he did not wake up for eight days. Parks has a $50,000 damage suit pending against the boxer. An impromptu workout with police last year in down-town Los Angeles cost Hudkins a fine.

LINDY REVEALS AIR FINDINGS

ANGMAGSALIK, Greenland, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Giving the first summary of the results of his extensive survey flights along Greenland's coasts and across her barren icecap, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today predicted regular mail flying across the Atlantic within two years. He said:

"Regular mail flying from the United States to Europe over the North Atlantic routes I have surveyed will begin within the next two years. I have found there are three suitable landing places on each side of Greenland."

Col. Lindbergh's companion on all of his hazardous flights over the northern routes has been his wife. She has served as his radio operator. Today the couple were preparing to push on to Reykjavik, Iceland, for further surveys.

Weather Conditions.

A low pressure area is centered over Western Ontario, north of the Great Lakes, and extends down over the upper lakes and the upper Mississippi Valley. It is causing cloudy weather over that section and light rainfall in the central plains, and central Mississippi Valley and northward to the upper lakes. Elsewhere the skies are mostly clear. High pressure overlies the Atlantic seaboard, and the Rocky Mountain states. Temperature changes were towards rising over the eastern portion of the country since yesterday morning, and towards cooler over the West. High maximum temperatures occurred yesterday over the central plains. The highest reported is 104 degrees at Concordia, Kan.

UNTERMYER TO PUSH BOYCOTT

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Back home to a triumphal reception, Samuel Untermyer today plunged into the organization of a national movement, as voted by the Jewish boycott conference in Amsterdam, for the banning of all German products.

The noted lawyer presided over the Amsterdam conference, called to launch punitive measures against the Hitler regime for the persecution of Jews in Germany, and was elected president of the World Jewish Economic Federation formed to prosecute the boycott.

Before a crowd of 3,000 assembled at the pier to welcome him on his arrival aboard the Paris, Untermyer made a brief address. He said:

"I have seen and talked with many terror-stricken refugees from Germany, who had the the good fortune to escape over the border, though forced to leave their property behind them, and I want to say that nothing that has seeped to you through the rigid censorship and lying propaganda at work to conceal and misrepresent the situation of Jews in Germany begins to tell a fraction of the frightful story of fiendish torture, cruelty and persecution inflicted day by day upon these men, women and children, or the terrors in which they are living."

MOTHER KILLED IN 'CHUTE JUMP

AURORA, Ill., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ruth York, 24, mother of two small children, was killed yesterday before a crowd of 10,000 persons in an attempted parachute jump from an airplane at 2,500 feet altitude.

The parachute did not open, observers said.

Mrs. York had made several previous jumps from balloons, but essayed her first leap from a plane when a balloon in which two young women were to make an ascension as feature event of a lodge picnic burst into flames while being filled with heated air.

The victim was a divorcee.

CZECH LEADER FLAYS HITLER

The nations of Europe are looking to America for help in the economic crisis, according to Dr. Franz Soukup, Socialist president of the Czechoslovakian Senate and the official representative of that government to the Chicago World's Fair.

Dr. Soukup, 68, spoke under the auspices of the Socialist Party of Allegheny County at a reception and dinner held in his honor at the Y. M. & W. H. A., Bellefield avenue, Oakland, last night.

He attacked the Hitler movement in Germany, declaring that the Nazi "terror" cannot last.

Dr. Soukup predicted that Germany, under Hitler rule, will not pay her war debts.

Briton in Iceland On Ocean Flight

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—John Grierson, British flier, arrived here this afternoon from the Faroe Islands on his flight by easy stages from England to New York.

29 Nazis Marched Up Mountain to Erase Swastika

INNSBRUCK, Austria, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Twenty-seven Nazis were arrested here yesterday and marched under armed escort to a mountain where they were compelled to climb a cliff and remove a huge Swastika emblem painted at an altitude of 6,000 feet.

The action was taken under a recent decree making all

DEATH TAKES ELISHA LEE

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—A heart attack has taken the life of Elisha Lee, noted railroad executive. Lee, who was 63, dropped dead last night just after he had alighted from a train that brought him from Saratoga, N. Y.

He was vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and during the war was federal manager of the road's eastern lines under the United States Railroad Administration.

With him at the time were Mr. and Mrs. Leon Merz, of Jenkintown, Pa., and Dr. Max F. Herman, of Philadelphia.

During his 40 years with the railroad, he rose from rodman to vice president. Born in Chicago, educated at Binghamton (N. Y.) schools and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he held successively these positions:

Rodman; superintendent of the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad, a Penn subsidiary; assistant general manager of the Pennsylvania Lines East of Pittsburgh; vice president in charge of the Central Region Lines; vice president in charge of operations; vice president. He took a prominent part in relations between the road and its employes.

Balbo Flight Waits Supply Movement

SHOAL HARBOR, Newfoundland, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Gen. Italo Balbo was ready today to lead his air squadron of 24 seaplanes back to Italy via the Azores as soon as his supply ships have completed arrangements along the route.

Preparations here have been completed, and the pilots of the armada are waiting impatiently for word to resume the flight. The takeoff probably will be Wednesday or Thursday.

SUITOR CALLS AND ENDS LIFE

CHARLEROI, Pa., Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Howard Rowe, 34-year-old unemployed electrician, was dead here today, his body discovered when police forced their way into the bedroom of a married woman to whom he had allegely been attentive.

Mrs. Albert Parent, 30, mother of several children, told police Rowe came to her home last night apparently in a drunken condition. She advised him to sleep several hours, she said, and he walked into the adjoining bedroom and locked the door.

A few seconds later she heard a shot. Neighbors called police, who forced the door. Mrs. Parent has been separated from her husband, police said.

SH-SH! MULHALL IN WRONG FLAT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Jack Mulhall, actor, and Charles E. Frederick, aviator, sauntered into an apartment in nearby Santa Monica Canyon early Sunday. It was the right apartment house, but they got into the wrong flat and, police records relate, into the wrong boudoir.

Mrs. Morris Fine sat up in bed and screamed. Mr. Morris Fine answered the summons. Mrs. N. Martin, Mrs. Fine's sister, also answered the summons. Mulhall was unperturbed. As related by Fine, the story continued:

The actor cautioned:

Mr. Morris Fine exploded:

"What the ——"

Mulhall came directly to the point, asking:

"Are you a Russian?"

Fine was indignant.

Whereupon Mulhall swung on Fine's jaw.

The actor and Frederick pleaded innocent to a charge of suspicion of battery and asked for a jury trial when their case comes up, August 31.

Frederick said he and Mulhall had imbibed a bit before they made the call.

Oakdale Death Case Reopened by Coroner

Coroner W. J. McGregor today ordered reopening of the case of Julius Siorski, 45, Oakdale feed merchant, who died July 28. A coroner's jury found last Saturday that Siorski committed suicide while temporarily insane by leaping from a third floor doorway of his place of business.

Counsel for Siorski's family today declared there were no witnesses and contended Siorski's death was accidental. Evidence will be reheard tomorrow.

MUSICIAN SLAIN DURING PARTY

BURLINGAME, Cal., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—The death of Fortune Nelson (Bunny) Burson, 33-year old San Francisco orchestra leader, from injuries allegedly received in a party fight at the home of his fiancee was recorded by police here today as "a matter for the Coroner's Jury."

Acting Chief of Police Jack Theuer, who placed a technical charge of manslaughter against Richard Chilcott, 21, of Atherton, a former junior college football star, said the investigation was closed.

Chilcott, who police said engaged in the fight with Burson early yesterday, while the latter's fiancee, Miss Frances Biddison, 23, looked on, was released on his own recognizance.

Burson was found lying dead by police across a barbecue pit in the garden of Miss Biddison's home. Guests at the party told authorities the fight climaxed a quarrel during which Burson struck Chilcott on the head with a beer bottle.

MANY MILLIONS DISTRIBUTED TO HOME OWNERS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Millions of dollars' worth of Home Owners Loan Corporation certificates were being distributed today in the initial move of the government to relieve the plight of the heavily mortgaged home owner.

Bonds of the corporation will be exchanged for mortgages up to 80 per cent of the value of the incumbered property. The bonds are of 18 years maturity and bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent, guaranteed by the government.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing is engaged in printing the bonds. The certificates, which will be in the hands of all Home Owners Loan Corporation state managers this week may be exchanged for bonds when the latter are available.

SPEEDY AID DESIRED

It was explained that the Home Loan Bank Board desired to immediately relieve the situation and did not feel the delay that would be occasioned by waiting for the printing of the bonds would be justified.

While there have been reports from many sections of the country that insurance companies and other large holders of home mortgages would not accept the bonds in exchange for mortgages, officials were hopeful this attitude would not prevail generally.

It was pointed out that the insurance companies hold a relatively small percentage of the outstanding home mortgages. Chairman William F. Stevenson insisted the relief plan would be a success without the co-operation of the insurance companies, although he was of the opinion they would exchange a portion of their mortgages for bonds.

CASH LOANS AVAILABLE

In addition to the exchange system the board has available $200,000,000 for cash loans on homes. However, only 40 per cent of the value of the property may be advanced in cash.

Home loan officials said every effort would be made by the state managers to expedite action to carry out the purpose of the law. Appraisals of property will be made promptly and other necessary red tape reduced to the minimum. By the end of August it was anticipated the new system would be functioning at full speed.

EXCHANGE BOMB SUSPECT AT THE BAR

EUGENE S. DANIELL, JR., (CENTER) BEING BOOKED AT POLICE HEADQUARTERS IN N. Y.

Daniell, 28-year-old Harvard law graduate and collegiate wrestler following his arrest in connection with the placing of tear gas bombs in the ventilating system of the New York Stock Exchange which drove members and employes to the street and forced suspension of trading after noon on Friday. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

MARKET BOMB WITNESS FOUND

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—When Eugene S. Daniell, Jr., Harvard graduate and Boston lawyer, is arraigned tomorrow charged with "gassing" the New York Stock Exchange, police are planning to produce an eye-witness.

Police Commissioner Bolan would make no comment today on his evidence against the self-assured, defiant young Bostonian, but the fact the witness had been found was revealed in a police affidavit on which he was seized.

Detectives were trying to trace the origin of the two tear gas bombs which were placed under the intake valve of the exchange's ventilating system last Friday, flooding the exchange floor with fumes so acrid that traders were in tears and trading was halted for the remainder of the session.

It was believed by police, Daniell, 26, and a leader of an anti-capitalist party in Boston, bought the bombs and hid them in the intake valve. To all direct questions on the bombs, he avoided any direct answer and went to the Tombs with a smile when his bail was fixed at $10,000.

PROF. HOLBROOK COAL CODE AIDE

Dean E. A. Holbrook, of the school of engineering and the school of mines, University of Pittsburgh, will leave for Washington tonight to assume his duties of technical advisor to the conferences on formation of a national bituminous coal code which begins Wednesday.

He was advised of his selection to the post late Saturday.

Immediately after receiving the appointment he conferred with Chancellor John G. Bowman, who granted him leave of absence from the university.

Dean Holbrook was head of the United States Bureau of Mines here in 1919 and 1920, and assistant director of the same bureau in Washington from 1920 to 1922. He came to the University of Pittsburgh in 1927.

Western Electric Grants Pay Boost

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—The Western Electric Company announced today an 11 per cent increase in wages and salaries of 15,000 employes, effective as of August 1.

The announcement said the company had signed the President's re-employment agreement under the Industrial Recovery Act and had granted the pay rise to all hourly rated employes and to salaried employes receiving up to $3,240 annually.

REFUSE TROOPS IN MILK WAR

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Declaring that he had no intention of calling out the National Guard, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman sent telegrams to the Sheriffs of the 57 up-state counties in New York state today directing them to appoint as many deputies as they need to quell milk strike disturbances.

The Governor previously had sent a similar order to the Sheriffs of 12 counties where violence had occurred.

Today's order was given after a conference with Adjt. Gen. Franklin W. Ward, commanding the New York National Guard, but, the Governor said, the possibility of calling out the National Guard was not discussed.

The Governor made this declaration after being informed that some National Guard units appeared to be mobilizing.

U. S. CONSIDERS PRICE-FIXING ON OIL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—A price-fixing arrangement for the oil industry, with consumers of gasoline and other petroleum products protected against excessive prices, was considered today by the administration.

Powerful groups, representing a big numerical majority of the producing companies, demanded price-fixing as an essential to any industrial code that might be adopted.

A final draft of the code was being prepared. It engaged the attention of Secretary of the Interior Ickes; Hugh S. Johnson, Industrial Recovery administrator; Philip Kemp, deputy administrator; the "committee of 15," representing producers and refiners; the "committee of nine," speaking for the market end of the industry, and the "committee of five," which drafted the labor provisions.

Several different plans to stabilize prices were subjected to critical analysis. The one most discussed involved the "pegging" of crude oil in relationship to retail gasoline. Influential oil men in some instances held out for a flat minimum price on crude, varied according to grade.

The price-fixing bloc was led by K. R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil Company of California. The opposition was led by Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Only a few minor differences with respect to wages and working hours remained to be composed.

Coal Code Hearing Features NRA Schedule

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Featured by hearings on the bituminous coal industry code, scheduled for Wednesday, the NRA has announced the following dates for hearings:

August 7—Corsets and brassiers and wall paper.

August 8—Lime.

August 9—Bituminous coal.

August 10—Outerwear, knitting machinery and braiding and wire covering, legitimate theaters and hosiery.

August 14—Salt and fishing tackle.

August 15—Retail trade stores except food and groceries.

August 22—Dress manufacturing, postponed from August 10.

FORECAST BOOM IN TOMBSTONES

Cemetery monuments are in no danger of being superseded by plaques flush with the ground, in the opinion of T. O. Collier, of Plainview, Tex., national president of the Memorial Craftsmen of America, whose twenty-eighth national convention opens in William Penn Hotel tomorrow.

In fact, the tombstone of tomorrow will be "more artistic and express the individuality of a person more than it has ever done in the past," according to Collier, who has completed a survey of the industry from Texas to Pennsylvania.

Meanwhile the monument business is improving in line with the general industrial recovery, Collier said. He emphasized the importance to the public of a tentative code to be discussed Wednesday night, wiping out "all misleading statements concerning monuments."

STATE GRANTED ROAD FUND

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Assignments of allotments from public works funds for road work in Pennsylvania, Illinois and New Jersey were announced today by the Public Works Administration.

Pennsylvania's allotment of $18,891,004 provides $5,750,000 for work on the federal aid highway system, $5,420,000 on extensions of the system into and through municipalities, and $7,720,000 on secondary or feeder roads.

The money will expended in all 67 counties in the state.

Illinois' allotment is $17,570,000 and New Jersey's $6,346,039.

SISTER, 4, SLAIN, BOY, 16, FLEES

BRONSON, Mich., Aug. 7.—(INS.)—A terrified 16-year-old farm boy was sought by State Police and sheriffs throughout Southern Michigan today after he shot and killed his 4-year-old sister.

Authorities believe the shooting was an accident. But unaware of this, the boy, Walter Killian, fled from his farm home near here a few minutes after he brought the bleeding body of his sister into the house and laid it in his mother's arms.

Mrs. Anthony Killian said: "He didn't say anything. He just put Dorothy in my arms."

State Police pressed their search fearing the boy might commit suicide under the impression that he was sought for murder.

I can't help feeling that "Toasting" makes a difference

I do not treat my choice of a cigarette lightly... for, as with other little niceties of life, my cigarette is a matter of intimate concern with me. After all, I do place my cigarette between my lips! And so, when I say "Luckies Please" —I am paying a tribute to that immaculate feeling I have when smoking a Lucky. And that is my own individual reason for saying "Luckies Please!"

—because "It's toasted"

DRIVE TO WIN FOREIGNERS FOR NRA OPENS

A drive to counteract the work of agitators among Pittsburgh's foreign language population and to unite this group behind the President's blanket re-employment code was launched today at the request of NRA in Washington.

At the same time, Fred C. Haller, chairman of the Western Pennsylvania Bakers' Association, representing 1,500 bakers in the tri-sate area, announced a meeting tonight in the Chamber of Commerce to air complaints that some bakers are violating their NRA agreements.

OTHERS TO SIGN

Two hundred additional bakers will sign the blanket recovery pledge immediately if the National Recovery Administration sends a telegram authorizing them to proceed under the blanket code with certain modifications, according to Haller. He was confident such a telegram would be received some time today.

At a meeting this morning in the Chamber of Commerce building V. L. Alski, publisher of the Pittsburgh Polish Daily, was elected chairman of a committee on foreign language action to work with the Chamber's general recovery campaign committee.

OUTLINES OBJECTIVES

He outlined the two principal objectives of the group's work as:

"1—Get the people to understand what the government is trying to accomplish.

"2—Convince them they should trust the government and not the agitators."

B. F. Gunther will serve as executive secretary of the committee and will maintain an office at the Chamber of Commerce. From here a campaign of lectures, press releases and appeals in the churches will be conducted.

LOUVRE DENIES 'MONA' IS FAKE

PARIS, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—The Mona Lisa in the Louvre is the real Mona Lisa, museum officials emphatically declared today when asked about a London newspaper statement that the original of Da Vinci's masterpiece is in the hands of an Algerian picture dealer. A high authority said:

"This is about the eighth similar circumstantial story that the original is still missing, but there isn't the slightest doubt as to the authenticity of the world's most celebrated painting."

He added that photographs, minute descriptions by experts and a mass of similar evidence collected prior to the theft of the Mona Lisa, in August, 1911, enabled experts definitely to prove the identity of the canvas recovered in Florence in December, 1913.

The newspaper statement was attributed to a man described as one of the thieves who once stole the picture.

Trolley Line Sale To Employes O.K.'d

MARTINS FERRY, O., Aug. 7.—Sale of the Wheeling Traction Company property to the Co-operative Transit Company, formed by 200 employes of the Wheeling Traction Company, was approved today by Federal Judge B. W. Hough. The new concern is headed by Harry B. McCune, former Pittsburgh, who was general manager while the Wheeling company was in receivership.

Museum to Hunt Largest Moose In Alaska

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—The world's largest moose is to be hunted for the Academy of Natural Sciences in the wild regions of Kenai Peninsula, Alaska.

Headed by Nicholas Biddle, an expidition will leave here next Monday for Seattle, whence it will go to Seward and then by pack train into the domain of the Kenai moose, said to be the largest species of moose in the world and to have a six-foot antler spread.

KANSAS FLOOD LOSS HEAVY

SCOTT CITY, Kan., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Flood waters, which swept over sections of Western Kansas Saturday, causing one death, had receded today leaving in their wake unestimated damage to property and losses in livestock.

Cloudbursts in Eastern Colorado and extreme Western Kansas sent ordinarily dry streams in Wallace, Greeley, Wichita and Scott counties on a rampage. Normal service was resumed yesterday on the Union Pacific Railroad after section crews had replaced a mile of track in Wallace County.

A portion of the dam in the Scott County State Park, north of here, gave way.

Maurice Emmons, editor of the Greeley County Republican at Tribune, Kan., drowned Saturday after he had helped rescue Mr. and Mrs. Ed Miller from their ranch home.

U. S. GUNBOAT SENT TO AMOY

AMOY, China, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—American consular advices said today that Rear Admiral Montgomery Meigs Taylor commander-in-chief of the United States Asiatic Fleet, has ordered the U. S. gunboat Fulton here to protect Americans in the event Chinese Communist depredations near Lungyen extend to Amoy.

Chinese reports from Lungyen, in Southern Kiangsi province, were that fierce fighting between Communists and Gen. Tsai Ting-Kai's 19th Route Army was going on, with the result that foreign missionaries in the area were forced to evacuate to Amoy.

Admiral Taylor is now aboard the flagship Houston at Tsingtao, in Northeast China. The Fulton was stationed at Foochow, capital of Fukien province, in which Amoy, a seaport, is located. Fukien is in Southeastern China.

Japanese Troops Withdraw to Wall

PEIPING, China, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—After nearly three months occupation of the Lwan area in North China the Japanese army today completed its retirement to the Great Wall.

Kuomintang (the Nanking government party) colors displaced Japan's rising sun flag throughout the evacuated territory.

HOUSEWIVES! LAST CALL FOR LINENS, BEDDING, DOMESTICS

At Depression Low Prices

It's too late for your HUSBANDS to buy Bethlehem Steel at a low of 10⅛ or A.T.&T. at 70¼! YOU get a "break" though. While quantities last at Gimbels, YOU can still buy YOUR linen and bedding stocks at depression lows.

BECAUSE Gimbels (being very far-sighted) has on their shelves thousands of dollars worth of fresh, clean domestics, linens and bedding.

BECAUSE Gimbels is particularly well stocked with COTTONS which after August 30th will be subject to a government process tax* of 4.044 cents per pound.

BECAUSE raw cotton, linen and wool are daily rising higher in price.

BECAUSE manufacturers' production costs have tripled and doubled with the National Recovery Act in force, which means that we must soon mark these goods more.

BECAUSE after these stocks are sold there will truly be no more Bedding, Domestics or Linens at such low prices. This is our LAST GREAT SALE AT DEPRESSION LOWS.

This process tax means an increase in price of approximately 7c on every sheet to say nothing of the increased manufacturing costs which will have to be added.*

U. S. LAUNCHES 'BUY NOW' CAMPAIGN

helping to destroy the business of the men who are paying more for help; you are aiding those who refuse to do so."

The "buy now" campaign had been in contemplation for some time. But for a while the Recovery Administration feared production was increasing too fast for purchasing power—that more goods were being manufactured than could be bought.

Temporary agreements with the President to raise pay and shorten hours, pending development of permanent codes of fair competition with the same objective, were offered business and industry.

Yesterday, Johnson looked over the score sheet. He found five industries—cotton textiles, coats and suits, shipbuilding, electrical manufacturing and woolen textiles, each employing thousands—operating under permanent codes.

He found 26 other groups working additional thousands, functioning under the temporary agreements. That was enough, he concluded, so he sent his first "buy now" message to a Cleveland mass meeting.

Continuing through the week, speakers will emphasize that same message. Through their pleas will run this line spoken by Johnson:

"Turn your money into things because, almost before you can draw a breath, the things you want will be worth more than the money you can save by not buying."

ROOSEVELT PROMISE

In today's picture there also was a personal promise by President Roosevelt to businessmen who have contracts with the government that the contracts would be adjusted to allow for rising prices. In a statement issued through the Recovery Administration, the President said:

"Wherever adjustments can be made under existing law, I shall recommend that they be made. In other cases I shall recommend that the next Congress, meeting in January, 1934, take action giving authority to the executive departments to provide for recompensing such buyers who have in good faith and wholeheartedly co-operated with the administration of the National Industrial Recovery Act."

He asked that governors, mayors and other chiefs of local governments take similar action.

To retailers making local agreements to cut hours of operation, Johnson sent a warning that they must take care or lose the Blue Eagle.

Their temporary code, he reminded, was approved with the understanding that the average hours of retail store operation should be kept around 63. He said:

"The proposal to shorten hours is in violation of the President's re-employment agreement. Reconsideration of the provisions of the (temporary) retail codes and possible withdrawal of insignia will be necessary immediately if community or concerted action to shorten store operating hours is taken."

DISTANCE RACE OPENS PICNIC

Anthony Mazzei, of Homestead, won the marathon race, first event on the athletic program of the Homestead district picnic at Kennywood Park this morning. Mike Gornick, of Whitaker, was second and John L. Lesko was third. The course began at the West Homestead Municipal Building. Fifteen men started, but only eight finished.

The picnic, attended by people from Homestead, West Homestead, Whitaker, Lincoln Place, Munhall, Hays and Mifflin Township, continues all day, with 36 athletic events scheduled.

An exhibition in the pool by Lenore Kight, swimming champion, and other girl swimmers and divers of the famous Homestead Library team this afternoon, will be followed by a baby contest.

The beauty contest, with the girls in evening gowns and sports dresses will be held at 7 o'clock tonight.

Bank Closing Work Fatal for Judge

HAMMOND, Ind., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Judge Clyde Cleveland, 44, of Hammond Superior Court, is dead of an illness believed to have been precipitated by the nervous strain of administering receiverships of closed banks here.

Born at Sullivan, Ind., he became a Republican leader of county and state and an intimate friend of former Gov. Leslie and United States Senator Arthur Robinson.

Woman, 77, Killed By Hit-Run Auto

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Mrs. Nellie Hasnelink, 77, died in a hospital yesterday, the victim of a hit-and-run motorist.

She was struck as she sought to cross a busy street Saturday night.

Horses Rescued As Fire Sweeps Barn

Horses and pigs were rescued from a barn destroyed by fire on the property of Joseph Rudolph in Geyer road, Reserve Township, today. A corner of the Rudolph house also was damaged.

HERE'S THAT NRA SMILE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT . . . CHEERED BY NATION'S RESPONSE

The Chief Executive vacationing at his Hyde Park (N. Y.) home dispaying his infectious smile as reports came to him of stores and plants throughout the country hanging out the blue-eagle emblem of the National Industrial Recovery Administration. Bombing in Brittany Laid to Autonomists

RENNES, France, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—A bomb exploded in front of the city hall here today. It was believed to have been thrown by autonomists upon the occasion of the first anniversary of the dynamiting of the great bas-relief statue symbolizing the union of Brittany, the extreme western part of France, with France in 1532.

NRA Publicity Plane Gives Chicago Thrill

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—A plane, flying under Department of Commerce permit, employed the art of skywriting last night to attract attention to the National Recovery Administration program.

Flying over the Chicago lake front, it dipped close to the water, giving the appearance that it was on fire.

U. S. TO ALLOW PRICE TILT ON CONTRACTS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Adjustment of all contracts between the United States government and concerns dealing with the government, to conform to the national recovery program was pledged today by President Roosevelt.

He said where authority did not exist in specific cases he would ask the next Congress for such power. He urged Governors of states and civic and municipal authorities to take similar steps.

The plan is to allow a higher range of prices from the government on all contracts where the costs of production have altered the basis on which the original deal was entered, due to working of Recovery Act code provisions of higher wages and increased cost of materials.

The government has led private firms to make such adjustments between themselves. The President's statement, issued from his summer home, but made public by Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery Administrator, read in part:

"It has been brought to my attention that in many instances hardship may be imposed upon employers who sign the President's agreement, or come under the codes of fair competition which are approved, who have previously made contracts with the government to supply goods or services at fixed prices which may be inadequate in view of increased costs caused by shortening hours or increasing wages in compliance with agreements or codes.

"The policy of the administration was stated in the statement which I issued upon signing the National Industrial Recovery Act urging 'those having benefits of these forward bargains, contracted before the law was passed to take the initiative in revising them to absorb some share of the increase in their supplies' costs thus raised in the public interest.'"

Finger Gun Stunt Captures Burglar

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—(AP.)—Tussling with a Negro who broke into his apartment, a physician subdued him early today with a cry of "hands up"—and it worked, although it was only a finger which the doctor jabbed into the invader's ribs.

Dr. Mark T. Boyd held his prisoner with his back turned to the "pistol" until help came from another apartment. The Negro was booked as William Bender, 21.

'One Job Only' for One Person Urged As Slogan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt and Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery Administrator, were asked by Representative Cochran (Dem.), of Missouri, yesterday to urge employers throughout the country to adopt the slogan, "Only one job for every person."

Cochran, in his communication to the President, said the chief offender in permitting persons to hold two jobs was the government itself, adding that hundreds of government employes "deprive others of work by accepting employment after government working hours." He said:

"Stenographers and clerks are known to immediately report in lunchrooms, where they are employed during the supper hours, while messengers and porters in the employ of the government have positions running elevators and doing other work around apartment houses and hotels."

BID TO WALSH DENIED HERE

Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, was reported in the anomalous position today of having declined an invitation to speak in Pittsburgh in behalf of the National Recovery Administration that was never issued here.

At his home in Clinton, Mass., the Senator revealed Saturday he had been requested through the administration at Washington to fill a speaking engagement here. He declined because of "pressure of business."

Some political observers chose to interpret his statement as a snub to the Roosevelt administration for his failure to make headway in obtaining federal patronage.

Frank Harper, secretary-manager of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, informed of Walsh's announcement, said the general campaign committee on NRA here had not invited the Senator to speak.

Bakers to Discuss NRA Codes Tonight

A meeting of bakery owners and managers to discuss plans for co-operating with the NRA will be held in the Chamber of Commerce tonight. It was called by Fred C. Haller, president of the Western Pennsylvania Bakers Association.

'MINOR EAGLE' AUTHORIZED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—A new type of Blue Eagle—a bird bearing a white bar across its breast—for those employers temporarily unable to comply with the full requirements of the National Recovery Administration was announced yesterday by Hugh S. Johnson.

Calling attention to the clamor of the "timid minority" that "some worthy people cannot do what is necessary to get the Blue Eagle" and will be ruined, Johnson described the modified insignia which will show the points on which an employer is temporarily excused. He said:

"It will take another two weeks to attend to all this, but when that time comes no man in this country who is really doing his part will have any excuse for non-membership in NRA."

15,000 BATTLE FOR 1,500 JOBS

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—A big "help wanted" advertisement in a Sunday newspaper asking for 1,500 girls to wrap candy brought 15,000 applicants and nearly a riot today.

Women's dresses were torn in the scramble for advantageous positions in line, several were badly bruised and a policeman was pushed through a glass door and cut on the arm.

The additional help was required by a candy company, its officials explained, because under the National Industrial Recovery Act the company decided to operate on four six-hour shifts.

The advertisement called for 1,500 experienced candy makers or wrappers, women only—but half the crowd of applicants turned out to be men.

SACRED HEART CHURCH MODEL WORK OF ART

By PENELOPE REDD

The latest in the series of models exhibited this year in Pittsburgh is a facsimile in miniature of the Sacred Heart Church. The public may view this excellent example of "architecture in the little" any day this week at 801 Keystone Building. Kaiser, Neal and Reid, the architects, who designed the church, have built the model to scale, 1-64 full size.

Miss Redd

As with the models of the Pennsylvania Farm by Evans Parcell and that of the Parthenon at Carnegie Institute by Lawrence Hitt, the model of the Sacred Heart Church primarily attracts by reason of its artful simulation. The exhibit will be a magnet for local model makers keen to ascertain the methods whereby Kaiser, Neal and Reid have made the little into the monumental.

The details of the model are beautifully realized, as for example, the gradations of color in the limestone, the stone joints giving texture, the traceried stone windows like living trees, and the panelled wood doors. To perfect these details faithfully required four architects working patiently for six months casting, carving and painting. This tedious labor was essential to the completion of the model as authentic architecture in its own right.

This model, like many others done throughout the United States by leading architects during the depression, is a representative example of the model as art.

Departing from one's enthusiasm for the fascinating details, one discovers that the whole gives a concept of the Sacred Heart Church which the layman cannot now imagine from its present unfinished state. The model, thus becomes another event in the sequence that has made the program of building the Sacred Heart Church the most spirited art project in Pittsburgh.

SHRINE PLANS BASKET PICNIC

Syria Temple's annual midsummer "basket picnic" is scheduled for Friday at Kennywood Park. Potentate John G. Daub estimates that 40,000 Shriners, their families, and friends will be present, making it, he says, the best attended of any Shrine picnic.

Mr. Daub

Throughout the day there will be plenty of amusement tickets and refreshments for the children, and free coffee, buttermilk, and ice cream for all, according to Register of Wills and Past Potentate Joseph N. Mackrell, general chairman of the fete.

A full card of sports with prizes for the winners will occupy the afternoon. Dancing, both afternoon and evening will also feature. Syria's band will give two concerts. The sports program will be in charge of Henry S. Blum and William S. Haddock. Other members of the general committee are Harry O. Demmler, Walter F. McQuiston, James R. Wilson, Arthur H. Wilharm, W. E. Richards, and J. Oscar Emrich.

CABARET BOSS SLAIN, ROBBED

DENVER, Aug. 7. — (AP.) — Ralph Dunkin, night club manager, was shot to death mysteriously in a North Denver residence yesterday.

Officers said James Hanson and Kenneth Chin, of Kansas City, visitors, informed them Dunkin was killed in a quarrel with an unidentified gunman who later robbed the witnesses, looted Dunkin's pockets and fled by motor car.

Five bullets struck Dunkin, whose body was found by police at the bottom of basement stairs. He came to this city 15 years ago from Atchison, Kan.

Hanson, Chin, Mrs. Nellie Taylor, a resident of the house, and T. S. Riplett, of Kansas City, were taken in custody for questioning and James Reeves, Kansas ex-convict, was sought.

Police said Mrs. Taylor is the wife of Arthur M. Taylor, who is serving a seven-year term in the State Penitentiary for the kidnaping of Benjamin P. Bower, Denver bakery official. Bower was held captive several days this spring, but was released without payment of ransom.

'First Lady' to Visit Girl Scout Campers

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(Universal)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will visit 1,500 girl scout campers this afternoon in Palisades Interstate Park. Her visit will be the feature of the annual nature play day.

Spotted Furs

In the August Sale

Spotted furs are in the spotlight, because this is a season of youthful fur fashions, and because they lend themselves so perfectly to the swank of the popular swagger coats.

Our August Sale comes out strong for this fashion, with fine Somali Leopards from the depths of Africa, recognized by their gorgeous tawny colorings, and their clear, uniform spots. And Leopard Cat, the superior grades from South America, which perfectly follow the pattern of the real leopard markings.

Both these furs may be had in swagger or semi-fitted models, plain or trimmed with beaver or nutria, and leopard also with raccoon.

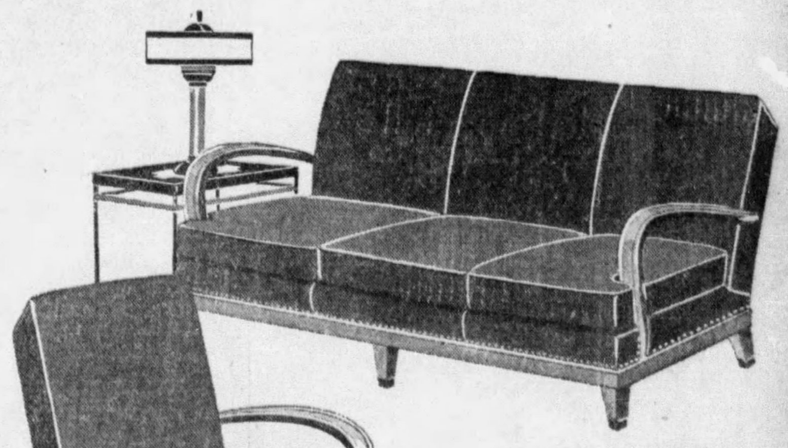
FURNITURE

15% off

In the August Sale

Furniture worthy of your home—no matter what its cost—should pass these four tests with flying colors, and all Horne furniture scores high in these respects. Horne furniture is new—new designs typical of the 20th Century, and new embellishments or woods on traditional fine designs. It's beautiful because it was designed and executed by artists. It's practical and livable because it was proportioned for modern homes, and it's comfortable, and built to last.

If there was ever a "right" time to buy furniture—this is it! In addition to the August discount of 15%, there is positive knowledge that furniture prices are on the rise. Practically every piece of furniture on our floor, if purchased in today's market would cost 25% to 50% more.



The modern idea in design . . . this new sofa and chair shown in the 20th Century furniture shop! The coverings are of washable suede in such gay colors as King's blue, Cerise, Kasha tan and Dawn gray . . . with contrasting piping. The unusual wood frames are of light-colored maple.

GLADYS RICE Soprano Makes Double Debut ON THE AIR

Broadcasts To Canada Begin

Gladys Rice, familiar to NBC audiences since the early days of the Roxy Gang, makes a double debut . . . over the Columbia System and the Canadian networks, tonight at 10.

The program welcoming Miss Rice to the Columbia staff is the first in a series to be broadcast over nation-wide networks in the neighboring countries.

In her weekly Monday programs, heard here through WJAS, Miss Rice sings solo and ensemble numbers with Andre Kostelanetz's orchestra and the Columbia mixed quartet.

* * *

'Flying Dutchman'

The Columbia Symphony Orchestra opens tonight's concert over WJAS at 10:45 with Wagner's Overture to the "Flying Dutchman."

Conceived during a furious storm that overtook Wagner at sea, the composition describes the tempest, the rolling billows and the tossing of the ship.

* * *

'Third Floor Back'

Those who remember the old drama, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," will be intrigued by the title of tonight's radio drama, "The Return to the Third Floor Back."

It is the second in Columbia's series of new-type plays, heard over WJAS at 9.

* * *

Piano Travelogue

Morton Gould and Bert Shefter, NBC piano duo, experiment with a musical travelogue over KDKA at 8:45. Playing only Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever," they tour the United States, varying the tempo according to the various sights they see.

* * *

John Fogarty, young American tenor who came from the cattle ranches to become one of radio's most popular tenors, sings songs of his native West on the Melody Moments program over KDKA at 9:30.

* * *

New Organ Series

Albin B. McDermott, young Pittsburgh church organist, opens a daily series over KQV at 4 this afternoon.

Introducing——

Making her debut as a CBS-WJAS star on a twice-weekly schedule tonight, Gladys Rice also inaugurates Columbia's Canadian exchange series. The hour: 10:00 o'clock on WJAS.

Uncle Cal, a comparatively new character on WWSW, changes from an afternoon to a 9 p. m. schedule tonight.

All Aboard!

The Travellers take in Philadelphia in their musical tour tonight, livening up the Quaker City with "The Gold Diggers' Song," and "Nola." They are heard over WJAS at 7:30.

The Lullaby Lady sings them to sleep over WCAE at 10; Gus Haenschen, Arlene Jackson, Conrad Thibault, Art Boran and Graham McNamee liven them up at 10:30.

Globe-Trotting

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Ladies, what happened?

It was a man, Mr. P. Graham, who was the first to suggest that housewives should be provided for in the NRA.

A blue eagle household would be one where the wife gets a bigger allowance, more spare time to spend it, and someone else hired to do the cooking.

Men better do something about it, too. One fellow is complaining: "Shorter day? Huh? Now I got to help get the supper."

Grandpa and Lillian Read Comics

Grandpa reads the Sun-Telegraph comics to Lillian this afternoon at 4:55 over WCAE.

The Globe-Trotter, voice of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, broadcasts the news of the day over WCAE-WJAS at 9:05 a. m., and 12:15, 2:15 and 6:30 p. m.

Follies Signs 'Love-Birds' Of Radio

Observant attaches at the CBS Studio used to smile when they saw the wistful lad nervously nibbling his nails as the pretty singer inside caroled her lyrics. Nobody ever asked him who he might be.

Then, a few weeks ago, things changed. The attaches were amazed to see the pretty singer gnawing her own nails, as she gazed into the studio to watch. Of all things, the nervous young man himself singing. At the end of the program the boy stumbled out, the girl arose—and they went into an embrace.

The lad was Don Ross, a vocal newcomer to the chain; the girl was Jane Froman, his idol—and, incidentally, his wife!

And now Jane Froman and Don Ross have been signed for the Follies!

The Last Laugh

It was a mere fortnight ago when the air's king of variety pulled a boner by referring to the composer, Laurence Hope, as a man whom the radio artists believed to be a man and still alive. A radio columnist took the artist to task and ribbed him about the boner, pointing out that the Hope person was a woman, who had died years ago.

The radio artist who erred was Rudy Vallee—and the flip scribbler—well, it was yours sincerely.

But the Vallee lad enjoyed the last laugh, because in correcting Rudy, I spelled both the pen name and the real name of the composer incorrectly—and 85 people wrote in to tell me so.

And I'm confessing before Vallee has a chance to send out the yarn.

New Greek Gags

Patsy Flick, the Greek dialectician, by a bit of good fortune which has befallen his friendly rival, George Givot, now has the air lanes all to himself, and may take over a gag series in which the old Greek classicists are brought to Broadway. Givot has been signed to take the part in an MGM film and will hasten to the West Coast, and temporarily abandon the kilocycles.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

The Bittner Brothers, string wizards, assist Jeanne Galbraith during her early evening song program.

The modern melodies of "Those Three Girls" is an early evening feature.

Wermes Saxophone Sextet changes its schedule tonight, being billed at 8 o'clock, 15 minutes earlier than previous weeks.

Eddie Peyton has another impersonation billed for his 11:30 dance program.

WHEAT, COTTON HERE SUBJECT TO NEW TAX

Large quantities of cotton goods and wheat products stored in Pittsburgh warehouses are subject to the government's new processing taxes, according to David L. Lawrence, collector of internal revenue.

The tax on wheat and things made from it, accumulated by persons other than the consumer, is due today. On flour it amounts to $1.38 a barrel and on other products in proportion to the amount of wheat contained.

The processing tax on cotton will be due August 30 and is expected to amount to approximately 4.2 cents per pound of cotton held in storage. Goods for the most part made of cotton pay in proportion to the amount of cotton contained as set forth in government tables.

CONSUMER AFFECTED

The actual consumer is affected in that, after the payment date, merchants in this district will be forced to add the tax to the retail cost of the goods if they wish to make a profit.

The processing taxes are being levied under the Agricultural Adjustment Act and the funds derived will be used in crop regulation by farmers to plant less acreage. The same taxes must be paid on imported goods before they will be released at the customs houses.

The aim of the processing taxes is to catch goods bought at low cost for speculation. In addition to wheat and cotton, the act grants the power to put processing taxes on tobacco, field corn, rice and hogs held in storage, when the need becomes apparent.

Goods sold by the retailer within 30 days are not subject to the tax. Any cotton or wheat goods which he holds on his shelves, however, at the end of the period, are taxable.

TAX ON RETAILERS

Also, all cotton and wheat products held in warehouses by retailers are taxable. To escape tax, the goods must be kept on the "retail premises" and must be sold within the allotted time.

Retailers are required to keep an inventory of the taxable goods and file a return with the government. Failure to make a return and pay the tax will mean a 25 per cent penalty, which will be increased to 50 per cent if it was shown the failure was willful.

The records on which tax returns are based must be kept on file for your years, subject to government inspection.

The middle-man must pay on all wheat and cotton goods held. Thus, after the due date of the taxes, it is expected his increased costs will be passed on to the retailer.

PASTOR ENTERS COUNCIL RACE

The Rev. Arthur V. B. Hightower, in a sermon yesterday at Shilo Baptist Church, urged Negroes to register and vote as Democrats in the primary and general election this year. At the same time he announced his candidacy for City Council on both the Republican and Democratic tickets.

He accused Republican rule for being responsible for present conditions prejudicial to his race, and asserted that City Council has refused an investigation of a situation which later resulted in indictments. He pointed out that many Republican leaders now are under indictment, and urged his people no longer to follow such leaders. He said that Negro candidates had been defeated through thuggery by the same bosses who profited through votes of the race. He said:

"You have been Republicans because your forefathers were Republicans. The Republican bosses have nothing but their filthy past to offer you, and you will not get anything else from them if you elect them."

The Rev. Hightower charged that police discriminated against Negroes, and refused to protect them in their rights.

Catholic Group To Hold Boatride

Members of the Pittsburgh Council, No. 491, Knights of Columbus, and Court Pittsburgh, No. 253, Catholic Daughters of America, will sponsor a boatride Wednesday night. Entertainment will include cards and dancing.

Joseph F. Carroll and Katherine Kunkle head the committees.

MOLEY, KEENAN MAP WAR ON RACKETS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Plans for co-ordinating the government drive against crime were discussed today by Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state; Joseph B. Keenan, special assistant to Attorney General Cummings in charge of the drive against racketeering, and William Stanley, first assistant attorney general.

Moley was named last week by President Roosevelt to work out plans for co-ordinating national and state drives against criminals and prepare legislation to make criminal laws more effective and punishment swifter. He spent most of the day at the Department of Justice.

He said he would discuss with Attorney General Cummings the need of legislation in the campaign to stamp out racketeering, but declined to speculate on what form the legislation would take.

Machine Guns Barred From Racket Gangs

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, August 7.—Striking another blow at organized crime, Joseph B. Keenan, special assistant to the attorney general, has concluded an agreement with machine gun manufacturers designed to prevent racketeers from obtaining these weapons.

Following a conference with arms representatives, he said the manufacturers agreed to restrict sale of machine guns to legal and authorized agencies. They will keep a close check on all sales to prevent guns from falling into the hands of gangsters, Keenan declared.

Keenan further revealed he will ask President Roosevelt to declare an embargo against importations of machine guns from Belgium and Germany. He said:

"When Congress meets we will recommend drastic legislation. We are not bloodthirsty, but the kidnapers should be hanged."

POISONED PIGS STILL AT LARGE

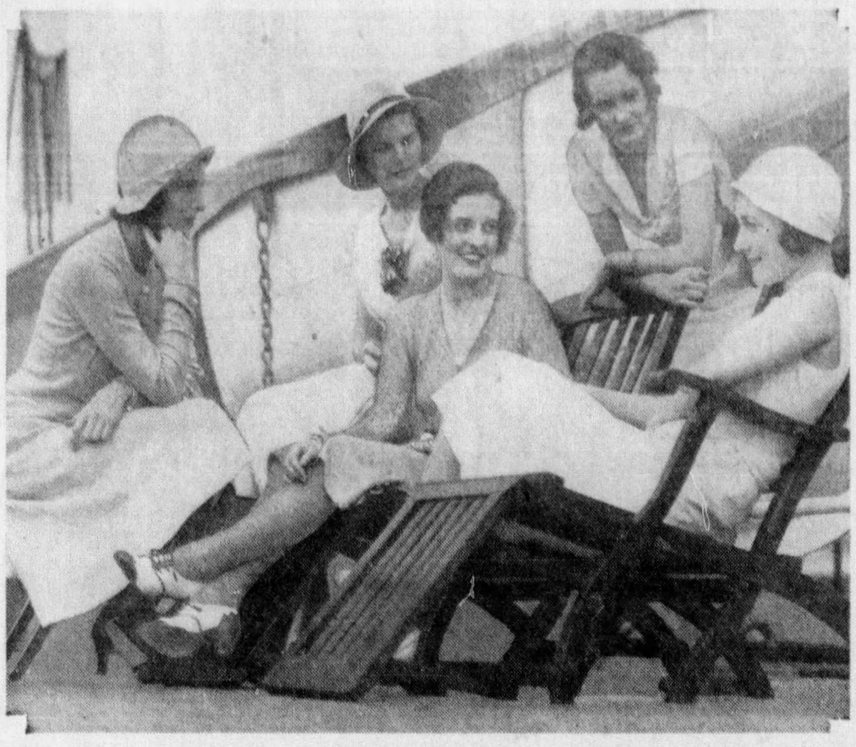
LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—"Pigs is pigs" had a new meaning to Lincoln today as citizens kept a wary eye out for 29 rabbits and four guinea pigs, inoculated with infectious diseases, and still missing from their cages at the Lincoln General Hospital.

Whoever stole the animals Friday night failed to heed the pleas of police, health authorities and newspapers to bring them back and two meager tips Sunday fell flat.

Meanwhile, the more fearful began to speculate on what might happen if the rabbits and pigs had been turned loose to multiply and run at large. The four missing guinea pigs, carrying injections from tubercular patients, brought memories of the old story of Ellis Parker Butler and the multiplying hordes of his laugh-provoker, but Lincoln wasn't sure it was so funny now.

Rabbits also multiply rapidly, and the missing bunnies carried injections of arthritis and other infectious diseases.

CRUISING TO FLORIDA PORTS



VACATIONISTS SUNNING ON THE SS. CHATHAM'S DECK . . . WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE THERE?

'Cruise Contest' Offers Free Vacations at Sea

Trips to Florida and New England Are Prizes

Ship ahoy!

All aboard for a cruise on the Atlantic Ocean!

Vacations de luxe!

The Sun-Telegraph is inaugurating a "Contest Cruise" offering two free 10-day ocean trips, all expenses paid, to Florida and two free seven-day trips to Boston.

These four trips are out of Baltimore on one of the Merchants' and Miners' palatial coastwise steamers, including railway fare with Pullmans from Pittsburgh to Baltimore and return.

The winners of the "Contest Cruises" will be given these delightful ocean vacation trips late in August or early in September.

The Florida trip would include visits to Miami, Palm Beach, through the Indian River country by motor, then to Daytona Beach, from there to St. Augustine and arriving at Jacksonville on the ninth day.

On the way home by boat a stopover will be made at Savannah, Ga.

The Florida trips will be the first prizes in the Sun-Telegraph "Contest Cruises."

The two second prizes will be ocean trips to Boston from Baltimore, stopping in Norfolk, Va., the second day out, and giving ample time for a morning at glorious Virginia Beach and four hours in quaint Norfolk.

The third day you are at sea, the fourth day in historic Boston and the fifth day includes trips to Concord and Lexington, of revolutionary fame.

The sixth day is at sea again and the seventh day brings you back to Norfolk with side trips to Williamsburg and Jamestown if desired. You are due in Baltimore the next morning.

The Sun-Telegraph "Contest Cruises" will be open to all readers of this newspaper over 16 years of age. Watch for more information about the contest cruises in the Sun-Telegraph tomorrow.

FETE CHILDREN IN SWISSVALE

Headed by the McKeesport Drum and Bugle Corps, all workers and school children participating in Swissvale playgrounds will parade through the borough's main streets at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday. It is expected that more than 1,000 will be in the line of march, including 47 athletic teams in uniform.

Following the parade, at Dickson Athletic Field, C. L. Walsh, head of the Department of Physical Education of Pittsburgh Schools, will award medals to winners of various athletic competitions and letters to the winners of playground leader awards.

Edward Paulie, Swissvalle High School coach and director of summer recreation, is in charge.

Spanish War Vets Elect President

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Eight companies of Veterans of the Spanish-American War, 250 men representing the 10th Pennsylvania Volunteers, dispersed last night after their thirty-fourth annual assembly.

Lieut. R. M. Wood, of Uniontown, was elected president, Uniontown, was elected president. Unionmeeting. Represented were Monongahela, New Brighton, Uniontown, Connellsville, Washington, Mt. Pleasant, Greensburg and West Brownsville.

GANDHI'S WIFE IN JAIL AGAIN

AHMEDABAD, India, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mohandas K. Gandhi, wife of the Nationalist leader, and 15 other women members of the Mahatma's college of devotees were released temporarily today from Sabarmati jail here, where they were imprisoned after Gandhi's arrest August 1 at the outset of a new independence movement.

Mrs. Gandhi and her companions were ordered to go to a specified area, but they refused and were re-arrested.

MADRAS, India, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—C. R. G. Achariar, the Mahatma Gandhi's chief lieutenant, and 16 others today were sentenced to six months imprisonment following their arrest while conducting a series of meetings explaining the Congress Party's independence program.

Gandhi was arrested last week with his wife and 33 others as they were about to start a new civil disobedience movement. The leader is now in Yeroda Jail.

STATE OFFICIAL DIES BY GUN

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Garrett De Forrest Kinney, 64, former director of state finances who was under indictment on charges of failing to turn over state funds, died this morning in Mitchell Sanitarium from a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Kinney sent a bullet through his brain June 23 in his office in the Culter and Proctor Stove Company, from which he had retired as president the day before. A few hours before the shooting he had been served with a subpena to appear in Circuit Court at Springfield in connection with a suit to recover state funds in a closed bank.

TOBACCOS AND CIGARETTES Made under the Blue Eagle

NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

The following brands of tobaccos and cigarettes are made under the terms of the President's Blanket Code by skilled employees who, for 35 hours work, now receive the same pay as formerly earned in 45 hours.

PARIS WARRING ON COCKTAIL; BOOSTS WINE

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Anticipating early repeal of prohibition and preparing to flood America with wines, the thrifty French already have started a propaganda to create a market for their vintages.

Washingtonians returning from Paris say the latest French commercial slogan is:

"Cut out cocktails and buy French wines."

Mrs. Harry Lehr, whose late husband helped Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish organize the famous "monkey" dinner, the sensation of Newport, in its age of innocence a generation ago, is said to have signed up against the cheerful little mouthful, the "old-fashioned" cocktail.

CHAMPAGNE BOOSTED

In this she seems to be followed by all Paris of American ancestry, acceding to the French attempt to make cocktails almost as vulgar as ice water. Champagne cup is now the thing to start off the dinner guest in Paris.

True to form, Ireland registers a protest. She considers cocktails—made with real Irish—glorious things—next best after "poteen," which you can't get anyhow away from the bogs. Even "poteen," procurable in Dublin and Cork, suggests some of the gaudily labeled stuff not unknown in the United States.

IRISH WHISKY READY

So Ireland sends her wet ambassador in the person of Lionel Marks, who has 2,000,000 gallons of pure Irish whisky, some of it 20 years old, ready for exportation to America the moment repeal is signed. Irish is a grand base for the "old-fashioned" which France will have none of.

Marks is director of Dublin Distillers, Ltd. When he stepped off the boat in New York a couple of days ago with Ireand's little contribution to cups across the sea, he indignantly denied that Irish whisky got its flavor from peat fires or that there was a potato in a carload.

The accusation that Irish whisky is made from potatoes Marks considers unworthy of denials. He said:

"Propaganda, propaganda!"

Arizona Certain to Be 21st State for Repeal

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(Universal.)—Another run will be hung up on the score board Tuesday when Arizona goes to bat for prohibition repeal. It will make the score read 21 to 0 in favor of taking the Eighteenth Amendment out of the Constitution.

The result in Arizona is a foregone conclusion because the voters will have but one set of delegates to vote for. The drys could not muster sufficient signers to nominating petitions to put a delegate slate in the field.

Three other states are to vote on repeal this month, Missouri on August 19, Texas, August 26, and Washington, August 29. With these three states going for repeal, and indications are that all will, the two-thirds mark will have been reached when the drive swings into the fall campaign to round up the remaining 12 needed to give the required 36.

Six elections are scheduled for September, one in October and five in November, just enough to make the 36. In addition, five others may act, giving a good margin of safety against possible losses to the drys in the states definitely to vote.

GUNMAN ADMITS BANK HOLDUP

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Captured after a gunfight between a policeman and suspected automobile thieves, Isadore Gendleman, 21, has confessed participating in the bank holdup at Mountville, Pa., near Lancaster, last December 1, and several other holdups in the Philadelphia district, police reported today.

In addition to the $7,500 robbery at the Mountville bank, Gendleman admitted taking part in the $6,500 holdup at the P. R. T. carbarns in Philadelphia last June 12, according to police.

Six men staged the Mountville bank robbery and five are now serving terms of 15 to 30 years. Police said Gendleman, an amateur gunman," was the sixth. Three men participated in the carbarn robbery and two were arrested after police found them selling car tokens at cut-rate prices.

Valera Ridicules Civil War Rumors

DUBLIN, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—President De Valera has characterized as "nonsense" reports abroad that the Irish Free State was threatened by civil war because of the placing of armed guards around public buildings.

FREE SLAYER OF AXMAN

MISSOULA, Mont., Aug. 7.—(INS.)—George Satriano, a $45 per month foreman in a Conservation Corps camp, today stood exonerated in the death of Abraham Yancovitch, 18, of the Bronx, New York.

A United States Commissioner held Satriano's alleged violence in disciplining Yancovitch was "in line of duty."

According to federal authorities here, Yancovitch was washing his mess kit in a creek instead of at the regular camp wash basins of the C. C. C. camp at West Yellowstone.

Satriano is said to have hit Yancovitch with his fist so hard that an autopsy revealed a bone the size of a silver dollar was knocked from the youth's left temple.

WOMAN HELD UP ON PORCH

Police today were searching for two men who held up Mrs. Jean Levine on the porch of her home, 5617 Hobart street, early yesterday. They took her purse containing $2, she reported.

Dominick Tominella, of Tyson street, and Orlando Terry, of 8116 Frankstown avenue, were robbed of $163 by two gunmen, they reported to police, early yesterday.

Father Sees Girls Killed by Train

YPSILANTI, Mich., Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Two young sisters were killed when their car was hit by a Chicago-bound passenger train in the village of Willis, six miles south of here. The victims were Ora Metler, 20, who was driving, and Jean Metler, 18.

Their father, Carson Metler, Flat Rock (Mich.) farmer, leaped from the car a moment before the crash, and saw his daughters' bodies hurled a hundred feet down the track.

M. D. Who Fought Yellow Fever Dies

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Dr. Theodore Charles Lyster, 58, assistant to his uncle, Maj. Gen. William C. Gorgas, in ridding the Panama Canal Zone of the yellow fever peril, died at his home yesterday of a heart attack. Dr. Lyster was retired from army service in 1919 with the rank of Brigadier General.

PIONEER HEROES HONORED

MIDWAY, Pa., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Fresh wreaths rest on the graves of two Western Pennsylvanians, father and son, killed by Indians at historic old Fort Cherry, commemorating the one hundred and fifty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the fort.

The Pennsylvania Society of National Shrines of the American Revolution conducted the observance rites on the site of the fort, consisting of three buildings surrounded by a stockade, long since torn down, which served as a refuge for early settlers.

Thomas Cherry and his son, John, who founded the fort, were the pioneers whose memories were honored. E. M. Golden, president of the society, said the state has allocated a marker for the fort site on a farm owned by Ralph Cummins.

MERCY FLIGHT SAVES CHILD

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—A Seattle wireless operator, an Anchorage aviator and surgeons were credited today with saving the life of 4-year-old David Looff.

Dangerously ill four days ago at his home on Kodiak Island, "hundreds of miles from nowhere" in the Aleutian chain and far from medical aid, the boy was reported recovering today from an emergency appendictis operation performed Saturday.

The boy's plight was revealed Thursday in a plea for help from a Kodiak wireless operator. A Seattle amateur who intercepted the message informed a doctor who diagnosed the symptoms as probably peritonitis. Anchorage authorities were notified.

Pilot Harry Blunt flew through rain and fog with Dr. A. S. Walkowski to the Aleutian Island, and returned to Anchorage with the boy and his mother through rain and fog which forced the seaplane down over night in the bay of a barren island.

Cudahy Grandson Learning Packing 'From Hoof Up'

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—To the rambling pens where his grandfather, the late E. A. Cudahy, Sr., barked orders 40 years ago Frank E. Wilhelm, of Chicago, has come to learn the packing business "from the hoof up."

At the Union Stock Yards the 20-year-old grandson of the packer started out shortly after daybreak today with a cattle buyer to learn the intricacies of buying meat on the hoof. He said:

"It's going to be interesting and I'm going to make the most of my opportunity."

FARM BLAST LAID TO FEUD

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—A fight for control of the threshing business in this district was blamed yesterday by Sheriff Howard Duff for two dynamite blasts that wrecked a threshing outfit and damaged a barn on the farm of Roy Ballard near here.

Ballard and his wife were shaken up but escaped injury. The threshing outfit, owned by Forrest Heskett, Bethesda farmer, was demolished by the two blasts. The outfit consisted of a threshing machine and a tractor.

Parts of the engine were hurled through the barn by the force of the explosion. Detonations were heard four miles away. The threshing outfit, which was to be used on Ballard's wheat crop today, was valued at $4,000.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

During Walter Winchell's two weeks' holiday, his column will be written by celebrated friends.

Items
By Frank Sullivan

Not long after I came to New York, fourteen years ago (Darling, you are growing ol-der), I drifted into the habit of occasionally seeking refuge from the intolerable and unearthly silence of New York's streets in the cheerful hullabaloo of various of the town's hot spots. I would sit for an hour on a high stool before the bar, contemplating my novel, which I never did get around to writing, or discussing with the bartender on duty the latest trends in art, literature and gang warfare.

By and large I must have witnessed a great many interesting sights in those days, but the unfortunate part of it was that nothing really exciting happened until after four o'clock in the morning and I could never remember anything that happened after three-thirty. What follows are a few of the milder incidents that occurred between 11:30 and three. Anyone desiring to know what happened between three and noon will have to wait until Winchell gets back from his vacation.

Item One—A winter night in a cozy hideaway on the East Side. The only customers at the bar were a gentleman at the other end and myself. He seemed moody—gazed into his glass darkly. Obviously a man with a secret gnawing at his heart. I was idly scanning a theater program and this must have stamped me as a member of the literati, for the moody gentleman suddenly turned to the barkeep, pointing to me, and said, "Ask that poet if he'll have a drink with me."

The poet accepted with pleasure. Glasses were replenished, and lifting mine with that fine courtesy that made me the envy of half (or at least 256) of the colonels on the staff of Gov. Ruby Laffoon, of Kentucky, I said: "Happy Days!"

His face clouded and he gave me a sour look.

"Happy Days Hell!" he said. "I just lost my appeal and I got to do 365 of 'em in Atlanta."

Item Two—Another night, at the same hideaway, two friends of mine, "a little the worse for wear," as Harold Ross would put it, were trying to explain two different matters to each other at the same time and at the end of the first fifteen minutes of the symposium matters were tangled. Dimly sensing this, one of the boys placed his hand on the shoulder of his vis-a-vis and said, earnestly, "Now, Bob, listen. I don't want you to think I'm not incoherent."

Item Three is not from New York City, but from Saratoga Springs, Queen of Spas and Pearl of the Occident. One rainy night in late September up there, I crept out of the cold and went into an oasis of warmth, to seek a little cheerful human companionship. Some time later the door opened and out of the night there appeared an incredibly bedraggled and sooty figure. He tottered to the bar.

"Gimme a drink," he ordered.

"Why should I?" asked the proprietor, "Who are you?"

The stranger drew himself up with dignity.

"I," he revealed, "am the Last Rose of the Mohicans."

He got the drink. Later in the evening I heard again from the Last Rose of the Mohicans. Propped in a safe corner of the bar, where he could fall in only one direction, he was reproaching a fellow barfly he suspected of having just maligned him.

"I hear you," warned the Last Rose, "Hear ev' word y'say. I may be tight bu' my mind's perf'ly clear. I'm a thick quinker."

Item Four—The Counsellor was a man who devoted three days a month to getting systematically and thoroughly tight. The first two days he could walk and talk, but on the third day he was not quite conscious enough to do either, but was conscious enough to order himself a drink when needed. He did this, giving one little finger a barely perceptible wiggle in the direction of the barkeep. On the evening of one of the Counsellor's third days he was sitting at the bar with his head on his elbow and his elbow on the bar. He had been in that position, speechless, since early in the day. Suddenly he decided to shift his position, but in doing so, his elbow missed the bar and the Counsellor went crashing from his stool to the floor. Lou, Tommy and Al rushed to the rescue, but the Counsellor was already on his feet and, for the first time that day, vocal.

"Whassa matter, whassa matter?" he demanded, sternly. "Can't a fellah wisecrack a little?"

Item Five—In the same place one night two gents were trying to have a little heart to heart talk, but were handicapped by a total stranger, in a captious mood, who insisted on injecting himself into their conversation to disagree with everything they said and disapprove of everything they did.

They were becoming slightly annoyed when Lou, the proprietor, came up and persuaded their critic to retire to a taxicab. Next night, when the weather had cleared, Lou explained.

"I thought I better get you away from the bar last night. I guess you don't remember, but those two fellows you were bawling out were Legs Diamond and one of his men."

The bawler-outer was your humble and since then very cagey servant.

Catherine, the Great, Dietrich Role

Marlene Dietrich's next Paramount picture, under the direction of Josef von Sternberg, will be "Her Regiment of Lovers," in which she will play Catherine the Great of Russia. The story is an original written by Manuel Komroff. This will be the first time that Miss Dietrich has portrayed a famous historical character on the screen. Now vacationing in Europe, following completion of her picture, "The Song of Songs," Miss Dietrich is expected to return to this country early in September.

Musical

Eddie Cantor is the star of "Whoopee," film version of the Ziegfeld musical comedy, coming to Fulton screen Thursday.

Janet on Vacation After Signing

Janet Gaynor has signed a new long term contract continuing her exclusive services with Fox until 1937. The contract was consummated after a preview of Miss Gaynor's newest production, "Paddy, the Next Best Thing," in which she is co-starred with Warner Baxter. Immediately after negotiations were completed Miss Gaynor left for the East on a vacation jaunt.

Frank Craven Doing Comedy Script

Frank Craven, actor-playwright, has been engaged by Hal Roach to write an original story which will be picturized as the forthcoming Laurel and Hardy feature release. Besides having more than several stage "hits" to his credit as an author, he is a well-known comedian of the footlights.

Gay Nineties New Movie Cycle

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 7.—Hollywood's enthusiasm for the picturesque nineties grows rather than diminishes.

Following the popular trend, Carl Laemmle, Jr., is rushing a writer to work on a Zasu Pitts-Slim Summerville comedy to take place in the era made famous by Mae West in "She Done Him Wrong."

The picture will be the next co-starring vehicle of Universal's favorite team and it will be started in six weeks.

Miss Pitts

Meanwhile, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is to present Ed Wynn in a story of the nineties. Twentieth Century Productions is shooting "The Bowery," Paramount has just finished "One Sunday Afternoon" and almost every other studio will dramatize the period in one or more pictures.

* * *

Sally Eilers, Hoot Gibson and Harry Joe Brown sat in a Paramount projection-room today and watched the airplane crash which almost cost Hoot his life. The cowboy-star had the strange experience of seeing himself removed from the wrecked plane and carried away in an ambulance. No, Sally and Hoot are not going around together again. She just drove him over to the studio.

Miss Eilers

Paul Lukas and Tito Falconi, the Italian flyer who startled crowds at the recent air races, have struck up a great friendship. Falconi is staying at the Lukas home and will pilot the actor to Chicago when he flies there August 24. Afterwards, Lukas and his wife will pay their first visit to Hungary since he became a screen star.

Studio attaches claim that 31 pages of script had been shot with Sylvia Sidney before the actress walked out on her picture, "The Way to Love." They'll tell you that even in non-strike times, four pages a day is a good shooting schedule . . . More trouble may be brewing for Paramount unless somebody can smooth Ricardo Cortez's ruffled feelings. The actor is openly declaring he would like to be free of his contract.

Miss Sidney

In a brief wire to friends, Gloria Swanson stated she would arrive here Sunday. The actress came on directly from New York . . . Raquel Torres is going to London to make a picture after she finishes at Paramount. She denies it also will be a honeymoon with Charles Feldman . . . Sharon Lynne is another Hollywood star who plans a British film . . . But when Groucho Marx was talking of a London vacation, his young daughter registered an objection.

"Every time we go to Europe, I have to have my hair curled," she complained.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The Summer Playhouse tonight begins the second half of its series of six subscription plays. Its stage will be in a new location, the Arnold School, Braddock avenue, between Penn avenue and Forbes street. The move is made in compliance of state laws covering the nature of auditoriums in which public exhibitions may be given, prohibiting the use of temporary stages and seating. The attraction tonight, and every night this week, will be a comedy success of the recent New York season, "Goodbye Again," by Allen Scott and George Haight.

* * *

Louis O. Macloon, prominent stage producer of Los Angeles and San Francisco, arrived in town Saturday, to spend the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Macloon, and brother, Bob. He is en route to New York on business relating to play-production. Mr. Macloon had no sooner arrved than city slickers got busy on him. He thought he had done pretty nicely when he avoided car bandits who tried to squeeze his car on the Westinghouse Bridge, and was feeling pretty good about that. But when he got into town and took his bag out of the car, he turned his back for a moment. Fatal moment! When he turned again the bag was gone. Among things it contained were a couple of play scripts.

* * *

Robert Gleckler, former Pittsburgh stock actor, whose last appearance here was in "Hot Cha," and whose last role was the heavy in "Take a Chance," will play the same part in the screen version of this musical comedy success, now being filmed in a studio in New York. He joins a cast including June Knight, also of the original cast. "Take a Chance" is an example of a flop rewritten into a success. It had its premiere here last season as "Humpty-Dumpty," and lasted one full, entire and complete week.

* * *

One week from today Clara Bow is expected to leave the home ranch and begin work on another screen production, "Hoopla," in which Norman Foster will play opposite the star. It is a story of carnival life with a World Fair background.

All in a Day

Odds and Ends

THE FRONT pages these days seem to be devoted almost exclusively to tales of the kidnaping racket. Mayors, Governors—and even the President—are up in arms against an evil that must be suppressed as rapidly as possible. With your permission, I'd like to say a few words on the subject. And if I'm wrong—well, it's just one man's opinion.

The snatch racket is by no means a new thing in this country. It has cropped up in various spots in the nation for many a long year. But it wasn't until after the advent of that national calamity—the Prohibition Act—that it began to find favor with organized groups of racketeers throughout the United States. And it continued to find favor until the disappearance of the Lindbergh baby.

It continued to find favor, I might explain, because the kidnaped person was very seldom a man who didn't have a little larceny in his own heart. The organized groups took very few chances. If the man who was snatched wasn't a racketeer himself, he was generally pretty close to it. Thus, the squawks were few.

Certainly that was easy money. Sometimes a man was held in an apartment for a week, but there were many occasions when friends of the victims came through in a few hours. There was little peril in the work, except from other underworld sources, and the pay was beyond belief.

So the boys grew bolder. They began to kidnap actors, race track characters and other members of the sporting fraternity. They grew unusually fearless in their operations. Indeed, the late Vincent Coll, wildest of the wild in his day, once kidnaped a beer man in New Jerney—and walked into the man's own office an hour later.

"I've just kidnaped your boss," he told the assembled mob, "and I want $30,000 for his release. I'm sitting here now, and you can kill me. But I've told my boys that, if I wasn't back in an hour, they were to knock off your boss. Do I get the dough?"

So what were the men to do? These men knew that Coll was the world's dizziest desperado, and that he meant his every word. They could kill him easily, but that wouldn't bring the boss back. And 10 minutes later, Vincent Coll walked out with the $30,000 in his pocket—and no chance of ever being arrested for the crime.

With the breaking of the Lindberg story, however, most of the racketeers who had been in the business of kidnaping other racketeers, gave up the game. When the police find a kidnaper today, what have they in hand? A sad-eyed moron, generally, whose previous record is of no consequence whatsoever.

Look at the poor fool who kidnaped Peggy McMath. Or the bungling nitwit who was sentenced to die the other day for the Mary McElroy snatch. Looking at them, any self-respecting member of the old-time underworld must wince in disgust.

Since we have no organized bands, then, and since kidnaping rings today are mostly newspaper imagination, it is up to the government to devise some punishment that will stop the inevitable moron and his cousin from stepping in where angels fear to tread. I would like to offer a suggestion.

Over in Singapore, not so many years ago, the English were confronted with the world's worst underworld problem. Compared to that situation, our present crime wave is a kiddies' Maypole dance. Today, Singapore is one of the cleanest cities in the world.

Reason? The whipping post, rigidly enforced. A man may get but two months in jail—but he'll get 15 lashes with it. He gets but two or three lashes the first day, and he never knows when he'll get the rest. And by the time he gets out, brothers and sisters, he thinks a long time before he takes another stab at beating Singapore justice. For the agony of waiting for the next lash is worse than the lash itself.

Think it over, Mr. Mayor, Mr. Governor and Mr. President. The lash is an old-time remedy—but, unlike some of our modern remedies, it's a cure that always works.

Treat your kidnaper, your intermediary and your ransom payer to the whipping post so that all can see—and the kidnaping evil in America will be wiped out over night . . .

A GENTLEMAN by the name of Knoll forwards a story about a friend of his who is in dire straits at the moment. Meeting him on the street the other day, the friend unfolded a woeful tale. His rent was overdue, he sta' and the landlord was threatening him with eviction.

"Furthermore," he went on, "my wife is sick and I haven't been able to find a job in six months. Was there ever a man in worse trouble?"

Mr. Knoll offered a suggestion.

"Well," he stated, "I happen to know that your wife has an insurance policy that has been in force at least 10 years. Why don't you borrow some money on that?"

His friend shook his head vigorously.

Bonds Stolen on Ship Jails Stock Dealer

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Carlos J. Avila, a dealer in securities, arraigned before United States Commissioner Francis J. O'Neill on charges of unlawful possession of six $1,000 Kingdom of Italy bonds, was held in $15,000 bail for a hearing August 15.

Assistant United States Attorney Jacob J. Rosenblum charged that the bonds were part of loot taken from a sack of registered mail on the liner Leviathan between February 8 and 15, last.

BAN 'MILITIA' AS GUARD TERM

The National Guard no longer may be referred to properly as "militia," officials of P. N. G. headquarters here said today in drawing attention to an act at the last session of Congress changing the name of the Militia Bureau to the National Guard Bureau.

A Pennsylvania law enacted in 1870 designated the entire state force of citizen soldiery as the National Guard. National Guard officials here said the militia includes any able-bodied male citizen between the ages of 18 and 45 years.

It was explained the enrolled militia in Pennsylvania in 1823 was of low efficiency and its record was not always savory. The Guardsman, a National Guard publication, states:

"A change in name is not necessarily of importance. In this case the change indicates a trend and a new development. The Guard is separating from a name which stands for something unsavory in the past record. The term 'militia' when used by Civil War soldiers, especially, was a contemptuous epithet."

ROCKEFELLER'S GIFT OPPOSED

JACKSON, Wyo., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—The fate of the famed Jackson hole, paradise for the hunter and wonderland for the tourist, probably hinges upon a Congressional investigation expected to begin here late today.

Summoned to testify was John D. Rockefeller, Jr., whose plan of making the "hole" an extension of Yellowstone National Park has aroused the opposition of Senator Robert D. Carey and a group of other Wyoming residents.

Rockefeller offered to purchase for more than $1,000,000 the approximately 40,000 acres of deeded ground in the Jackson region and give it to the federal government if the remaining public lands, about 200,000 acres, are joined with it and dedicated as a primitive wilderness area.

The Jackson hearing is expected to take from three days to a week and later another hearing will be held in Washington. How many witnesses will be called has not been determined.

Young Wife Divorces Ralph Graves, Actor

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 7.—Charging mental cruelty, Virginia M. Goodwin Graves, 23, has won a final decree in Superior Court against Ralph Graves, 34, screen actor.

Mrs. Graves charged that her husband stayed away from home night after night, and continually nagged her. She was given custody of their child and $400 monthly alimony for the next five years. The Graves were married here April 7, 1928, and separated April 22, 1932.

Parachute Leaper Lands on Highway

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 7.—Maneuvering his parachute to avoid hitting a line of automobiles, Harry Langer, of Turtle Creek, stunt flyer at the Carroll Airport, New Alexandria, landed on the William Penn highway last night. He suffered severe sprains and bruises. He had leaped from the plane at 2,000 feet.

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and constipated. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, dizziness, headache. You have become an ugly-looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you.

But don't take salts, mineral waters, oils, laxative pills, laxative candies or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't do it, for they only move out the tail end of your bowels and that doesn't take away enough of the decayed poison. Cosmetics won't help at all.

Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The one mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. No calomel (mercury) in Carter's. Only fine, mild vegetable extracts. If you would bring back your personal charm to win men, start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills according to directions today. 25¢ at drug stores.

Refuse "something just as good", for it may gripe, loosen teeth or scald rectum. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for. ©1933, C.M.Co.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair

-With-

Patricia Pitt

Alice Walker Scanlon, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Charles Scanlon, of Pittsburgh, and sister of Miss Ellen and Miss Mary Scanlon, of Kentucky avenue, and of Mrs. Ionel Gardescu, will be married to Edward Henry Wells, of Bloomfield, N. J., tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the Waverly Presbyterian Church.

Dr. David Howard Scanlon, of Durham, N. C., will officiate, and Dr. Franklin T. Scanlon, of Morgantown, W. Va., an uncle of the bride, will give the bride in marriage.

Ushers Named

The bride will have no attendants, and the bridegroom will not have a best man. The ushers will be Ionel Gardescu, Purdum Snyder, Franklin T. Scanlon, Jr., and Raymond Parshall.

Playing the wedding music will be the Wachter String Quartet, which Miss Ellen Scanlon, 'cellist, a sister of the bride, founded this spring.

A wedding supper in the Hotel Schenley will follow the ceremony.

Dinner Tonight

Mrs. Gardescu, sister of the bride, will give a dinner tonight for the out-of-town guests. Miss Mary B. Scanlon, another sister of the bride, gave a tea last evening, and yesterday Miss Phoebe Henning gave a dinner.

Longue Vue Country Club resembled a scene on the Riviera Saturday afternoon at its swimming pool opening celebration. There were swimmers and sunbathers, gayly colored umbrellas and lounging chairs, and rows and rows of spectators on the terrace overlooking the swimming and wading pools.

Throughout the afternoon there was music—with the players on the terrace. And Saturday night over 250 members of the smart set dined and danced on the lighted terraces of the club. There were inumerable small parties.

The celebration started with luncheon attended by 100 or more. Mrs. David I. McCahill entertained the women who came here with the Iroquois Polo team, of Lexington, Ky., at luncheon. And with her were her twin daughters, Marie and Marguerite.

Luncheon Parties

All afternoon more and more swimmers arrived at the pool, and enjoying the wading pool was a group of little youngsters in smartly diminutive swimming suits.

Tiny Betty Bradshaw, daughter of the W. A. Bradshaws, was the first one in the wading pool. And joining her there were Joan, Toy and Dee Ray, small children of the Wilson K. Rays.

First Wader

Among the swimmers were Katharine and Helen MacCloskey, whose father, James E. MacCloskey, Jr., was chairman of the committee taking charge of the landscaping which makes the pool so distinctive. Helen, by the way, is as much at home in a swimming pool as in an airplane.

Marion and Gertrude Spelmire were practicing diving. Other swimmers were Kathryn Rendleman, Alice McCarthy, little Susanna H. Hare, Helen Marie Bradshaw, Betsy Ross, Betty Kohlman and Barbara Sieg, Louise Macdonald, Mary B. Gilmore and Jane Wehr.

Diving Popular

After swimming the last three mentioned enjoyed a game of dummy bridge, and acquired more tan at the same time.

Playing bridge beneath one of the gay umbrellas were Mrs. Lynn Smith, Mrs. W. Edward McKinney, Mrs. W. Rankin Furey and Mrs. Bedell Monro.

Outdoor Contract

Barbara Hitchcock, of Syracuse, N. Y., who is the house guest of Mrs. T. Coleman Ward, was swimming with Alfred Ward.

Among the spectators were the D. M. Clemsons, Mrs. Joseph H. Bialas and her mother, Mrs. Linford Smith, E. E. McCoy, the Harry W. Raffertys, and Mrs. G. E. Knable, whose little son, Elkins, Jr., was enjoying the pool.

Mrs. F. R. Crawford, Janet McKiney and Mrs. Andreas Iverson became spectators after a good swim in the new pool. Mrs. Hugh C. Nevin and Mrs. A. H. Burchfield were among the many spectators during the afternoon.

* * *

Among those who will throng to the East-West World's series polo matches, to be played in Chicago, August 13 and 16, with a possible third deciding game August 20, will be Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., wife of the polo player captain of the Eastern team.

Mrs. Hitchcock is the former Margaret Mellon, and a daughter of the William Larimer Mellons. Mrs. Hitchcock and her husband will stop at the Drake Hotel, Chicago.

The David I. McCahills with their polo-playing son, David I. McCahill, Jr., twin daughters, Marie and Marguerite, Mrs. McCahill's niece, Marie Kaye, and Miss Dorothy Jane Langfitt will see the opening game.

The McCahills will leave tomorrow for the World's Fair and the polo games. * * *

Many a member of the smart set will return early from a favorite resort to see Sallie Gibson, daughter of the junior Gibsons, become Mrs. Franklin Farrel III.

Sallie will marry the son of the junior Franklin Farrels, of New Haven, Conn., September 9 at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in Calvary Episcopal Church.

Miss Emma Kessler On League Program

Miss Emma Kessler, executive secretary of the Pittsburgh League for the Hard of Hearing, will give the second of a series of programs devoted to childhood problems during the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women's radio period Thursday. It will be at 3:45 o'clock over Station KDKA.

Miss Mary Stoll To Marry J. D. Allen

Miss Mary J. Stoll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer R. Stoll, of Clayton, Mo., formerly of Pittsburgh, has chosen Saturday as the day for her marriage to Jackson Davis Allen, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Allen, of Heberton avenue.

The marriage will take place at noon in the Stoll summer home, Madison Golf Lakelands, O. An uncle of the bride, who officiated at the marriage of the bride's parents, will read the service, the Rev. Frank A. Hosmer, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of Omaha, Neb. There will be a reception in the Old Tavern, Unionville, O.

Miss Martha Barling Stoll will be her sister's maid of honor, and another sister, Mrs. Robert Ivan Shrader, will be matron of honor. Miss Jane Todd Allen, sister of the bridegroom-elect, will be bridesmaid. Richard H. Allen is to be his brother's best man and serving as ushers will be Samuel L. Allen and Robert Ivan Shrader.

Louise Fulton McKee Lawn Concert Chairman

Miss Louise Fulton McKee will be chairman of aides at the pop concert to be played tomorrow evening on the lawn of the Hotel Schenley by Victor Saudek's Little Symphony Orchestra.

Parry Photo. Miss McKee

Assisting Miss McKee will be Miss Peggy Bryce, Miss Helen Louise Garman, Miss Helen Scott, Miss Phyllis Hardie, Miss Henriette Arloft and Miss Marion Black.

Y. W. C. A. Excursion To Aid Fellowship

The moonlight excursion the Central Branch of the Young Women's Christian Association will sponsor tomorrow night on the steamer Washington will be for the benefit of the association's world fellowship fund.

Part of the fund finances the work of Miss Jane Shaw Ward, officially a member of the Central Branch staff and general secretary of the Shanghai (China) Y. W. C. A. Miss Ward supervises training schools for young Chinese women.

Miss Alice Comes Weds In Cathedral Ceremony

At a small wedding this morning in his private chapel in St. Paul's Cathedral, Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, of the Pittsburgh Diocese, solemnized the marriages of Miss Alice Comes, daughter of Mrs. John Theodore Comes, of the Pennsylvania Apartments, and Everett Michael Cloran, of North Lang avenue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Cloran, of Boston, Mass.

The bride wore white satin made with a short jacket having three-quarter length sleeves, and her hat was of white satin. She carried calla lilies. Miss Marcella Comes, who was her sister's only attendant, wore pink chiffon with a jacket and a wide-brimmed brown taffeta hat. She carried summer flowers. The bride's mother chose dark blue sheer crepe with a white hat and wore white gardenias. Gordon Cloran was the best man. Mrs. Cloran, mother of the bridegroom, was here for the ceremony.

There was a breakfast at The Pines after which Mr. and Mrs. Cloran left for the east by motor and will go to the summer home of the bridegroom, in Winthrop, Mass.

Members of the women's auxiliary will assist the reception committee. The boat leaves Wood street dock at 8:30 o'clock that evening and will return at 11:30.

SMART WOMEN SET THE STYLES FOR STUNNING HAT MODELS

WHO WAS the stunning woman sketched while lunching in one of New York's smartest restaurants the other day? Her costume unmistakably spells the coming season. If you look directly in the center of the illustration you'll recognize what we mean.

NEW TYPES of fedora are current in fashion and spreading among chic women. You'll see them everywhere. Her's, of taupe brown felt with high mannish creased crown, is one of the smarter versions. It is nice against the mossy-green, tailored uncut velvet dress with military epaulets.

* * *

WHEN A fashion is seen early in the season at this fashionable eating place, it may be said to be authoritatively here. Socially prominent women who frequent this spot often set the style, sometimes month in advance. That is why this particular costume is so significant, as well as others sketched there that same day.

* * *

TAKE THE silver fox cape in the lower right hand corner. It is safe to prophecy that the popularity of this luxurious accessory will continue for sometime. A slight different angle is displayed in this one, where one carefully selected head joins both skins. This is the only fastening in back. New, too, is the large black woolen capeline, cut from an end of material of the dress, accented by raspberry red curduroy. For a tall slim woman, this costume—for otherwise one would look top-heavy with so much fur and a wide brimmed hat.

* * *

ANOTHER FAVORITE hat is here, a beret of soft suede, cut of unbelievably supple skins, as simple as a child's first street hat. With the two-toned eel gray woolen suit, a matching suede bag is carried.

* * *

WITH SO much talk about broadened shoulders continuing above narrow hips, designers have many ways of giving this to us. There is a certain modified arrangement of two stuffed pads on each shoulder that is good-looking. Look at it and remember it when you plan your fall clothes.

* * *

BY THE way, a new veil is being seen. One pill-box velvet turban was worn with a black net circular veil that had a whip motif worked in bold braid tracery. It is more definite in design than the former delicate meshes.

NOVELIST MAKES STUDY OF MRS. COSTELLO

WIDOW'S LIFE 'TRUER THAN FICTION'

Katharine Brush, noted author, writes exclusively for Universal Service and the Boston Advertiser her impressions of the Costello trial formed while she listened to Jessie Costello's own story, told on the witness stand in her battle for her life against charges of murdering her husband with poison. Some of Miss Brush's recent fiction successes have been "Red Headed Woman," "Young Man of Manhattan," and "Night Club."

By KATHARINE BRUSH

SALEM, Mass. August 7.—Mrs. Jessie Costello—you have read a thousand descriptions of her, and you have seen a thousand pictures. So had I. Yet, I was not prepared.

I had been told that she was darkly beautiful, that she was vital, that she had a fetching profile and an easy, brilliant smile. I had read that she looked Spanish, or Italian. All the little vivid details of her face—the dimple in one cheek, the brown mole on the other cheek bone, the strange shape of her eyes, the mannish thickness of her eyebrows—all these and other characteristics were familiar in advance.

I should have known her anywhere—or so I thought before I saw her.

I was mistaken. I should not have known her, and this is curious, for the descriptions have been accurate, and the cameras have not lied. She looks as one expects her to—and yet she doesn't. It depends entirely on her momentary mood. She may seem beautiful, or plain, or even ugly. Her face is always interesting in that alone it is invariable. I think men think her handsomer than women do.

She has a mouth that in repose is thin and just a little sulky; an inverted cupid's bow. In action it is facile, almost painfully articulate, as if it talked for lip-readers who could not hear a word.

Sometimes it pouts when she is listening. Sometimes it purses thoughtfully, deliberately, judiciously, before she answers. It sneers sometimes. It sneers about McMahon.

"No, sir."

"I didn't, Mr. Cregg."

She is very positive.

"Officer Murray said to me, 'No, girlie, you've done something you're sorry for, and I want you to admit it.'"

"I said, 'Officer Murray, I don't know what you're talking about.'"

She speaks rapidly—sometimes so rapidly that she begins before the end of questions, and must pause and wait. Her accent and inflection are colloquial. Her grammar is more than a little faulty. She uses none of her renowned profanity in court, except in quoting others.

Occasionally, for emphasis, she calls her husband "Bill Costello."

"Bill Costello never did anything but sit home and read."

"Bill Costello invited McMahon to stay at the house—"

I like her hands. They ought to be the reddened toil-worn hands of fiction, for not even Jessie Costello's enemies deny that she has worked hard—and for others, chiefly—all her adult life, but her's are smooth, soft hands, shapely and strong and very white. It is ironical that jail has done them good.

"Bill never talked or laughed much. After the baby died he stopped altogether—"

She has wept many times, lowering her head, so that her scooping hatbrim may shield her face a little. Questions about her baby's death, her mother's fatal illness, her happiness with her husband, have overcome her poise.

The testimony of a defendant in a trial like this is a sort of broken picture puzzle made of colored phrases. Here is some gray, and here is some scarlet, and here is a piece of the edge.

In the neat completed picture of the life of Jessie Costello, the gray predominates overwhelmingly. She denies the scarlet. There is no purple, and no gold. Around the edge there are no pieces missing, and if there are any gaps within the body of the puzzle, they are difficult to find. It is gray on gray; a neutral picture fitted on a neutral background. It is possible that this is very clever, and that it monstrously deceives the eye.

The pieces are minutely small in any case. Here is the little life of little people. Here is a grammar school from which you do not graduate—you simply leave when you have finished the eighth grade.

Part of the puzzle is a sort of map of a small town—any small town. Some of the streets are marked Lowell street, Fay avenue.

"Do you know where Hog Hill is in Peabody, Mrs. Costello?"

"I have an idea."

"Were you ever there with McMahon?"

"I was not."

"You heard what he said about it ——"

"I heard him, all right. But it wasn't true."

Number 21 Fay avenue is in the foreground of the map. I have seen this dead-end street, this grim house. It has narrow windows, many of them smothered under vines. Neighbors rock and fan themselves on porches all along.

This is the house that Mrs. Costello's father made over to Bill and herself. One can partition it into the rooms of her testimony. One can furnish it with the furniture she mentioned. The davenport where her husband left his clothes at night before he went upstairs to bed. The double bed. The baby's crib in the adjoining room.

The cross taken from the casket of William, Jr., by his father, and the bureau over which he hung it so that he might kneel and pray there, every morning, every evening, every day, till the day he died.

One can people this house with the major and minor characters of the story that was so commonplace through all its chapters, till the last one. Mrs. Costello herself—Bill Costello's wife, she was called then.

McMahon. Mrs. McMahon, recovering from her confinement in the downstairs rear "spare" bedroom of Jessie Costello's house. McMahon's two children, the new baby and the slightly older one, added to the Costello brood.

"You went often to the hospital to see McMahon, didn't you?"

"Not so often. I had five children and his wife to take care of, Mr. Cregg."

Life isn't stranger than fiction; it is only truer. When the moving finger writes, the thing is perfect. If the story of Jessie Costello had been an author's plot, a product of a modern novelist's imagination, he would have overwritten it, almost inevitably.

I should have overwritten it, had it been mine. To begin with, I should not have dared to make McMahon a policeman. Too obvious, I should have thought. Not enough contrast, with a fireman. I should perhaps have made McMahon a traveling salesman or a life guard, or a vaudeville actor, or a leather manufacturer from Lynn.

See how we spoil the patterns of reality a fatal little. We are afraid the simple truth will seem absurd.

And, if—still for fiction purposes—I could have invented the testimony of Edward McMahon against Jessie Costello, I couldn't have written that either. I should have discarded that, too. "Unreal," I should have said.

"Preposterous, unbelievable. She had been kind to him. No man would act like that."

And I could not have approximated the little human prologue that destiny wrote for the death of Capt. William J. Costello. The baby woke them both at 6 o'clock, do you remember?—as babies do all over the world—and, as parents do all over the world in houses where there are no nursemaids, they went and got him from his crib and put him in the bed between them.

And the little girls woke at quarter of seven, and Mrs. Costello got up and dressed and went downstairs, taking the baby, to prepare everyone's breakfast.

The weekly cleaning woman came, and the little girls started for school, calling goodbyes to their silent father, and then the candy woman arrived with chocolate candies which she said the doctor said were good for childden, and Mrs. Costello went upstairs for her purse.

I may as well admit it; I am more interested in this woman's little life than in this woman. I am more fascinated by her worthy normalcy than by her shocking guilt, if she is guilty.

I do not pretend to know, I cannot even guess, whether she is guilty or whether she is not. There are 12 good men and true, there is a judge in steel-bowed spectacles, and they will tell me, and they will be right. You feel that in the courtroom. Whatever happens, the bailiffs daily invocation will be granted. God will save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

GIRL VANISHES FROM BOAT

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Coast Guardsmen today dragged the waters of Lake Michigan for the body of Miss Bernice Wand, 30, who disappeared mysteriously from the deck of a 20-foot cabin cruiser one mile off shore.

Russell M. Oliver, owner of the boat, told authorities he believed the young woman slipped into the water and was drowned when she went on deck to get some water from the lake last night.

When Oliver and his wife and Spencer Barkley, a hotel executive, went above Miss Wand was missing. They sped ashore and notified authorities.

What Do You Mean by Convenient Monthly Payments?

This question was asked by a responsible person, who realized the opportunity of buying furniture now, but couldn't lay down a substantial amount of money at this time.

Such a question must be in the minds of many. "How can we arrange to buy furniture NOW while we can buy at such low prices?"

We advertise "Deferred Charge Accounts," "Easy Monthly Payments," "Convenient Terms," etc. All of these expressions cover the same plan. A plan that enables any responsible person to pay for furniture over a period of ten months out of current income.

Suppose, for example, you desire to buy a bedroom suite at $100, the plan works like this:

Cost of Suite	$100.00
First payment (10%)	$ 10.00
Balance	$ 90.00
Carrying charge (10 months)	$ 2.48
Total balance	$ 92.48
Monthly payments for 10 months	$ 9.25

This same method is used on the purchase of any suite or piece of furniture regardless of its price. If it is $50.00 or $2,500 the same rule applies. 10% Down Payment and balance in equal payments for ten months.

We do not, however, make these terms for less than $5 monthly payments. If you buy an article at $25, the down payment is $5.00 and four equal monthly payments of $5, plus small interest charge, will be arranged.

By this plan we feel that we make it possible for those who would like to buy Boggs & Buhl quality furniture to do so. The plan is in widespread use, more than 75% of all furniture sold by this store is sold on these monthly payment plans.

TELL IT TO ELSIE

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Would Human Race Be Better Off Without Marriage?

Would men and women be happier, if love were "free"—if there were no such thing as marriage vows?

Would you personally rather do away with "all those old forms," mate as you please—part when you wish?

And do you know "a lot of other people who feel that way, too?"

Do you think the world is about to dump marriage in the ashcan, in the interests of freer and fuller fun?

Am I serious?

Yes, indeedy I am.

Mrs. Anita Block, who lectures at the New School for Social Research, in New York, started it.

"Men and women of today," sez she, "desire institutions that will increase the sum of human happiness." In which, of course, she is right.

But is she also right when she continues, "And I suspect that monogamous marriage is a leaky and outworn storehouse for happiness?"

Of course there is nothing new about that! We have all heard it before. We have all heard people moan that marriage cramped their style, killed romance and made life just one long drawn-out Cat-and-Dog Fight.

WHAT IS TO BLAME?

But are they putting the blame in the right place?

Is it marriage—or human cussedness, human selfishness, human unfairness—that is to blame when people can't get along in double harness?

And would it really add to "the sum of human happiness" if Johnny or Mary could say casually, "Good-bye! I'm on my way!" and walk out, whenever a handsomer face hove into sight and flashed a Come-Hither glance?

Or would it make life a mess?

What would it mean to you, if we had no more marriage? Before you answer that question, stop and think!

NEEDS FAIRNESS

Marriage, after all, is only Life. A job, as well as a design for living. It is not a Prison. Or a Mutual Improvement Society. Or a chance for you to be a Tyrant. Or a Martyr.

But, like living—like any job—it takes fairness and tolerance and humor; it takes unselfishness, and a respect for the other fellow's personality, and a willingness to meet him or her half way. It takes giving as well as getting. It takes laughter and loyalty and courage.

Have you given your marriage a chance?

You'd work hard to make any other job a success. Have you worked to make your marriage a success?

Think it over, seriously and sensibly, and then let us have your ideas.

Would the human race be better off, or worse off, if marriage were discarded and we had "Free Love"?

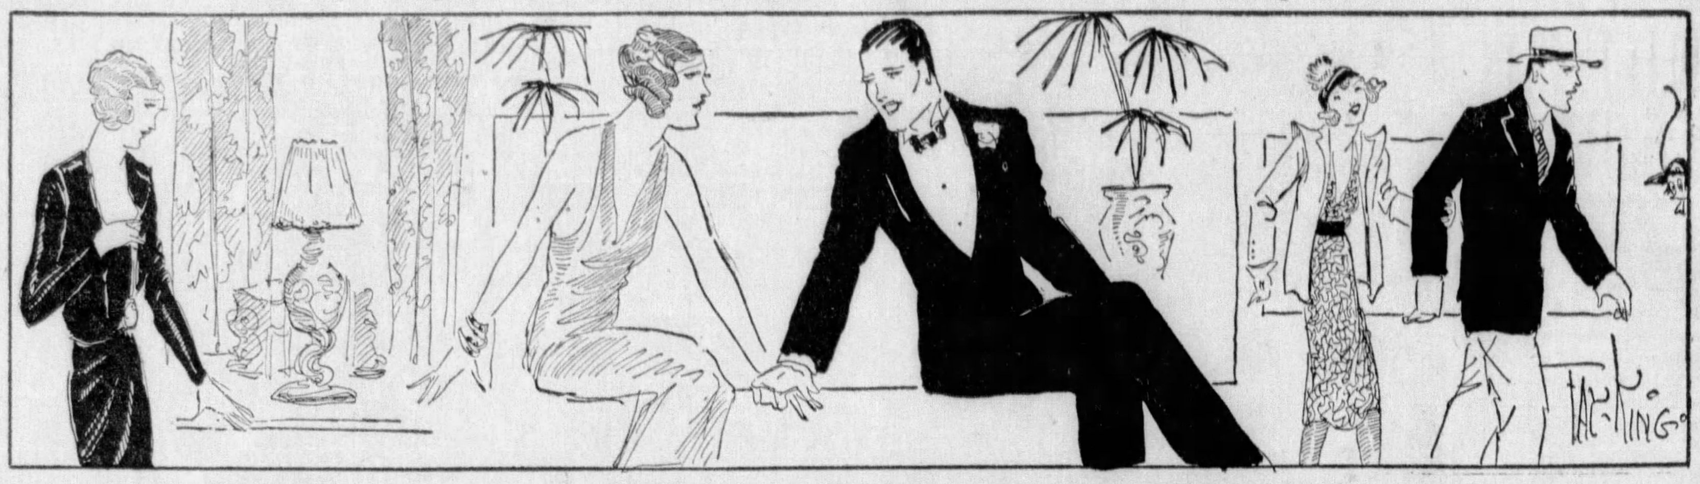
Fay King Discusses Older Women Who Go With Young Men



By FAY KING

When an older woman goes about with a young man she imagines that her friends envy her. That she has so maintained her youth that she has outrivaled girls of his own age in his affections.

But what her friends are really thinking is that she has "the young man complex." We observe also that she does not trouble to arrange meetings with attractive young misses that might interest her young man more.

Lately there seems to be quite as many young and handsome men devoting themselves to older women as there are young and beautiful girls who are devoted to older men.

But given a free choice and discarding the ambition which caters to wealth and influence, I believe the younger persons would prefer each other.

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Preparation for Veritzen Interview Is Interrupted

"If there's anything in the world that Phil Veritzen eats up," Lillian said, as she wheeled my chaise longue over to the telephone, "it is to have a good-looking woman ask his advice. Oh; no charge at all for the spinach," she added with a grin, as I made an involuntary little gesture of dissent.

She wrinkled her nose at me, and handed me the little French telephone, while I felt a distinct chilling of my spirits at the prospect of talking to Philip Veritzen.

But when — after the usual routine through switchboard operator, office girl and confidential secretary—I finally reached the carefuly guarded seclusion which is his, I found him most affable.

"You know, dear lady, that I am always at your service," he said flambuoyantly. "I can be at your hotel in an hour. Will that do?"

"Of course," I said earnestly, "and thank you so much! I would not dream of bothering you, only I do need your counsel so very much."

"You look as if you had swallowed a dill pickle," Lillian commented as I put the telephone back upon its rest. "What did he say that annexed your nanny?"

"Nothing that ought to annoy me," I said, "but he said it was unthinkable that I could ever bother him, and I wondered—"

MAPS OUT CAMPAIGN

My voice trailed off uncertainly, and Lillian finished my sentence for me.

"Whether he'd be saying the same thing an hour from now? Well, it's a cinch he won't be thinking of it, anyway, even if he does save his face, a la Lee Chow and his countrymen. If hate waves could kill, you'd be a 'dem'd, damp, unpleasant body' within five minutes after springing your news on him; but fortunately we haven't progressed that far with the psychology dope, although I'm expecting every day to hear of some new invention for utilizing thoughts for both murder and salvation.

"Sorry! I didn't mean to inflict a sermon to you. Let's get back to our muttons. What about it? Shall I wheel you back where you were, or will you stay near the telephone?"

"Stay here," I decided. "There may be other calls for me."

Lillian sat down in a low chair facing my chaise longue and, propping her elbows on her knees, cupped her chin in her hands while her eyes stared into vacancy.

When at last she lifted her head and looked at me, I knew that she had mapped out our campaign to the last detail, and that she expected success at the end of it. But with her usual courtesy she would defer to my opinion at every point, and would be offended if I played the role of a "yes woman," without giving her an argument if I really differed from her on any point.

PUZZLED ABOUT MARY

"Do you think"—she began characteristically with a question—"that Noel and Mary ought to be present at the beginning of this interview?"

"I suppose that depends upon Philip Veritzen's probable mood, doesn't it?" I countered.

"You mean his certain mood," she retorted with a grin. "Make no mistake, he'll be ready to bite chunks out of all bystanders, innocent and otherwise. But then," she reflected whimsically, "there won't be no such animal as an innocent bystander in our crowd. We're all equally guilty. But I have a hunch that he'll single out Mary on whom to empty the heaviest vials of his wrath."

"Then," I said demurely, as if the thought had originated with me, "it probably would be a good idea to keep Mary, and Noel also, out of his way until we have deflected his first wrath."

"That's what I think," she assented. "So when they come in, let's park them in my apartment until we judge it's the psychological moment for them to enter. Perhaps we'll conclude that it's better for them to keep out of the way for a day or two."

Dicky's knock put a period to her sentence, and I looked at her in sudden dismay. Had he come back in anger, or contrition, or—worst of all—indifference?

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Family Medicine Chest Needs Regular Cleaning

If you have not recently cleaned out the domestic medicine chest do so now. This timely suggestion is urged by the Department of Health of the state of Maryland.

Dr. Copeland

The medicine chest is likely to contain many bottles and boxes that should have been discarded long ago. They may contain medicines that have spoiled and become a menace to health.

As a rule, the family medicine chest contains an assortment of soiled first-aid dressings and various medications of doubtful value. Many of the bottles are poorly labeled and others are without labels. Serious accidents have resulted from the wrong use of such bottles. Often in an emergency a needed medicine cannot be found because of the disorderly arrangement of the chest or the defective labeling.

When you clean the medicine chest discard every single unlabeled bottle. Never trust to memory. Separate the bottles that contain poisons and keep them away from the harmless drugs. This will prevent the risk of taking a wrong bottle when in a hurry or excited because of an accident. Place all the bottles and boxes in position so that the labels can be clearly seen and easily read before the drug is put to use.

I want to warn every reader about the danger of chocolate and sugar-covered pills. These tablets should be kept well beyond the reach of all children. Cathartic and laxative pills of this type are a common source of danger to children. Usually they are of a bright color, chocolate-covered and attractive to a child. They contain, in many cases, strong drugs and when taken in quantities are dangerous and may prove fatal. Many accidents occur when children mistake such medicine for candy.

Drugs marked "poisonous" should have large and clear labels. They should never be taken except in the exact amount prescribed by the physician. It is a good plan to discard these medicines as soon as possible. It is dangerous to place them on the shelf for further use.

Bear in mind that most medicines spoil in time. The curative value is lost with age. In many instances their use may lead to serious intestinal disturbances.

Now is the time to clean the cabinet and put it in order. Get rid of all the old things that are useless. See to it now and do not postpone this needed cleaning of the family medicine chest.

Accidents occur even in the best regulated of households. It is essential to have on hand always a good supply of sterile gauze, cotton, bandages, a bottle of boric acid solution, tincture of iodine and other first-aid medications. When an accident occurs, you should be able without hesitation to pick from the medicine cabinet the necessary materials. Confusion and disorder of the medicine chest are hindrances that should be unnecessary.

Answers to Health Queries

C. H. S. Q.—What causes black spots and lines in front of the eyes?

A.—This may be due to some intestinal disturbance. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

A Daily Reader, Q. — What should a girl of 21, 5 feet 5 inches tall, weigh?

A.—She should weigh about 128 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

Mrs. M. P. F. Q.—What causes dryness in the throat after retiring and after having the first sleep at night?

A.—This may be due to mouth breathing.

A Reader, Q.—Is hay fever contagious? 2: What causes me to sneeze a great deal?

A.—No. 2: This may be due to nasal catarrh.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Signing Off

It is almost impossible sometimes to distinguish between a Sign-off and a strength-showing bid in Contract, and there are occasions when the Opening Hand, even though he recognizes his partner's response as a Sign-off, feels that the hand is so strong and the chance of game so great that he must continue the bidding until a game contract is reached. These decisions are frequently very close and it requires a nice sense of partnership adjustment to determine what should be the final contract—in other words, which of the partners should first decide to drop the bidding.

South, dealer.

North-South vulnerable.

	♠ 7 ♡ K 8 6 5 4 3 ◇ 10 ♣ J 10 9 8 3
♠ Q J 10 9 6 ♡ 9 7 ◇ 7 6 3 2 ♣ 6 2	North West East South	♠ A 8 5 3 ♡ 10 2 ◇ Q J 9 5 ♣ A K 7
	♠ K 4 2 ♡ A Q J ◇ A K 8 4 ♣ Q 5 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡ (1)	Pass
2 N T (2)	Pass	3 ♡ (3)	Pass
3 N T (4)	Pass	4 ♡ (5)	Double (6)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Although the hand contains less than one honor-trick, obviously a response must be made. Whether North is to show both suits at any stage of the bidding is a close question and possibly will be governed to some extent by the nature of his partner's further bids.

2—Even with a minimum hand held by his partner, South rightly feels that with four and one-half honor-tricks there is a play for game. The choice at this point is between raising hearts and bidding notrump. Because of the balanced distribution any available heart raise would be inadequate to show the great honor strength held by South.

3—North decides that the hand is too weak to make a show of strength by also bidding clubs.

4—While South recognizes the Sign-off he feels that North must hold at least six hearts to justify the bidding. In addition to these six tricks which he counts upon in the heart suit he reasons that he has a chance of making a trick in whatever suit may be opened by the opponents. Therefore he feels justified in bidding for game.

5—North fears that his unbalanced distribution will wreck any chance of a notrump game. As it happens, this fear has no sound foundation due to the fortunate location of the spade Ace.

6—A close Double.

While, as can be seen, the hand is automatically defeated one trick if East, after opening with the Ace of clubs, continues with another club, giving his partner a ruff of the third round, this line of play was not actually followed. East led the King of clubs and West dutifully played the six, but North false-carded with the nine, and East, fearful of establishing the club Queen for a possible spade discard, shifted to a diamond. The rest, of course, was easy, as North drew trumps, discarded his losing spade on one of the diamond honors and then conceded a club trick, making not only his contract but an overtrick as well.

The fortunate outcome of the hand has nothing to do with the bidding problem. In my judgment both North and South bid their hands with precision, although I admit that the question is rather close.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass

You, North, hold:

♠ Q 10 9 5 ♡ 3 ◇ A K Q 8 7 6 ♣ 9 2

What do you bid?

Answer: Three diamonds. This is the only time when a Forcing Takeout over an Opening suit-bid may be made on a hand containing less than 3½ honor-tricks. North has passed his hand originally and quite correctly so. However, when South shows the strength to open the bidding, Third Hand, with a bid of one spade, North knows that game must be a lay-down and he is justified in at least hoping for a Slam. His Forcing Takeout cannot mislead South since he has passed originally and he has the best possible hand in support of spades. The three-diamond bid is a sure means of reaching game, and, at the same time, suggests Slam possibilities if South has a good hand.

By ALICE ALDEN

Almost in uniform are those women wearing dinner frocks with long, tight sleeves and a deep V neckline in back. Such a dress is done in taupe-gray chiffon and has a tailored belt with a buckle of topazes.

Look out for the lovely hats that are being worn by bridesmaids at smart weddings. They are ideal for dressy occasions. One very charming model is of beige organdie with a crown of beige velvet petals. Velvet and beige bows hold up the wide brim at back.

Look for rain so that you can wear one of those new feather-weight rain coats. Very thin rubber coating is applied to the thinnest Japanese silk and the result is a smart rain-coat. We saw one in bright red with a double detachable cape.

We insist that there is always something new under the sun when it comes to fashion. A smart woman is wearing tiny rectangular gold clips on the lobes of her ears, with the hair softly brushed back. This fad promises to become popular.

All over town we hear reports of the popularity of black linen. It is used somewhere or another in almost every summer ensemble. Thus a jacket suit of yellow and black plaided cotton has a blouse of black handkerchief linen, with a large bow and collar, both worn outside the coat.

A grand idea is the new non-crushable linen process created by an English cotton firm after years of experimental work. It is used for a lovely daytime ensemble done in a garden print. Frock and coat are trimmed with plain white linen. Matching printed linen hat and gloves go with this ensemble.

Household Hints

Use rag saturated with kerosene to clean the sink and bathtub.

Heat your knife with boiling water before cutting the cake. It will not crumble the icing.

To freshen salt mackerel cover the fish with water and add one tablespoon of salt. Then soak over night.

Talcum spread thickly over grease spots that have gotten on suits and dresses will cause such marks to disappear. Repeat until spots have vanished.

Foodstuffs . . .

EVERYONE knows that prices for all types of merchandise are constantly advancing at a rapid pace. Foodstuffs, of course, are no exception to this rule; in fact, in the cases of some articles of food, prices are going up by leaps and bounds.

Every housewife knows that August is the time for canning fruits and vegetables. The wise woman at the head of a family will want to take advantage of present low prices to buy her supply of vegetables, fruits and sugar, to use in putting up her canned goods.

For those who prefer to have their canned goods already preserved, the food advertisers of Pittsburgh are offering attractive specials along these lines at prices that are still low.

The time to save on non-perishable foodstuffs is right now before possible higher prices set in.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

House-Warming Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Will you kindly tell me whether it is a form of etiquet to present to a bride, when entering her home for the first time, and after a wedding gift has been given, a house-warming gift. If so, what is the nature of the gift?

2—When an engagement has been broken and gifts previously presented to the future bride, are the gifts returned to the donors? S.

1—This kind of gift wouldn't be at all taken for granted, nor would it be necessary. But if you are a close friend of the couple, it certainly would be a gracious thing to do.

The gift might be just a trifle of some sort, but it would mean a charming bow to the new home. It should be something for the new home . . . a vase, for instance, or a set of tea napkins or the linen tea set, or a bridge cloth, or some serving piece for the table, or a cigaret box and ash-trays.

2—Yes, this should always be done. And it is very much better for the girl if she does this, not only because it is the well-bred thing to do, but it is far better for her feelings not to have these symbolic things about her.

Supper Party Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would like to give a supper party for my fiance's cousin and his bride at the end of next month, and I would be very grateful if you will tell me what would be appropriate.

I have never met the bride, but I have met her husband once, and I would like to know what I should write to her when inviting them? G. C.

Your note to the bride would be worded something like this:

Dear Mrs. Waters:

It would give me such pleasure if you will be willing for me to plan a little supper party at my home for you and your husband while you are visiting in town. Tom has told me such delightful things about you, and I want very much to know you, and to meet your husband again.

If this plan will be agreeable and convenient for you will you be so kind as to tell me the day that would be most convenient for you?

Best wishes to you both from Tom and me, and the hope of seeing you soon and of welcoming you to my home.

Cordially yours,

JACOBY'S TEAM VICTOR, ISSUES DEFI TO ELY

DEAL, N. J., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—By the slim margin of 300 points Oswald Jacoby's team last night won the national challenge team-of-four contract bridge championship—the final contest in the American Bridge League tournament.

The new 1933 champions are Jacoby, David Burnstine, Howard Schenken, and Richard L. Frey, all of New York. Their victims in the finals were Waldemar Von Zedtwitz, Edward Hyees, Jr., Louis H. Watson and Sam Frey, Jr., also of New York.

Jacoby is the first man to be a member of a winning team in this event for three years in succession.

After being presented with the City of Asbury Park trophy, designed by Mrs. P. Hal Sims, wife of the famous bridge player, and placed in competition last year, the team issued a signed challenge to Ely Culbertson and any team he may select to play 400 boards in a team-of-four match for $5,000 against Culbertson's $3,500 and any amount up to $10 a point in addition. The same conditions were offered to any other team in the country.

The winners also formed the team into a permanent organization and claimed the championship of the United States, inasmuch as the team members individually ranked first or second in every major event they entered in the present tourney.

The final round was a closely contested affair and was run off speedily, despite the title at stake. At the end of 30 boards the spread was only 30 points. The final margin of 300 points indicates how closely the bridge battle was drawn.

Wife Takes Poison, Quarrel Blamed

Homicide detectives today were investigating the alleged attempt of Mrs. Cora Oiler, 37, to end her life in her home, 5424 Second avenue, yesterday, according to a police report.

Oakland police said she swallowed poison following a quarrel with her husband, Richard Oiler. She was taken to Montefiore Hospital, where her condition was reported serious.

Franklin Girl Saves Swimmer From River

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 7.—Ruth Couch, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Couch, today was hailed as a heroine for saving James Sherrick from drowning in the Allegheny River at President. The boy had gone down twice when Miss Couch went to his rescue, dragging him to shallow water.

Sherrick was unconscious when taken out.

POISON DEATHS UNSOLVED

READING, Pa., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—A slow-acting metallic poison caused the deaths last month of two children, Dr. John A. Focht, County Medical Inspector, said today.

The children were Betty, 5, and Roy, 6, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Weitzel. They suffered with a mysterious ailment two weeks before they died.

Other children in the family also suffered from the same sickness, but are recovering.

Though the grass on a nearby golf course had been sprayed with a metallic weed-killing solution, there was nothing to show it had affected the waters of a creek in which the children played, investigators said.

No other means of poison contact was found.

POLICE TEAR GAS VICTIM FINED

Edward Eppiheimer, 28, whom North Side police drove from his home with tear gas Saturday night when, they reported, he hurled insults at them, was fined $10 in North Side Police Court yesterday.

Eppiheimer's insults came, police testified, when they were arresting Daniel Weisfoot, 1604 Howard street, where Eppiheimer also lives. Patrolman John Bray threw the gas bomb into the residence, it was testified. Weisfoot was fined $5. He had been arrested on a complaint made by his wife.

Needy Get Added Food Credit on Work

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 7.—Relief labor has received a "wage increase" of 50 per cent, Secretary L. D. Schoppe announced. Listed needy will receive 45 cents food credit instead of 30 cents an hour. Work will be on a five-day basis of seven hours, compared to eight hours and six days a week. About 600 are on the relief list compared to 825 at last spring's peak.

TRAGEDY CLIMAXES PICNIC AS TWO GIRLS DROWN

POLITICS

Mackrell O. K. Brings Conflicting Claims

By MARK SHIELDS

Conflicting claims surround a meeting last Friday night in the Thirteenth Ward when more than a hundred men and women indorsed Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell as a candidate for the Republican mayoralty nomination.

Mr. Shields.

Because the meeting was presided over by E. E. McConnell, who has been active as a field worker for the Citizens League, which is backing Councilman P. J. McArdle, friends of Mackrell portrayed the affair as a break in the Citizens League.

League officials in the Vandergrift Building headquarters asserted that there was no break in the league forces in the ward, and that the only defection occurring was that of McConnell, who has been doing organizing work throughout the East End district. District chairmen set up by the league did not participate as such in the meeting, it was claimed, and the league claims there has not yet been a meeting of this group in the Thirteenth Ward.

McConnell Resigns League Connection

Through these cross-claims the certain fact is that Mackrell was indorsed, that McConnell after calling the meeting together said he was resigning affiliation with the Citizens League, and Albert Frazier was selected as chairman of the meeting.

Last week in the Tenth Ward there was a somewhat similar occurrence when John M. Huston, after resigning as Citizens League chairman in that ward, presided over a meeting which indorsed Mackrell.

There are some breaks in the League, unquestionably, which champions of other candidates play up, and which the League minimizes. How effective these splits are for any candidate cannot be determined until the campaign progresses.

Some affiliates of the League were not thoroughly satisfied when the League's original candidate, William P. Witherow, withdrew from the race in favor of McArdle.

Headquarters for Mackrell were opened today in the Roosevelt Hotel, and before the end of the week the McArdle headquarters will be in operation in the William Penn.

Senator James J. Coyne is to be an issue in both the Republican and Democratic primaries. Himself a Republican, chief political backer of Mayor John S. Herron, it is natural that he should be an issue within his own party, subject to attack by Mackrell and McArdle.

Indeed, he rather than Herron, will be the target of the Mayor's opponents.

But to find a Republican an issue within a Democratic primary is not usual in politics, even such peculiar politics as we enjoy—or suffer under—in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County.

This condition comes about because Attorney John M. Henry and his friends insist that William N. McNair, Henry's rival in the primary for the Democratic primary, has affiliations which run back into the Coyne realm.

Chance for Party to Decide, Henry Says

Despite the fact that McNair in his announcement yesterday attacked both Coyne and W. L. Mellon, it is evident that Henry will continue through the campaign to attack him on the score of the Oakland Senator. Henry today said:

"I welcome the candidacy of Mr. McNair because it affords an opportunity for Democrats to determine in their primary whether they approve of the secret alliance long existing between David L. Lawrence and the Coyne machine."

Lawrence, Democratic county chairman, is backing McNair rather than Henry. In 1931 when Lawrence was a candidate for County Commissioner his campaign was managed by McNair. In that contest Coyne did his best for Lawrence against the independent candidate, C. M. Barr, who won. Lawrence triumphed over Barr in the city, where Coyne was effective, but this lead was overcome by the boroughs and townships.

Metzier Not Likely To Get Magistracy

Representative George Metzier, Republican chairman of the Sixth Ward, would like to become a police magistrate to replace Charles A. Papale, dismissed last week because he had fallen out with Chairman Michael DeRosa, of the Twelfth Ward.

Metzier was a faithful organization vote in the Legislature, and at the conclusion of the session was assured that his services would be recognized in an appointment. He was passed up when one magistrate vacancy was filled. It is probable he will be passed up again.

DeRosa, having proven powerful enough to have Papale ousted, probably has the strength to say something about his successor, and he would not willingly have the appointment go to the Sixth Ward.

RIOT AT PICNIC INJURES 4

Four men were injured and arrested yesterday in a riot that occurred at Adams Grove, Hamilton road, Castle Shannon, when a picnic of the Lithuanian Club of Orr street, Soho, was invaded by members of a gang attending a nearby outing of the McKnight Soccer Club of Castle Shannon, according to a county detective report.

The injured, all alleged members of the invading gang, said they were Michael Dywan, 20; Andrew Dywan, 19; Joseph Pinek and Henry Gorsak, 21, all of Castle Shannon. Many others were reported injured slightly, but fled before county detectives arrived at the scene.

The screams of women and children when the pavilion where the Lithuanians were dancing was rushed by a mob attending the McKnight outing resulted in the riot call to county detectives, the report said.

Helping Hand Camp Scene of Drowning

Frank Cassidy, 45, no address, was drowned late yesterday when he was seized with cramps while swimming in a pool at the Helping Hand camp, in Harmar Township, according to a Coroner's report.

DRIVER BEATEN, SUSPECTS HELD

Two holdup suspects, captured by police within a few hours after Jack Parry, 30, of Elrama, was found beaten unconscious on the Dravosburg - McKeesport Bridge, were identified early today by Parry as the pair who attacked and hurled him from his machine after he refused to take part in the alleged holdup of a Dravosburg confectionery, according to police.

Parry told Police Chief Charles A. Livingston, of Dravosburg, that he picked up the two men in Lovedale Hollow road, near Elizabeth, last night. When he objected to the holdup of a confectionery on the bridge, he said he was beaten and thrown from the machine.

The suspects gave their names as James Gallager, of Dravosburg, and Charles Baugh, of McKeesport, police said.

28TH DIVISION VETS ELECT SHENKEL

Pittsburgher Replaces Maj. Gen. Price As Commander

MT. GRETNA, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Maj. John H. Shenkel, of Pittsburgh, was elected president of Veterans of the 28th Division, A. E. F., at the close of their annual conference yesterday. Maj. Shenkel succeeds Maj. Gen. William Price, of Chester, former commander of the division.

About 1,000 veterans attended the two-day meeting.

Other officers elected were:

First vice president, Maj. Gen. Edward C. Shannon, commander Pennsylvania National Guard; second vice president, Col. Fred Pusey, Philadelphia; third vice president, J. Frank Gress, Kittanning; fourth vice president, Frank Warner, Philadelphia; secretary-treasurer, William Blough, Philadelphia; chaplain, the Rev. C. H. Schall, Wayne; historian, Adjt. Gen. David J. Davis, Harrisburg; sergeant-at-arms, A. Lewis Conn, New Castle, and judge advocate, W. Butler Wingle, West Chester.

WAR DAYS RECALLED

Addressing the veterans at the National Guard reservation, Gen. Shannon said:

"We are training the Pennsylvania National Guard to carry on your magnificent work of 1917 and '18 in any national or state emergency."

War days were recalled to the veterans as they witnessed the organization of the 800 officers and men of the 104th Cavalry, P. N. G., who begin their annual two weeks' tour of duty. All of the guardsmen from Harrisburg, Carlisle, Lewistown, Chambersburg, Tyrone, Punxsutawney, Clearfield and Altoona had arrived at camp at Colebrook before nightfall.

HONOR GUESTS

Veterans of the 28th were honor guests at the regimental review which was a part of organization day ceremonies.

An unusually large number of visitors were in camp yesterday because there will be no activity at camp next Sunday. A six-day maneuver into the mountains next week will keep the regiment away over Sunday.

Two cavalrymen were slightly injured yesterday. Both were kicked by horses. Private Leland Ross, Company L, of Punxsutawney, was kicked on the right leg and Private Harvey Warner, of Machine Gun Company, of Lewistown, was kicked on the left knee.

Mounted close-order drills, a regimental review and combat work is the schedule for today.

Youth Disappears En Route to Park

Evan Chappell, 16-year-old son of C. M. Chappell, secretary-treasurer of the D. B. Frampton & Co., was reported missing to the Missing Persons Bureau. The youth disappeared en route to West View Park. He was driving his father's automobile, police said.

GANG BEATS UP SOUTH SIDE POLICEMAN

Gun, Blackjack, Keys Seized; Officer's Face Cut

A South Side policeman was attacked and severely beaten by a gang of hoodlums early today at Thirteenth and Carson streets, a block from the South Side police station.

He was patrolman John Higgins, 34, of 4413 Garwood street. After being treated for lacerations to his face at South Side Hospital, he returned to duty.

Police said Higgins had a scratch on his back which may have been made by a penknife.

Higgins' gun, blackjack and keys were taken during the attack.

He was the second officer to be beaten by gangs within 48 hours.

SAFES BLASTED, DOLLAR LOOT

A week-end robbery at the Hoburg Brothers hardware store, 639 Butler street, Etna, in which two safes were blown open, is being investigated today by county detectives.

The robbery was discovered by Richard Hoburg, manager of the store, when he entered the building this morning. Business papers and books, he told detectives, were scattered over the floor.

Hoburg said that $1 was about the extent of the loot taken by the safe-crackers, as he banked most of the store receipts Saturday night.

BOY WINNERS GO TO FAIR

The winners of the "On To Chicago" contest, 100 boys in all, left this morning on their all-expense trip to the World's Fair. Included in the group was a crippled lad whom the Boy Scouts of Beaver sent by giving him all their coupons for one week. There were four boys from Mt. Oliver on the trip who worked together for four weeks and pooled their coupons.

The contest, sponsored by A. & P. stores, lasted for five weeks, and each week the 20 with the highest number of coupons were awarded a trip to Chicago. As many as 750,000 coupons were gathered by the contestants in one week. A nurse will accompany the group to render any necessary medical care.

Heart Attack Fatal To Steel Worker

Overcome at work, Andrew Swetlik, 60, of Talbot avenue, Braddock, a pit man in the Edgar Thomson Steel Works, dropped dead yesterday, according to a coroner's report. Death was ascribed to a heart attack.

CHARGE LOAFING ON STREET JOBS

A letter protesting the attitude of city workmen on street improvements in the "forgotten" Sixteenth Ward, was drawn up at a meeting of the newly-formed Sixteenth Ward Improvement Association in the Brashear Settlement yesterday. The letter, together with one asking safety zones and speed limit signs, will be sent to City Council.

E. J. Hollard, president of the association, declared that the workmen act as though they feel it unnecessary to exert themselves because they are political employes.

C. V. Shoup, secretary of the Allied Boards of Trade, was guest speaker.

DEEP WATER TRAP FOR WADERS

Cries Bring Campers To Rescue, but Death Gets There First

What was to have been a pleasant outing for the family of Joseph Latone, of 114 Third avenue, Aliquippa, ended in tragedy late yesterday when Rose Latone, 13, and a companion, Adela Yates, 16, of Sheffield terrace, Aliquippa, were drowned while wading in Raccoon Creek, according to police.

Police said the girls, both of whom were unable to swim, had accompanied the family on a picnic near the Aliquippa Country Club and were wading in the creek when they got beyond their depth.

Their screams attracted George H. Clarke and Norman Davidson, both of 400 Giffin avenue, Mt. Oliver, camping nearby, who dragged them from the water. They were pronounced dead by Dr. B. H. Jones, of Aliquippa.

TOLL BRIDGES PLANS PUSHED

Allegheny County engineers today continued to rush plans for three toll bridges after county solicitors held that a Public Service Commission order banning privately-owned toll bridges does not affect the projects.

Work will be continued on plans for the Homestead, Aspinwall and Drabosburg bridges for which federal aid is being sought, according to County Planning Engineer E. L. Schmidt.

Concerning the P. S. C. ruling, Assistant County Solicitor Churchill B. Mehard said:

"The projects we plan will not be affected in my opinion. They are not to be privately owned."

Schmidt announced that he expects to put three engineering corps in the field this week on the three bridge jobs. There have been 900 applicants for 100 positions, he said.

WIFE SLAIN, MAN TAKES PLUNGE

Robert Roscoe, 29, Negro, of Cliff street, alleged slayer of his wife, was reported recovering today in the Passavant Hospital after shooting himself and leaping 45 feet to the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks.

Police reported Roscoe, after a dispute with his wife yesterday in her Erin street home, promised to take her downtown. In his car he shot her to death, police reported, then shot himself and, jumping from the automobile, plunged down the embankment. A train crew took him to the hospital.

Pre-School Children to Get Examinations

A campaign including a series of medical examinations will open in the Woods Run Settlement Wednesday, under direction of Dr. H. T. Price and six assistants.

The programs were arranged by Ralph S. Hudson, who said the principal aim of the examinations is to afford attention to children of pre-school age.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Aug. 7.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Every week or so another fine plan comes from the administration. This last one is "no strikes during these times and its to be settled fairly by the government." That's one of the best yet. Unions are fine things, for they are in every line of business. Bankers have their association for mutual benefit, governors have theirs, all big industries are banded together in some way, but a strike should be the very last means, for, like war, it always falls on those who had nothing to do with calling it. So viva this last move. Yours, WILL.

Boy Stranded on Bus Trip Sleuths' Guest

In Johnstown today, 10-year-old Walter Betterman probably is telling the fellers there it isn't so bad to be lost in a big city if you can pick up a few detective friends there.

Walter journeyed here alone from Louisville, Ky., by bus last night to met his grandmother, Mrs. Augusta Betterman, of Johnstown. Mrs. Betterman, having taken ill, didn't meet him, and the city sleuths picked the boy up at the bus terminal.

The detectives entertained him, and he was sent to the home of Detective Sergt. Michael Daley for supper. Relatives came for him early today.

Wall St. Boys Can Weep With Or Without Gas

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

We congratulate Wall street on its demand for a 50 per cent margin from the evaporating customer.

That's a magnet which will attract the little guy who wears a yachting cap in a rowboat.

He will yearn to be seen in fast company where the big money rolls up like shavings in a lumberyard.

The new safeguard calls for the drummer boys of 1929 to own half of their stock.

It will always be the wrong half.

They're still looking for the mugg who tossed that tear bomb into the stock exchange last Friday. That wasn't a tear bomb. It was a hand-to-mouth grenade packed with deadly chlorine tips and quotation shrapnel.

The boys in the street need no tear bombs or other artificial aid. They can cry on demand, call or combustion.

"BREAKS OF THE GAME" . . . . GROVE'S SOUTHPAW SALARY WING WHICH HANDED YANKS FIRST SHUTOUT IN 308 GAMES

Two "breaks" of the game, one a joyous one, the other a tragic one, marked contests the same day in the two major league pennant races. Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove, brilliant southpaw of the Philadelphia Athletics, handed the New York Yankees their first shutout in two years, 7-0. Out in Chicago, George Grantham, second baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, suffered a tough blow when he broke his ankle as he slid into third base. His right foot may be seen turning under him at the left of the picture.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Smith Mate for French. But Pirates Need More. Three-Day Rest Helpful.

Gehrig Nears His Goal. Cup Won Without Ace. Cheap Play for Gate.

BUC PITCHERS FINISH ONLY 47 TIMES

THE CONTINUED FINE pitching of Hal Smith, whose neat victory over the Cubs on Saturday enabled the Pirates to come out of the short Chicago series with an even break in spite of the shutout they suffered at Pat Malone's hands yesterday, with Steve Swetonic failing again, makes it reasonably certain that the Bucs have a second winning hurler to go along with Larry French. But two will hardly prove enough, and for that reason the three straight open dates starting today may be helpful to the club, offering the hope that the rest will put some of the wobbly hurlers on their feet again and enable them to deliver with something like the consistency they showed early in the season.

Hal Smith

Certainly a general slab brace is necessary if the Rovers are to stay in the pennant fight. In completing five of his last seven games and winning all five of them, Smith has made a better record than any other Pittsburgh pitcher during the same period. With the exception of French, the others have not displayed staying qualities. Of the 105 games played by the Pirates, the club has been able to go through only 47 with one pitcher. It has been necessary to use two or more flingers in 58 contests.

FRENCH HAS COMPLETED 14 games and has been lifted nine times; Swift has completed 10 games against 13 failures to go the route. Swetonic has completed eight games and was not there at the finish of 10 others, one of the failtures being due to a banishment by the umpire.

Meine has completed only six contests against 14 lifts. Smith has completed five engagements and has been taken out five times. Hoyt completed three games and was lifted three times, while Chagnon completed one game and was lifted four times. Harris never has started. The staff record does not spell pennant pitching. Let's make a fresh start after the three-day rest.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE race often is referred to as a fight in which the "ageing" Yankees may be beaten out by their "younger" Washington rivals. Joe McCarthy's players get a laugh out of that. The average age of the regular Yank lineup, with Charley Ruffing pitching, is only 28½ years.

And the average age of the Senators with their best pitcher, Alvin Crowder, in the box, is 31½ years. Put Vernon Gomez in Ruffing's place, and the Yankee average would fall. Put Earl Whitehill in Crowder's place and the Washington average would rise.

LOU GEHRIG, who will be seen here one week from today when the Yankees play an exhibition game with the Pirates at Forbes Field, needs only two more games to reach the 1,300 mark in consecutive contests played in major league championship competition. He boosted his total to 1,298 yesterday. After rounding out 1,300 games, he will be required to take part in only eight additional pennant engagements to beat Everett Scott's world iron-man record of 1,307. Counting in all manner of contests in which he has participated since he started to swing a bat for the Yankees on June 1, 1925, Gehrig figures that even now he is far ahead of Scott's total. Lou has appeared in 19 world series games and about 200 exhibition affairs. His estimate is that he has played in more than 1,500 consecutive games.

Lou Gehrig

ASKED IF THE fact that he was reaching for Scott's record had prevented him from taking a rest on any day when ordinarily he would have requested a layoff, Gehrig replied emphatically in the negative. And he added that when he passed the 1,307 mark he plans to go right on playing in every game.

"I regard this endurance record of mine as a real feat," says the Yankee first-sacker. "I'll admit that it has developed a strain, just like the club's non-shutout record did before it was stopped at 308 games. The strange feature of my string is that I had no idea I was heading for Scott's record until a newspaperman informed me I had played in 987 straight games. I hadn't even noticed it."

THE GIANTS CONTINUE to make the old college huddle a feature of their operations. Bill Terry does not do his masterminding all by his lonesome. Probably there is more huddling to be seen on the Giant infield than on any other club in the majors.

If the pitcher gets slapped for several hits in a row, the four infielders and the catcher gather around the box and start talking it over. And often these little gabfests appear to bring results. The hurler frequently is bolstered up by a few peppy words and some slaps on the back, and keeps on to pitch himself out of the hole.

IT WASN'T UNTIL after American tennis followers had been given a great big scare in the closing match that the United States women players retained the Wightman Cup, and ordinarily there

Wesley Ramey vs. Steve Halaiko, 10 rounds, West Springfield, Mass.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

So what? So there are four 10-round bouts at Hickey Park tonight, for the only professional boxing show of the week in the Pittsburgh district.

Harry Dublinsky, of Chicago, who thinks he's as good as Barney Ross, his fellow-townsman, who, he says, won't fight him, although the latter is the lightweight champion of the world, and Charley Baxter, local puncher, are in the windup.

Dublinsky is tall and rangy, a good, fast-moving boxer and not much of a puncher, albeit he did stop Frankie Bojarski in his first appearance here. Baxter is short and chunky and a better puncher than he is a boxer.

THOMAS MEETS BURNS

Dublinsky also has boxed Tony Falco and Wesley Ramey here, losing to both, but in fairness to him it must be stated that he really outscored Falco.

Jimmy Thomas, local Negro bantamweight, recently beaten by Nat Litfin, essays a comeback to winning form against Charley Burns, of Johnstown, in the semi-final. Mose Butch, Oakland featherweight, takes on Eddie Pucci, of Canton, O., and Fritzie Zivic, local lightweight, meets Joey Greb, lately of Wilkes-Barre. Greb is a fighting name to reckon with in these parts and Joey will be in a tough spot if he doesn't measure up to its traditions.

YAROSZ VS. ROSSI

Then there's Ted Yarosz going to the post again tonight over in Newark, N. J., against Al Rossi, rugged Jerseyite. Sitting at the ringside for his second peek at Yarosz will be Vince Dundee, of Newark, who meets him in their postponed bout at Forbes Field two weeks from tonight. Two weeks ago Dundee got quite an eyeful when he saw our Teddy flatten Freddie Polo, another good trial horse in the Jersey fighting sector.

Altman, Neely Win in Regatta

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Aug. 7.—Two local racers, W. W. Neely and Jimmy Altman, captured top honors in yesterday's outboard regatta held on the Allegheny River course here.

Neely won both the Class C and free-for-all events and Altman captured the Class B race. Sam Henry, of Youngstown, was second to Altman, with Dale Perry, of Aspinwall, finishing second to Neely in the Class C race and Bob Cron, of Titusville, trailing in the free-for-all.

Rumor Vines to Turn Professional Revived

NEW YOK, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Rumors that Ellsworth Vines, Jr., United States tennis champion, was planning to turn professional were revived today with the published report that Vines, Jack Crawford and Fred Perry might join in a world professional tour.

Vines, according to the stories, denied any definite offer, but said "it might be a good idea."

DREWES GAINS SECOND ROUND OF NET PLAY

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Ted Drewes, second seeded star in the men's division of the National Public Parks tennis championships, which started here this morning, advanced to the second round of play when he trounced Dominick Rigerone, of Jersey City, 6-1, 6-2, 6-0.

Drewes is a St. Louis public parks star, and he had the championship for four years from 1924 to 1927. Arnold Simons, of Louisville, is the defending champion.

The third seeded star of the tourney, George O'Connell, of Chicago, drew a first-round bye in the lower half of the draw. He played Maynard Weisberg, of Boston, in a second-round match, and won, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Leonard Hartman, Columbia star, who is seeded No. 8, also was given a first-round bye. He defeated Aloysius Doyle, of Queens, in the second round, 6-0, 6-1, 6-0.

RALPH BALD WINS

CULVER, Ind., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Ralph Bald, of Pittsburgh, advanced to the second round of the National junior tennis championship here today when he defeated Arnold Berns, of River Forest, Ill., 6-1, 6-2. The summaries for the boys and junior play follow:

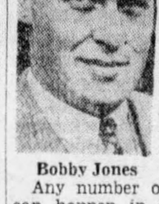
BOBBY JONES' GOLF

By BOBBY JONES

Only Golfer Who Has Won U. S. and British Amateur and Open Championships in the Same Year.

Some conversation has been stirred up lately by reports of unusual scoring feats by four-ball matches on short holes. The leading score so far, I believe, was reported by Herb Graffis, well-known Chicago journalist, who tells of a four-ball match playing a par 3 hole in nine strokes made up of a one, a two, and two threes.

I have a more or less indistinct recollection of a match years ago at East Lake in which we collected three twos and a three on the eleventh hole. But I cannot support that by producing the card, or even by declaring it definitely to be a fact. Anyway, I have no doubt that we shall soon hear of a total that is lower.



Bobby Jones

Any number of strange things can happen in golf, some startling, some amusing, some tragic. Almost any golfer to whom you relate your yarn is able to come back with one he considers a little better. When it comes to the holing of long shots and the like, I think I actually witnessed the prize performance of them all when I was paired with Jock Hutchison in the British Open in 1921.

JOCK HITS A FEW

The story is old, but it will bear repeating. We were playing at St. Andrews, and when Jock reached the eighth hole of the first round he was none too happy. But he holed the eighth, about 140 yards in one, and the ninth, well over 300 yards, in two—and his tee shot on the ninth, brought in with a wide hook from over the tenth fairway, actually rimmed the cup. That was enough, but in the afternoon round on the fourteenth, a par-5 hole, Jock's second shot with a brassie struck the pin squarely in the center, and rebounded only three inches—another eagle, surely, had the pin been out. I think this performance of Hutchison's is certainly the record for long-distance sharpshooting. And this is no hearsay; I saw it with my own eyes.

The eleventh hole at St. Andrews probably has been the scene of more extravagant performances than any hole in golf. It is a short hole, 165 yards in length, and at the back of the green is some sand and long grass descending immediately to the Eden River. There is a narrow entrance at the front of the green, flanked on one side by Hill bunker and on the other by Strath, each a terrible abyss with overhanging walls. Dreadful punishment awaits any kind of a mistake, but the worst of it is that the slope of the green is so severe that on occasions, when the course is fast and the wind off the Eden, it is barely possible to place a ball on the green by hand so it will stay there.

WIND REMOVES STYMIE

The second day of the 1930 British Amateur was quite windy, and the greens were dry and fast. Moreover, the hole on the eleventh was cut on the steep slope near the front entrance to the green. One competitor had played a grand tee shot which, by a miracle, had stopped some four feet to the left of the hole. His opponent having been short with his first, chipped well, a foot or so inside the other ball, and laying a dead stymie. The first player after appraising the situation, turned to his caddy to exchange his putter for a pitching club with which to loft the stymie. When he returned to play the shot the other ball was speeding down the slope. A gust of wind had blown it away. The story is that after considerable difficulties for both the hole was halved in six.

I doubt if either of these unfortunates felt any worse than the player who began a friendly round at the Oxford Golf Club in Massachusetts by driving backwards out-of-bounds on the first hole. I do not know if it was Sunday morning, but this man, who was not that kind of a player, unaccountably missed his first drive completely. Realizing immediately what had happened, with a remark of "Oh, Shucks," or something equally forceful, he swung his club back to have another try. This time the ball was taken by surprise, forgot to duck, and was knocked through the fence behind the tee. This is the only way I know to lose three strokes on one swing.

LOCAL TYPOS WIN FIRST

DETROIT, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Teams from a dozen cities swing into the second round of the Union Printers' International Baseball League tournament today with Washington's defending champions, Detroit, New York, Cincinnati, Chicago and Pittsburgh holding one-game margins because of victories scored yesterday.

Washington trounced Buffalo, 26 to 6, Ray Edwards hitting two home runs, as the titleholders served notice it expected to repeat.

New York scored four runs in an eighth-inning rally to defeat St. Louis, 11 to 8. Chicago got 13 hits to Cleveland's seven, but barely nosed out its rivals, 7 to 6. Detroit defeated Minneapolis-St. Paul, 10 to 5, in spite of a home run and single from the bat of Lonegren, Twin Cities third baseman.

Cincinnati was outhit, 14 to 13, by Baltimore, but bunched its safeties for four runs each in the first and eighth innings, to win, 9 to 5. Pittsburgh won a slugfest from Indianapolis, 16 to 13, by scoring four runs in the ninth inning.

Today's schedule: Washington vs. Cincinnati, Chicago vs. Pittsburgh, St. Louis vs. Buffalo, Detroit vs. New York, Cleveland vs. Indianapolis, Baltimore vs. Twin Cities. Two defeats eliminates a team. Semi-finals Thursday and the final game Friday will be played at Navin Field.

James H. Cochran, of St. Louis, starts his defense of the individual golf championship today in the annual international tournament with the Walter Hagen trophy for the individual winner and the Chicago trophy for the winning two-man team at stake. This tournament will end Thursday.

Cunningham Near Record in Germany

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Despite handicap of a heavy cold, Glenn Cunningham, star middle distance runner from Kansas, defeated Erik Ny, of Sweden and Dr. Otto Peltzer, of Germany, in near-record time over the 1,000 meter route in the feature race of an international track and field meet sponsored by the Charlottenburg Sport Club yesterday.

Cunningham was clocked in 2:24:6.

The Kansas runner's triumph was one of another near clean sweep for America's touring athletes. All told, the Americans won eight of the nine events in which they participated. Their sole defeat came in the 3,000 meters where Max Syring, of Germany again took Joe McCluskey's measure.

HURLS NO-HIT GAME

NEW CASTLE, Aug. 7.—Pitching in fine form, G. T. Henry, of the New Castle Merchants, turned back the Eastbrook nine in a no-run, no-hit game. He struck out three batters.

MALONE STOPS PIRATES WITH 6-0 SHUTOUT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

George Gibson and his flag-chasing Buccos are back in Pittsburgh today on top of their stalemate proceedings in Chicago during the past two days. The Pirates are in the same boat as when they left for the Century of Progress scene Friday night. The two intervening games brought a victory and defeat in the order named. Forbes Field will have no baseball shows before Thursday, when the Cubs come here to tackle the Bucs in three contests.

The three straight open dates on the Pittsburgh playing chart will not find the Pirates wholly idle. There is nothing on Gibby's books for this afternoon, but exhibition games are listed for Wheeling tomorrow and New Castle Wednesday. The first-string pitchers, however, will be held over in Pittsburgh to recuperate for the tough days ahead.

Adam Comorosky, Buc left-fielder injured in Saturday's game in Chicago, hobbled about on crutches today. Commy's right ankle was bruised in a close play at the plate. He was given diathermic treatment at the Pirate clubhouse today and expected to have an X-ray picture of the injury made later. Commy is not likely to play in the series with the Cubs this week.

PITCHERS BIG CONCERN

As the Freebooters rested today they were three and one-half games below the league-leading Giants. The situation might be a lot worse, yet it would have a roseate hue for Buccaneer fans if the followers of the club could discern any sign to let them know there would be an improvement in the pitching of the team.

The Pirates, outside of the slab division, appear to be the best-balanced club in the majors, but the reveries we spend on a classy ball club are blurred and made a bit distasteful when one considers that Larry French and Hal Smith are the only sharpshooters who have better than an even chance of finishing a ball game.

MALONE BLANKS BUCS

It won't be long now until the Pirates must leave on their last Eastern invasion. There is nothing to indicate that the pitching situation will improve, so what's the use of building up feverish flag hopes. You must have somebody who can get "something" on the old apple if you hope to win.

Pat Malone had plenty on the old apple in Chicago yesterday when the Altoona strong man threw Our Boys for a shutout loss. Pat yielded but six hits as the Bruins won, 6 to 0. Steve Swetonic swapped shutout punches with Pat for four rounds and then went into the stratosphere. The Bruins smacked the Pirate hurler for seven hits, including a homer by Babe Herman. The inning brought the Cubs five tallies. The Altoona fireman put on more steam and the old ball game was on the ice for the Bruins.

The best thing about the Pirate victory in Chicago Saturday was the pitching performance of Hal Smith and the promise held in this slab feat. Gibson and his players were hopeful that Smith would be able to deliver victories frequently in the home stretch.

Net Stars Seek Second Round Berths

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Sidney B. Wood, John Van Ryn and Frankie Parker set out today to join their five seeded brethren in the second round of the Eastern grass court tennis championships.

Wood, seeded second to Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, the defending champion, was to meet Carl Schweikhardt, of Forest Hills, with Van Ryn, seeded sixth, matched against Lieut. R. M. Watt, of Brooklyn, and Parker, national clay courts king and eight seeded player, playing Ramey Donovan, former Fordham ace.

ATHLETICS BRING GRIEF TO YANKS AND NATS

MACKS RETARD ADVANCES OF PACE SETTERS

Associated Press.

The Philadelphia Athletics, 10 games or more out of the American League pennant race, have caused some bad moments for the contending New York Yankees and Washington Senators as the leaders moved toward today's opening of another "crucial" series.

After handing the second place Yankees three straight defeats to knock them four games out of first place, the A's swung their bludgeons against Washington yesterday and helped reduce the margin to three games. The A's slammed Ed Chapman, making his first appearance for the Senators, off the hill in less than three rounds as Jimmy Foxx helped with his thirty-first homer. Then after the Senators had taken advantage of the wildness of Sugar Cain and Rube Walberg to tie the score, they moved ahead again on Pinky Higgins' homer in the seventh and finished with another burst for a final score of 12-8.

YANKS BEAT SOX

The Yanks meanwhile, downed the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 4, largely because of Boston errors and George Pipgras' lack of control. The victory left the Yanks three games behind Washington and 10 ahead of the A's, who in turn increased their third-place margin to 2½ games as Detroit's Tigers captured the remaining first-division berth from Cleveland with a double victory, 7 to 3 and 2 to 1.

Chicago's White Sox and the St. Louis Browns divided the other Amereican League twin bill. The Sox won the first game 6-5 in 11 innings when Red Kress drove in the odd run but George Blaeholder's four-hit flinging evened the count with a 7-1 St. Louis victory.

The humble Cincinnati Reds were the day's sensations in the National League as they took a pair of brilliant extra-inning pitching duels from the St. Louis Cardinals. Red Lucas went 11 innings to beat Tex Carleton 2 to 1 in the opener, then Paul Derringer, a former Cardinal, held St. Louis to three hits in 12 frames to win the second clash from Jess Haines, 1-0.

GIANTS BREAK EVEN

The league-leading New York Giants got no better than an even break with the Brooklyn Dodgers, losing the first game 6-3 when Carl Hubbell weakened in the eighth, then winning 3-2 with the aid of some brilliant relief pitching by Adolfo Luque. But they increased their lead over Pittsburgh to 3½ games as the Chicago Cubs and Pat Malone handed the Pirates a 6-0 whitewashing.

The Phillies and the Boston Braves waged a pair of close duels that got them nowhere. The Phils won the opener 1-0 when Spud Davis' homer in the second decided a struggle between Ed Holley and Dutch Brandt. Boston came back with a 2-1, 10-inning victory as Buck Jordan smacked a single with the bases loaded to break up a battle between Fred Frankhouse and Austin Moore.

HOME POLOISTS WIN AGAIN

The Pittsburgh Polo Club, in a convincing demonstration of its riding and stroking prowess, swept the two-game series with the visiting Iroquois riders, of Lexington, Ky., and now seeks new fields and new foes.

After walloping the Kentuckians on Saturday, the local riders came back to score an 11-to-5 victory before 3,000 fans at the Fox Chapel field yesterday. David I. McCahill, Jr., led the attack of the Pittsburghers with five goals.

The local team, which will meet the Iroquois four at Lexington September 3 in a return match, has accepted an invitation to play the Greenbrier club at White Sulphur Springs one week later. Yesterday's score:

PITTSBURGH—		IROQUOIS—

Referee—George F. Nixon, North Shore Polo Club, Chicago.

Shute and Hagen Win in England

BRIGHTON, England, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Denny Shute and Walter Hagen continued their winning golf exhibition streak yesterday, defeating A. H. Padgham, British Ryder Cup player, and Charles Parsons, local pro, 6 and 5, in a 36-hole match.

The Americans, with a best ball of 64 against 67 for their rivals, were 3 up after 18 holes.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF LAST SATURDAY: THE PICK-UP ARTIST—One of the entertaining features of the Believe It or Not Odditorium at the Century of Progress in Chicago at present is Julius B. Shuster, whose ability to pick up tennis balls, baseballs and pool balls is amazing. Without aiding himself from hand to hand he can pick up, from a flat surface, 10 tennis balls in each hand and hold them out before him, entirely free from contact with his arms or body.

TOMORROW—THE MOTHER OF 57.

HUDKINS SHOT, NEAR DEATH

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—From two bullet wounds suffered in a night club fight, Ace Hudkins, colorful Nebraska wildcat, pugilist, was in serious condition today.

The hard-hitting one-time leading middleweight challenger was shot in an altercation at the Professional Club by R. H. Harris, owner, who said "Hudkins reached for his hip pocket as if to draw a gun," after Harris had warned him to "stop beating up on people in the place."

Harris was booked on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

One of the bullets penetrated Hudkins' pelvis, the other entered the left lung, causing a hemorrhage. Physicians said his condition was critical and that an operation would be performed today in an effort to save his life.

Harris said Hudkins had a gun and knife and was in a belligerent mood when he entered the club with four friends. The gun subsequently was found to be unloaded.

Hudkins has been arrested here several times on drinking and street fighting charges.

Sunday Golf

SCHENLEY PARK

H. L. Friedman featured the Sunday play at the Schenley municipal links yesterday by scoring a hole in one on the blind No. 6, a 207-yard stretch. He used a spoon to negotiate this difficult par-three hole while playing with Mrs. M. J. McMahon and Dr. T. W. Bear.

S. D. Cantelou won the Wildwood Country Club championship by defeating Hugh Wallace, 7 and 6, in the 36-hole final yesterday.

In the sweepstakes event at the Glenshaw club, F. G. Weir led the field with a card of 83-9—74, followed by L. C. Titzel, 87-10—77, and Elmer Freeland, 91-14—77.

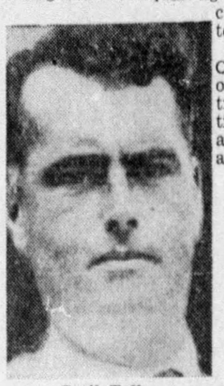
would be little room for crowing over a victory that was due only to a great finish by Helen Jacobs when she had been within three points of defeat in the final set that would have meant the loss of the match and the cup. But, giving the English women all due credit for their fine uphill fight after a most discouraging start, when it is considered that the Americans scored their triumph while lacking the services of their ace and the world's best woman player, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, the victory actually was one of the greatest achievements in the history of international women's team tennis competition.

THE LOSS OF a player representing so much strength as does Mrs. Moody would appear to be enough to wreck any women's team in the world, and the victory speaks volumes for the general class and ability of this country's women players, as showing that they do not have to depend on one exceptional star. More than ever before, America's Wightman Cup victory was a real team achievement.

THE ONLY FLAW in a great show was the failure of the tennis powers, evidently with a view to avoid hurting the gate, to make a definite early announcement that Mrs. Moody would not be able to take part. It amounted to using her as a drawing card when it was known she could not play. If professional sports promoters were to stoop to such cheap tactics, amounting almost to false pretense, they'd never hear the last of it.

JUST AS AMERICAN tennis followers are clamoring for a change in the system that appears not to give our players the right sort of preparation for the Davis Cup competition from year to year, golf men in England are requesting a new deal with a view to improving their chances in the biennial Walker Cup amateur team matches with the United States.



Cyril Tolley

The British never have won the Walker Cup, the Americans having captured every one of the seven contests put on since the trophy was offered in 1922. The competition was staged in this country four times and in England or Scotland three times, and the outcome always was the same.

A LEADER IN the agitation for a change in system is Cyril Tolley, British amateur champion in 1920 and 1929. He thinks the continued defeats are due to the fact that the Britons play their amateur championship at 18 holes, whereas the Walker Cup matches are at 36 holes. "Our efforts to win the Walker Cup have been tragic," Tolley says. "Players with British and American experience admit that, at the moment, it is almost impossible to defeat America in her own country, as it is very difficult, for one thing, to send our best team abroad, and, for another thing, climatic conditions are against us. But the same players cannot see why we cannot win sometimes on our own courses. In Great Britain, results in the amateur championship are taken into consideration when picking a Walker Cup team, though their connection can only be rather remote, for the reason that all matches against America are fought over 36 holes. In view of the 1934 Walker Cup match—a match we should win—cannot our championship committee take the initiative and make the experiment of two qualifying rounds of 18 holes medal play, 32 players to qualify for the match-play stages of 36 holes, for the 1934 British amateur championship?"

Hammer, Synder Win In Jeannette Tourney

JEANNETTE, Pa., Aug. 7.—Edgar Hammer, of Greensburg, and Roger West, Jeannette, will meet in the singles semi-finals in the annual Westmoreland County tennis tournament here today as a result of winning their matches in the quarter-finals yesterday.

West defeated Ralph Kelley of Greensburg, 6-4, 6-3, while Hammer, present singles titlist, won from Don Snyder, 6-1, 6-2.

Jamison Captures Greensburg Title

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 7.—T. S. Jamison, Jr., Hannastown, is the 1933 champion of the Greensburg Country Club by virtue of his defeat of Sid Carson, Jr., Greensburg, in the final round of the annual tournament yesterday.

Jamison defeated Carson, 3 and 2, on the 36th after leading, 1 up, at the end of the first nine.

J. O'LOUGHLIN NET VICTOR

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

A fast program of exhibition racquet tilts delighted a large gallery ranged around the clay courts of the Pittsburgh Country Club, Beechwood boulevard, late yesterday afternoon.

In feature of the affair, Dr. John O'Loughlin, P. A. A., luminary and occupant of the West Penn men's singles throne, defeated his brother, Dr. Dave, 6-4, 6-3, in free-hitting fracas in which neither was wontedly steady. In doubles session after the singles, the O'Loughlins outwalloped Frank McClintock and Frank White, crack University Club pair, 6-4, 6-3, while the Stantonians, Jack Beatty and Bill Spindler, rallied after a slow start to trim Frank Smith and Eddie Alcorn, Edgewood combine, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3. Tennis Chairman Bob Gunn, of the P. C. C., and President J. Phillips Davis, of the P. T. A., arranged the card. The contestants were guests of the club at dinner following the frays.

In the first inter-hospital tennis tussle on record hereabouts, the Pittsburgh Hospital internes downed the neophyte medicos of the Columbia Hospital, 3-0, on the Pittsburgh Hospital court. Both outfits performed well and aim has been expressed to extend the movement started by the joust even to the point of a hospital net league. The summary:

Singles: Haddon defeated Hibbs, 6-4, 6-4; Lewis defeated Moore, 6-2, 6-3.

Doubles: Haddon and McMurray defeated Hibbs and Moore, 6-4, 6-3.

TITLE DATES CHOSEN

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Aug. 7.—Dates for Beaver Valley's two major tennis tournaments were announced here today.

The annual Beaver County singles and doubles tournament will be held on the American Bridge Company courts at Ambridge from September 2 to September 9.

The second annual junior tournament will be held at Beaver Falls next Friday and Saturday.

Fallenstein Elopes With Boston Girl

BOSTON, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Mrs. Effie Young, of the Brighton district, has received word from her daughter, Hazel, of the latter's elopement and marriage in Baltimore to Ed Fallenstein, Boston Braves' pitcher, who was ordered to the Buffalo club of the International League last Friday.

Mrs. Young said her daughter telegraphed her that she and Fallenstein were married in Baltimore yesterday. The bride won several beauty prizes locally in recent years.

LITTLE TAKES TITLE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Lawson Little, of San Francisco, won the 1933 Broadmoor invitation golf championship yesterday with a 4 and 3 victory over Harry Gandy, of Tulsa, Okla.

PROS GATHER FOR P. G. A. TOURNEY

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Headed by the defending champion and eight members of the American Ryder Cup team, the leading golf pros of the nation were gathering here today for the annual Professional Golfers' Association tournament, which opens on the Blue Mound Country Club course tomorrow morning.

Olin Dutra, of Los Angeles, will defend his championship.

The internationalists among the 102 players who will enter the qualifying round of 36 holes are Leo Diegel, of Augua Caliente, Cal.; Horton Smith, of Oak Park, Ill.; Gene Sarazen, of Miami, Fla.; Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y.; Ed Dudley, of Wilmington, Del.; Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., and Billy Burke, of Greenwich, Conn.

The other two Ryder Cup team members, Densmore Shute, British open champion, and Walter Hagen, are playing exhibitions in the British Isles.

LOCAL COURSE MARK FALLS

By TOM BIRKS

One local course record was shattered and another equaled as golfers took advantage of yesterday's fine weather to swarm over district links.

At Hill Crest, Fiore Bruno, club professional, toured the nine-hole layout twice to record a 34-32—66 and crack the old mark, also set by himself, by five strokes. He trimmed par by six.

With rounds of 33 and 35, J. C. Jacquette tied the course record at Churchill Valley with a 68, four under par. The club mark now is shared by Jacquette, Jimmy O'Donnell, the club pro; Johnny Capebianco, of Aliquippa, and J. I. Crawford, a club member.

Harry Blair won the Castle Shannon championship, defeating H. H. Sutherland, 3 and 2, in the tourney final yesterday.

Golf officials of the Allegheny County parks have announced a change in the playoff dates for the championship of the two courses. The first match, involving Al Shacoski, champion of North Park, and Carl F. Kauffmann, champion of South Park, will be played Wednesday at North Park. The second 18 holes will be staged Thursday at South Park. The original dates called for matches tomorrow and Wednesday.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

Nick Altrock

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—If you don't reckon our Washington club will sew up that pennant, then there's a gadget loose in your thinking machine. I like to anouonce to my public that one end of the world series will be played a nickel's worth of carfare from Pennsylvania avenue this year.

We will let the Yanks and A's struggle for the second and third places, and remember, those pay off, too. But so far as first place is concerned, our Washington lads have got the scent of currency in our nostrils pretty bad. Uncle Nick wouldn't mind copping a share of series cash for cigaret money, even though I only chaw tobacco.

And maybe we won't keep those Yankees from repeating this year. As the married couple said the first day of the honeymoon, we have just begun to fight.

HEARST MEET ENTRY GROWS

By STEVE HEALEY

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Two weeks more and the greatest speed boat regatta of the Century of Progress season will be staged on the north lagoon at the World's Fair.

The William Randolph Hearst Herald-Examiner Gold Cup regatta for the second year will hold the spotlight of national importance in the world of outboard racing in America.

The annual Hearst Gold Cup, which will be held August 20, is the direct result of the initial experiment of last year. On September 28, 1932, the first Gold Cup was staged.

When the last staccato pop of an outboard had died and the beautiful Hearst gold cup had been awarded Horace Tennes, initial winner, by Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, the regatta committee in charge of James Mulroy announced two very important facts.

The first was that the crowd of over 60,000 had established a new world record for an outboard regatta.

The second was that the 167 entrants, from all over the United States, had also hit a new world high.

That the second gold cup will eclipse the first is a foregone conclusion. The event is still two weeks off, but practically all the outstanding drivers in this country have filed entries.

READING TOPS SOUTH HILLS IN FINAL

READING, Pa., Aug. 7.—The Keystone Juniors, of Reading, have retained the Thomas S. Shibe trophy, emblematic of the state American Legion junior baseball championship, which they won a year ago.

Yesterday, the Keystones walloped the South Hills American Legion nine, of Pittsburgh, 19 to 4, in the third and deciding game of the series for the state crown. The Reading lads opened up with a slashing attack, tallied five runs in the first inning and were never in danger thereafter.

Reading scored its sixth run in the second inning on an error. The club got going in the third inning with three runs. They bunched three hits coupled with two errors for the first scoring bee.

Reading's bats spoke in the fourth frame, socking the enemy hurler heftily for four tallies.

JONES IN FORM

Lefty Jones, the local pitcher, blanked the challengers for the four succeeding innings, while his teamates again went on a spree in the sixth and seventh. Six runs counted then as infielders and outfielders missed chances on the diamond.

The losers scored their final run in the eighth on three hits, while Reading was kept scoreless in the final two innings.

Scott and Davies led the offense for South Hills with three hits apiece. The score:

DETROITERS VICTORS

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Roose-Vanker Post, of Detroit, won the state American Legion junior baseball championship here yesterday after a marathon tournament which saw Detroit and Battle Creek play seven games in three days.

The Roose-Vanker boys won by beating Battle Creek Gen. George A. Custer Post two out of three games yesterday, with Clarence Frazho, righthander pitching star of the Detroit team, winning the morning game, 7 to 2, and then taking the second game of a doubleheader in the afternoon, 6 to 1.

CHICAGO NINE WINS

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—The National Tea Post, of Chicago, yesterday defeated Gillespie for the Illinois American Legion junior baseball championship, 10 to 1, in the deciding game of the three-game series.

DORMONT OUT FOR REVENGE

CITY LEAGUE STANDING

Two important games are carded for the City League this evening, both having a bearing on the second-half race. Dormont, first-half champion, and now in third place, visits the league leaders at Whitaker. Billy Fuch's aggregation will be out to avenge the defeat of last Friday at Dormont.

At Olympia Park, Homewood clashes with Books. While the Boll aggregation should win this game, Homewood will be in there fighting. Books must win to stay in the second-half race behind Whitaker, and should Dormont defeat Ackermon's outfit this evening, a battle royal will be in prospect for Olympia Park Thursday, when Whitaker meets the Books.

In a City League encounter yesterday, the Cochrans emerged from a protracted slump to defeat the Gillespies, 5 to 3. In the National Baseball Federation elimination series, New Eagle defeated Ingomar, 6 to 3, and the Monessen Firemen downed the Dowlings, 2 to 1.

Tab Boyer Wins Public Links Medal

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Tab Boyer, youthful Portland sports writer, won the medalits honors of the national public links tournament here yesterday in a 36-hole playoff with Leslie Leal, Bellingham, Wash. Boyer shot a 75 and 70 for 145, one over par, while Leal got a 76 and 81 for 157.

Charles Ferrera, San Francisco ironworker, won the tournament championship Saturday, defeating Robert Lee Miller, of Jacksonville, Fla., the titleholder, 4 and 2, over 36 holes. Ferrera was the 1931 champion.

PITTSBURGH BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

ACCOUNTANCY SCHOOL ADDS SEMESTER

The Pittsburgh School of Accountancy, Law and Finance Building, Fourth avenue, has added another semester of Day School to its curriculum, increasing the day-time course of instruction in business administration, accountancy, commerce and finance to two-and-one-half years instead of two years, it was announced.

Instructors in the new classes will include Guy F. Custer, C. P. A., dean of the school, who will teach accounting; M. Paul Scollins, B. A., LL. B., M. P. L., law instructor; Elbert R. Moses, B. Litt., president of the Pittsburgh School of Speech, instructor in public speaking; Macy L. Leuin, B. S., C. P. A., federal tax instuctor, and Stephen F. Wilmoth, B. S., M. A., instructor in marketing.

The number of instructors for the coming year, which begins September 27, will be 26, with nine special lecturers.

MORE AMERICAN COTTON USED

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—World consumption of cotton, all growths, for the season just ended was the largest since the 1929-30 season, the New York Cotton Exchange reported today.

During the 12 months ended July 31 world spinners used approximately 24,725,000 bales, compared with 23,007,000 in the previous season.

The increase of 1,718,000 bales in consumption of all growths from 1931-32 to 1932-33 was almost entirely due, said the exchange service, to the large increase in the use of American staple, which rose from 12,506,000 bales to 14,132,000. Consumption of foreign cottons rose but slightly, from 10,501,000 bales to 10,593,000.

The service reported the world's carryover of all kinds of cotton on July 31 at approximately 15,530,000 bales on the basis of preliminary returns against 17,412,000 a year ago.

First Half Sugar Consumption Gains

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Sugar consumption in the United States during June totaled 522,215 long tons raw sugar value, as against 579,231 tons consumed in June, 1932, a decrease of 57,016 tons, or 9.84 per cent, according to B. W. Dyer & Co. Consumption for the first six months was 2,865,191 tons, an increase of 149,475 tons, or 5½ per cent above the like 1932 period.

REFRIGERATOR PRICES UP

An increase in the price of electric refrigerators, effective at once, has been announced by R. C. Cosgrove, manager, refrigeration department, of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

Higher prices range from $10 to $75, providing an average increase of 6.47 per cent. The lower priced new model, announced last week, remains unchanged.

In commenting on the price increase, Mr. Cosgrove explained that higher costs have been due to the rapidly changing conditions affecting the manufacture of refrigerators. He stated:

"With the price of raw materials and labor substantially advanced, it has been found necessary to increase retail price of the finished product to maintain a sound merchandising program and to stabilize production. Prices of some of the raw materials used in the manufacture of our product have advanced, in many cases, as high as 100 per cent within the past few months. With the price of tin, copper, steel, rubber, insulation, hardware, cloth, labor, lacquer and other products materially increased it was found necessary to adjust the retail price."

MOB STORMS JAIL FOR PALS

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Aug. 7.—(INS.)—John Zawarski and Theodore Kelenick, both 25-year-old Ambridge residents, were to be given a hearing here tonight before Burgess Philip Caul on charges of intoxication, after a mob of 300 had demanded their release from jail Saturday night.

The pair started a celebration with moonshine, police said, and ended with a quantity of free beer which had been distributed by dealers for a brewery to any Ambridge customer.

They were arrested by Patrolman William Damis when the various concoctions failed to mix well.

BONDS DISPLAY UNCERTAIN TREND

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—The bond market ended the past week under a gaseous cloud, with prices uncertain and trading activity at its lowest ebb since the start of the 1933 upswing.

Transactions in bonds, as well as stocks, finished abruptly shortly after noon Friday when fumes from hidden tear gas bombs drove brokers to the street and caused the closing of the stock exchange for the day. Under a previous ruling of the exchange governors, there was no business Saturday nor will there be on other Saturdays until Sept. 9.

Prices were somewhat soft on Monday, picked up a little on Wednesday, and were generally unchanged on the other three days. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds was off two-tenths of a point on the week at 81.1.

SALES VOLUME DOWN

The lack of enthusiasm was shown by the fact that sales totaled only $47,140,000, per value, against $55,155,000 in the previous five-day week of three-hour sessions.

There was little to choose from between the various corporate categories. Most of them recorded slight recessions on the average. The secondary rails were under some pressure most of the time, as were some of the more speculative utilities. The industrials, as a whole, gave better account of themselves. Business and trade was holding about according to expectations.

U. S. ISSUE TAKEN

Followers of the higher grade groups were considerably cheered by the response to the government's new long-term issue. The heavy over-subscription to this offering of $500,000,000 3¼ per cent was seen as an indication that investors, generally, are not now so fearful of inflation as formerly and that confidence in the re-establishment of industry without the utilization of the drastic currency expansion powers given the President has been growing.

United States government listed securities still continued listlessly and some of these registered small losses. Little importance, however, was attached to the minor fluctuations of this division. Foreign obligations were mixed.

SETTLE TO TRY NEW FLIGHT

CHICAGO, Aug. 7. — (INS.) — Undaunted by his first attempt to soar into the mystery-ridden stratosphere, Lieut. Commander T. G. W. Settle, United States Navy, of Akron, O., today had announced definitely that he would try again.

Speaking of his dramatic flight and unexpected landing, the daring naval officer said:

"I was not entirely satisfied with that gas release valve before I went up, but I thought I could nurse it along all right. What I have learned from this experience will be an invaluable aid to me on my next attempt."

Aviation authorities today were full of praise for the naval officer's skillful handling of the huge balloon and gondola before more than 25,000 awed spectators at Soldier Field. They were assured that Commander Settle's next attempt to reach an altitude of 11 miles to study the cosmic ray would meet with success.

Wholesale Prices Recede Slightly

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Wholesale commodity prices declined slightly last week, according to today's index of the National Fertilizer Association, which declined three points, receding from 67.5 to 67.2. A month ago the index stood at 65.4 and a year ago at 61.3.

Only one of the 14 major groups index advanced, five declined and eight showed no change. Thirty-six individual commodities showed lower prices while only 24 showed price gains.

Hazel Atlas Glass To Buy in Shares

The Hazel-Atlas Glass Company has called a special meeting of stockholders for August 22 to vote on a plan to authorize directors to purchase outstanding capital stock of the company in an aggregate of not to exceed 50,000 shares, at not more than $60 a share, such stock to be retired.

Wall Street Confident Awaiting Motors Dividend

Wall street looked forward to the scheduled meeting of the General Motors' board for dividend action without the feeling of uneasiness that had prevailed with the approach of recent meetings. There had been ample reason in the six preceding quarters for some misgiving relative to the outcome of dividend meetings, for the corporation had fallen substantially short of covering dividend requirements in those periods, and two quarters, September and December last year, showed actual deficits. The June quarter this year, however, produced net equal to 90 cents a share bringing the balance for the six months to $1.01 a share. Moreover, it is said that the company earned the equivalent of 34 cents a share last month.

After the almost hysterical buying of cigarets in May, which pushed production for that month up to an all-time record, and continued "loading" purchases in June, buying of this nature dropped off considerably in July. Production of cigarets for the month ran ahead of July last year, but showed a much smaller gain than the 18 per cent increase for June which followed the 47.6 per cent increase in May. According to present indications, The July production was under the 11-billion-mark.

E. J. Grimes, of Cargill Grain Company, of Minneapolis, announced today that a steamer is momentarily expected to clear from the Argentine with a cargo of rye consigned to Albany, N. Y., in care of the Cargill Grain Company. This is the first of several cargoes which will take advantage of the storage available in the elevator of the port district commission at Albany. The rye will be stored in bond and is intended for reshipment at some later date to European markets for consumption. It will not be used in the United States unless a "cornered" situation should develop in our domestic markets.

"The Trader" in Barron's Weekly says: "In the face of industrial uncertainties and the great mystery of inflation and non-inflation, the buying of stocks obviously must be by people possessed of patience and confident that in the event of any real setback to business recovery the administration will apply its huge currency powers. Of the real goal of Washington, namely, restoration of 1926 commodity-price levels and amelioration of the burden of the debtor, there can hardly be doubt in the light of repeated utterances and the resolution with which platform pledges have been carried out. For this reason, seasoned speculators whose vision is far superior to businessmen preoccupied with day-to-day problems, cling to equities as a better protection than cash."

Railroad stocks were rather disappointing by their action, or perhaps put more accurately, lack of action. It had been expected that the carriers as a group would make at least some vestige of response to the important news which came out on Saturday relative to the general rate structure. Principal shippers some months ago had petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission for a general reduction in rates. On Saturday the I. C. C. announced its denial of the requests. But rail shares were practically unmoved by the news, easing slightly with the general market.

Prevailing conditions indicate that profits of the automobile industry, exclusive of Ford, in the third quarter will run at the highest aggregate total for comparable periods since the third quarter of 1929. Improved earnings trend in prospect for the current quarter is based on the present strong tone of retail sales, which in turn is responsible for production schedules far in excess of the like period of last year when a drastic curtailment in output was in force.

SOVIET DECREES HORSE HOLIDAY

MOSCOW.—(INS.)—Every dog has his day—but now it's Old Dobbin's turn.

Motorized transport has gradually supplanted the horse during recent years, but there still are some 30,000 animals in Moscow. And day in and day out they drag thousands of heavily laden carts over the cobbled streets.

They are, for the most part, poorly fed, badly cared for, and abominably treated even though drivers caught beating or otherwise maltreating their horses lose their driving licenses and food cards and are liable to prison sentences.

But the Transport Department of the Moscow Soviet has taken steps to remedy this distressing state of affairs. It has decreed that each horse shall enjoy a "free day" every sixth day, just as the human being is permitted to do in the U. S. S. R. Thus 5,000 horses will be out of service every day in the year.

UNCERTAINTIES CLOUD STEEL

CLEVELAND, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—A "freezing" of purchasing and a reduction of one point in the national steelworks operating rate to 54 per cent of capacity was attributed by the magazine Steel today to the growing number of uncertainties hanging over the iron and steel markets.

These the magazine in its weekly review listed as:

1—A more aggressive attitude of labor.

2—Inability of the industry to see clearly the effects of the NRA blanket code.

3—Increasing resistance of large consumers to the proposed elimination of concessions on tonnage in the new price program.

"Prices generally continue to show an upward trend. Cold finished steel bars have been raised $5 a ton. Further increases are noted in raw materials, principally furnace coke, refractory brick and manganese ore.

"Nothing has occurred to destroy steelmakers' expectations of a fall upturn, based largely on improved purchasing power for miscellaneous products, public works and railroad requirements."

Bethlehem Steel's Backlog Expands

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Offices of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation reported unfilled orders increased 64 per cent last week when a subsidiary was awarded contracts for one heavy cruiser and four destroyers by the Navy Department. At the end of June, unfilled orders totaled $42,647,681, with new orders rolling in, present unfilled orders neared the $70,000,000 mark, the company reported.

Canada May Follow U. S. 'New Deal' Program

By M. GRATTAN O'LEARY

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 5.—The government's royal commission on banking and finance, has lost no time in getting down to work, and its report and recommendations will probably be ready before the end of the year. Precisely what form its suggestions are likely to take, no one is in a position to say, but it is significant that already political leaders and newspapers are speculating upon the possibility of Canada following many of the financial and industrial steps taken in the United States.

While the Dominion is not yet ready, either financially or commercially, for the sweeping project now operating in the United States, the public view is becoming stronger that a plan modeled upon that of President Roosevelt's must be adopted if Canada is to be spared much avoidable trouble. The existing position is that business is improving and unemployment and relief expenditures diminishing, but what the public fears is that there is no real promise of this betterment continuing, that without active government measures such as exist in the United States, production and employment will fall back to the level of last winter.

It was for this reason, chiefly, that at the eleventh hour, the scope of the MacMillan commission was greatly extended. Meanwhile, and despite these misgivings, business continues its forward march. Weekly figures issued by the Dominion department of trade and commerce show sustained and impressive gains in practically all lines of industry, while the traffic earnings of railways since the beginning of July have been better than for the past two years.

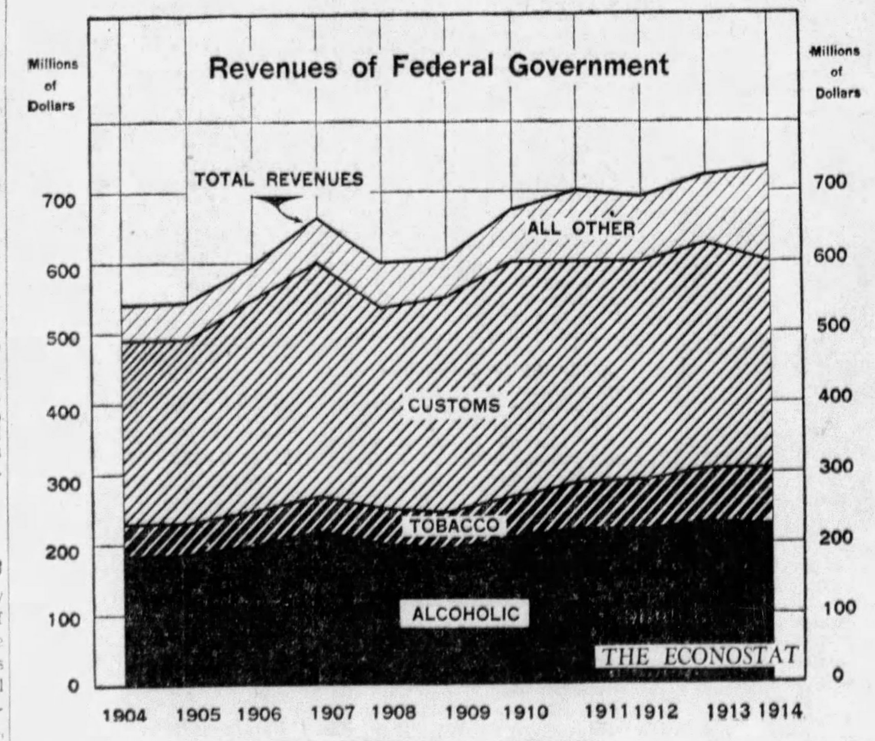
Alcohol Revenue Expected To Ease Cost of 'New Deal'



By JOSEPH STAGG LAWRENCE

The recent rise and fall of the alcohol stocks in speculative favor together with the striking progress of repeal in the traditional strongholds of prohibition have turned attention to the importance of this industry as a revenue producer not only for the various state and municipal governments, but for Uncle Sam. In fact, an examination of the position of this industry as a source of revenue may account in part, at least, for the serious collapse in the alcohol stocks.

It may be noted that excise taxes on alcoholic beverages produced approximately one-third of the federal revenue in the 11-year period from 1904 to 1914. If the fiscal status of this industry is again restored after repeal and the revenue from this source assumes a corresponding position in Uncle Sam's income the tax on alcohol will be expected to produce annually from $1,300,000,000 to $1,500,000,000. Obviously, any industry compelled to bear a tax load as heavy as this will find it difficult to show any but the most meager profits. It is well known that the campaign for repeal is not being pushed in order to restore distillery and brewery profits, but on the contrary is being promoted largely as a tax producer.

This is in accord with the practice in almost every other important commercial nation where alcohol provides on an average about 20 per cent of the government's revenue. In England, for example, the per capita tax payment on this account amounts to $14.93.

Should the federal government in the course of time impose excise taxes of corresponding weight in this country it will result in an annual revenue of more than two billion dollars. This will take care of not only the carrying charges of the new deal construction expenditures, but may make it possible to reduce other forms of taxation and transfer to the pockets of Uncle Sam the revenue which formerly went to bootleggers.

STOCKS DRIFT IN DULL TRADING

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Dullness ruled in the security markets today as both bulls and bears apparently observed a momentary truce while convertly attempting to estimate the strength of each other's ammunition.

Trading activity in stocks was at the lowest ebb since the 1933 upswing got under way. The ticker tape stood still for minutes at a time, and most board rooms were almost deserted except by a few sleepy-eyed and indifferent customers. Grains in the restricted Chicago market were narrow and listless. Cotton was a bit easier and other commodities mixed. Bonds were irregularly lower. The dollar continued to advance in terms of leading foreign exchanges.

While security prices generally were inclined to move uncertainly at times, financial observers pointed out that the technical condition of the market had been highly improved during the past week or so and that much of the recent overhanging liquidation has been eliminated without many unusually severe casualties.

The cooling down of the inflation fever is viewed as encouraging by most banking circles, although it still is a market factor. Business analysis are divided on the question of whether the administration will make full use of its currency and credit expansion powers. If industry continues to maintain its upward trend, and retail buying picks up in the next few weeks, some of the more conservative financiers feel it will not be necessary to resort to drastic inflation.

Two of the important events of this week will be publication of the government's cotton report tomorrow and the unfilled tonnage figures of the United States Steel Corporation Friday. It is expected that the cotton report may estimate the number of acres retired under the crop reduction scheme. There are many guesses on the steel backlog. A moderate loss is seen by some observers, while others feel there may be a pleasant surprise in a small gain.

WHEAT RALLIES AFTER DIP

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Grain prices averaged higher early today, after a hesitant start. A return of high temperatures in the Canadian Northwest, where wheat crops have already suffered severe losses, tended somewhat to stimulate buyers.

Opening at ¾ off to ⅛ up, wheat later scored moderate general gains. Corn started at ⅜ decline to ¼ advance and subsequently made slight general upturns.

Selling enlarged on price advances and wheat soon receded to below Saturday's finish. In the aggregate, trade was light and the market responded readily to any good buying or selling. An evident undertone of firmness was associated with attention given the fact that of late the September delivery of wheat had gained relative to December, a circumstance which friends of higher prices said pointed to inherent market strength as generally shown by past experience whenever a nearby contract was notably firmer than deferred futures.

Recovery Is Well Retained; What of Fall?

By B. C. FORBES

A MIXED week.

Commodities sagged, securities weakened, labor troubles obtruded. Some slackening in the recent recovery pace was reported from various directions.

On the other hand very notable progress was made in adopting NRA codes trade on the whole was maintained better than usual at this mid-summer season, many companies announced re-engagement of considerable number of workers, government financing proved unqualifiedly successful, some cheerful dividend news was furnished, wage increases were notably numerous.

Mr. Forbes

WASHINGTON continues to absorb most attention. Gen. Johnson is proving himself a dynamic, result-getting industrial administrator. In addition to making various balking industries toe the code-making line, he took a few hours off to put an end to the coal strike. Before the end of this month almost every sizeable industry and line of business promises to be brought under the wings of the Blue Eagle.

AT LEAST a brief lull in buying will be logical. Users of raw materials as well as wholesalers, retailers and consumers have been laying in supplies in anticipation of higher prices under the shorter work week, and higher wage scale. While these supplies are being drawn upon, fresh ordering probably will lag.

But the conclusion is not warranted at this stage that revival will not soon reappear. The very evident fact is that many individuals and families have become more hopeful, and are disposed to return to normal living, normal spending.

THE EFFECTS of the overdone speculation in stocks and in leading commodities have not wholly disappeared. Volume of trading has diminished materially. This contraction has been fostered by the limiting of the maximum daily fluctuation in commodities and by the drastic regulations issued by the New York Stock Exchange governors enforcing much larger margins than heretofore required.

It is remarkable that so little disturbance was caused in the stock market, remarkable that so few speculators were sold. The deduction drawable is that the market was not honeycombed with weakly-protected accounts. Presumably only moderate buying would be necessary to lift quotations.

The official decree that all pool operations must be fully reported weekly is likely to modify the manipulations and gyrations lately manifest in highly speculative issues, especially the "whisky stocks." The rule should not only make for a safer, saner market place for stocks, but should do something to appease public criticism.

WITHIN A MONTH, Labor Day will be here. It traditionally marks the end of summer lethargy, and the inauguration of aggressive fall action by the business world.

This year, instead of the customary summer slump, we have experienced spirited recovery. But, the recovery started from deplorably low depths.

The 1933 autumn showing will almost certainly exceed 1932. That railway results, power consumption, automobile sales, steel output, retail trade, payrolls, agricultural income, corporation earnings will compare favorably with last fall appears assured.

HOWEVER, so bewildering a multiplicity of revolutionary economic experiments are being launched, so much uncertainty rules regarding how far the dictatorial and inflationary powers conferred upon the President may be exercised, that there is a tendency in responsible, conservative circles to exercise caution, to limit risks.

They are disposed—aren't we all?—to watch eagerly, not to say anxiously, how business, how profits will fare under the higher production costs imposed from above.

Bluntly, will the increase in wage disbursements, the advance in agricultural values, the distribution of many millions of public funds in the form of bounties to farmers, the unleashing of widespread public construction and other expenditures—will all this bring about and sustain distinctly better business this fall?

One thing certain is that it is in the interest of every class and group throughout the continent to co-operate to the limit towards attaining this end.

Sleeping Autoist Escapes Death

Brazil Puts Pigeons Into Army Reserve

RIO DE JANEIRO.—(AP.)—All Brazilian carrier pigeons have been drafted into the army reserve by a decree which created a government-supervised association of pigeon fanciers, ordered all birds registered with the War Department and forbade ownership of carriers by aliens.

FIND 'SLAIN' BOY DROWNED

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—A playmate of Dalbert Aposhian, the boy whose supposed slayer has been sought for three weeks, apparently solved the mystery of his death by telling Sheriff Ed Cooper the child accidentally downed in San Diego Bay.

A group of medical experts who re-examined the body said they believed the story told by Dalbert's companion, Jackie Confar, 9. Sheriff Cooper, too, was inclined to believe that it was a case of drowning.

Three of the medical experts added that it was logical to believe crabs ate portions of the child's body, leading to the theory that Dalbert had been slain and the body mutilated. Two took exception.

Jackie, Sheriff Cooper announced, had been afraid to tell his parents of Dalbert's drowning. Yesterday he apprised his father of the facts. The Sheriff's office was notified, and the doctors were called in.

HOTEL OFFERS ELLIOTT JOB

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 7.—If Elliott Roosevelt, newlywed son of the President, wants a job he can have one in Uniontown, according to Leo Heyn, president of the Summit Hotel Company.

Heyn said today that he had telegraphed Roosevelt an offer to manage the Summit Hotel at any salary he named. This was in response to the young man's announcement in Los Angeles Saturday that he would try a job in the movies or at anything that carried a sizeable pay check.

Heyn said he had telegraphed:

"See by the papers where you are looking for suitable position. Delighted to offer you position as manager Summit Hotel . . . You may name your own salary in addition to free President's apartment in hotel . . . and four weeks' vacation in Florida our expense. Please wire collect."

Hundreds Attend U. P. Mission Meet

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Aug. 7.—(AP.)—Hundreds from the tri-state district yesterday joined with the regular delegates attending the missionary conference of the United Presbyterian Church in session at Westminster College.

Dr. Robert Galbreath, president of the college; the Rev. Stillman Forster, of Pittsburgh, and Dr. Calvin Reid, of Butler, are in charge of Bible hours today.

78 Die, 180 Missing In Korea Typhoon

TOKIO, Aug. 7.—(AP.)—A typhoon in southern Korea last week was reported today to have resulted in 78 deaths, the destruction of 2,634 houses, and the loss of 271 boats. More than 180 persons were said to be missing.

OBITUARY

For many years Mr. Peoples was employed by Pittsburgh newspapers as a linotype operator. He was spending his vacation in Ebensburg when stricken. Besides a sister he leaves his widow.

Fired by Pinchot, Calls Governor's Talk 'Canned'

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—(INS.)—Charles E. Asnis, Philadelphia attorney, recently dismissed from the State Securities Commission by Gov. Gifford Pinchot, today termed the Executive's appointment of Jere C. West, of Bedford, to the post as "simply putting on a phonograph record."

Commenting on the Governor's announcement of the appointment in which he declared West cannot be "bought or scared," Asnis said:

"The announcement is a repetition of catch phrases set to canned music. The Governor is using the familiar stock phrases of his utility crusade of which he made a pretty mess."

COUPLE WED 60 YEARS

Friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Miller gathered today to help the couple celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller were married in Verona August 7, 1873, at Mrs. Miller's home. The marriage took place just a few years after the close of the Civil War, in which Mr. Miller fought. He enlisted in the Northern Army when he was 14, and the only job they could find for him was that of drum boy. Later he fought with the Hampton Battery.

The couple has three living children, W. C. Miller, of Tampa, Fla.; R. W. Miller, of Tarentum, and Mrs. J. R. Borland, of Aspinwall. Mrs. Miller is 78 and Mr. Miller 84.

REMEMBER WHEN Horses Drew Glass Hearses?

A TYPICAL FUNERAL OF 30 YEARS AGO . . . . . SUCH A GLASS-SIDED HEARSE HEADED EVERY FUNERAL CORTEGE

A funeral in Harmony, Pa., some 30 years ago, for a small girl. Notice the carved figures and the carriage lamps on the hearse. This picture, one of a series on this page, has been lent for publication by Charles H. Beuchler, West Diamond street.

Have You Any 'Remember When' Pictures?

"Remember When" pictures—the older the better—may be submitted by mail to the REMEMBER WHEN EDITOR, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., with full explanations for consideration as suitable for publication on this page. Pictures of groups of more than six people are unacceptable. WARNING: Write name and complete address on the back of each picture to assure safe return.

PREMIERE -:- Gripping Story of Life Behind The Scenes at Hollywood -:- By ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

CHAPTER XXII.

Very slowly and comfortably Leni came back to wakefulness in her bed. Oddly enough she had slept soundly until almost noon. For a while she did not open her eyes because she wanted to prolong the exquisite sensation of being in love.

Like many women who know much of life, Leni knew almost nothing of love. No one would believe this, but as she emerged from slumber she was as delighted with life as a school girl who has found her first sweetheart.

Only when she was fully awake did she recall the stark and brutalized elements of her life.

Even the Holy Grail of stardom—of glittering motion picture success—bore down upon her with crushing weight. The death of Kruger—the threatened exposure of her past—the threats and demands of the czaristic detective Mulrooney—all of these were like black beasts trying to tear her to pieces.

The sweet and rose colored glow of her love dreams began to cool off.

Presently she would arise and feel her success squeezing painfully into her tender flesh like heavy iron fetters. The anguish of last night would be with her again.

The door of her bedroom opened and her personal maid, Celeste, came in bearing a silver tray with hot coffee and a dish of cold sliced peaches.

"It's time for madame to be awake," said Celeste with a tinge of authority. "The day is half gone and we are being swamped with telegrams of congratulations."

A DIZZY REALITY

There was a stack of yellow envelopes from people who had seen the premiere of Leni's picture. They were the first fruits of success. These telegrams were only the beginning.

From now on she would live in the world worshipped almost as a queen. She was young, rich, beautiful. Money, love, admiration was ready to pour upon her in a golden shower.

Men would follow her, pursue her, lay their life and love at her feet. She could have anything and anybody she desired. She could be a marchesa or a countess if it pleased her whim.

Life was no longer a golden dream. It was a dizzy reality spangled with the rarest jewels the earth afforded.

All of this Leni realized. She looked down upon the glittering panorama from an ethereal height. It was the nearest thing to earthly heaven a feminine mind could conceive.

"You can take those telegrams away, Celeste," she said simply. "I'm not interested."

The maid looked at her, plainly astonished. "But, madame—"

"Don't bother, please. If any one calls I'm not at home, except to Mr. Cavanaugh.

SENSE OF FREEDOM

Celeste gathered up the telegrams with a hurt expression in her dark eyes. "But the studio, madame! They have phoned four times already this morning."

Leni permitted herself a small smile of satisfaction. The monumental studio's control of her destiny had lost, at last, its arbitrary power of command. The shoe now was on the other foot.

"You may go now, Celeste."

"Shall I leave the morning paper?"

"Yes, I'd like to see what they say about the picture," said Leni, almost indifferently.

The dark-eyed French girl placed the morning Examiner, still folded, upon the table beside the bed. Leni had always been incomprehensible to her, now more so than ever. To accept success so calmly seemed to Celeste to border upon weak-mindedness.

The coffee brought a gracious and stimulating warmth to Leni. A delightful sense of freedom was playing around her heart.

The tearing anguish of the night before had changed to meek and simple contentment. The gratification of her ambition had nothing to do with it. Ambition, success had melted away like the dross they really were.

A new emotion, as clear and beautiful as the ringing of a silver bell, was sounding throughout her whole being. She had been wretched and lonely and hard-driven all of her life.

And now, rapturous beyond any dream, was the glowing revelation of her freedom.

NEW EXISTENCE

She had passed into a new existence. She had found love. All else was obliterated.

The beauty of it was that she was under no compulsion whatever. She could drop everything—fame, studio, wealth—as easily as discarding a worn-out frock.

No one, of course, would understand. It was ridiculous and incredible that a star in her position should suddenly, by an act of free will, vanish out of the glittering firmament. It had never happened in the whole history of the motion picture industry.

Thousands of loves had been wrecked for careers—but not once had career been wrecked for love.

Leni had no sense of sacrifice or regret. She had found her success and simultaneously something greater. It would be impossible, her heart told her, to hold both.

The absence of Lucky gave Leni no feeling of apprehension.

She had merely to think of him to feel his presence as close as though she were actually in his arms. The fact that he had slipped away when she had drowsed off was touched, somehow, with chivalry and kindness. Leni knew enough of the world to realize that Cavanaugh had shown a delicacy of feeling most unusual. Few men, under the circumstances, would have left . . .

Leni sipped her coffee, put it down on the tray and looked up to see the dark-eyed and excited face of Celeste.

"Madame—they have come!" said Celeste, her voice trembling like the leaves of a tree. "The studio business manager and your director, Herman Gerstenfield himself!"

The dreaminess left Leni's eyes and they lit up like stars with surprise. Herman Gerstenfield—down off his pedestal.

The picture must have been a far greater success than they had all hoped!

Gerstenfield, frail, overworked, trusting no one and, apparently, glacial to all humanity! In all Hollywood his name carried the most magic. Already, though less than 40 years old, he was a legend—the ace director of the greatest motion picture company in the world.

That he had called this morning upon Leni meant more in the way of success than the combined plaudits of every newspaper critic in America.

Leni began climbing out of bed.

"Tell them I'll be right down!" she said hastily to Celeste.

Synopsis

At the premiere of her latest picture, Leni Luneska, beautiful star, is stunned by the appearance of her criminal husband, Karl Kruger. Lucky Cavanaugh, gambler, who has just seen Leni for the first time, tries to make Kruger leave. Later Cavanaugh goes to see Kruger, waiting in a small office. Kruger rushes away from Cavanaugh and surprises burglars in the next office. One of them shoot him to death. Detective Mulrooney, well acquainted with Cavanaugh, gives him four days to find the killer or be arrested himself. Lucky takes Leni home. Lucky is warned that the killer is after him to prevent him from "squealing." Kruger's murderer lies in wait to kill Lucky. Lucky, arriving home, finds a jealous woman, named Annette, waiting for him. Steve Poletzki, the killer, aims at Lucky through a window and kills Annette by mistake.

Now Go On

"I'm not at home, except to Mr. Cavanaugh," said Leni.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

Warning, fellows!

Just the other day we had a story in the Sun-Telegraph about a pretty little girl who drowned in the Allegheny River. She was unable to swim and used a life preserver inner tube to keep afloat. But carelessly she let it go, sank under the water.

You must be careful in the water, fellows. Don't swim where there aren't guards to rescue you if you get a cramp or lose your breath, and be very careful not to become exhausted no matter where you swim.

Poor Snuggins seems to be in an awful pickle, doesn't he? The way to keep out of a lot of trouble is not to accept rides with strangers. That's what Snuggins did, and now look what has happened!

We have had word from a lot of Patrol Captains and Lieutenants lately telling us that their patrols have passwords, colors, secret codes, and mottoes. That's a dandy way to make your meetings interesting. Another way is to find plenty of things that are interesting to make and do.

Football, mushball and tennis are just some of the sports we hear some of the patrols are enjoying.

NEWS NEWS NEWS

Nellie Jane Gray, of R. D. No. 1, Arnold, Pa., writes that she is going to start a patrol on the "Bon Air Plan."

William Goroncy, of R. D. No. 1, Belle Vernon, Pa., wins an armband as the captain of a new patrol.

Leo Sywadko sends in three pledges and promises to start a club near his home, R. D. No. 2, Box 469, Sharpsburg, Pa.

Glen Thomas, of 213 Sixth street, Dravosburg, is a new captain.

Homer B. Freiler, of 608 Fourteenth street, Beaver Falls, Pa., tells us that there is no Junior Patrol in his city. Oh, yes there is though, Homer, and this message is for its captain—either look him up or start a patrol of your own, Homer.

Gail Lee is the new captain of Junior Patrol Post No. 2 at Lock No. 4, Pa. Her address is 636 Conrad avenue and she has a peach of an eskimo dog named Amboy.

William Guajardo, of 106 Railroad street, Clairton, and Helen Cousineau, of North Bessemer, Pa., are captains of patrols in their neighborhoods now.

Melba Maxyne Kroh, of 501 High street, South Brownsville, Pa., has five members in her patrol now and is going to get five more so that she can get her armband.

Jerry Hahn, of Kamp Kewane, Laphlume, Pa., sends greetings.

Today we have a letter from Junior Brown, of Wyland avenue, Allison Park. He says:

"I am a little boy six years old and want to join the patrol I will be in the second grade. My brother Emorey is helping me write this. My name is Junior too. I had a pet alligator but I don't anymore. I will be a good boy and study. I can sing a song in French. I like French. I am going to learn it good."

That's fine, Junior — our Junior is proud of you, you can be sure. It's a mighty fine thing to learn French and the younger you start to learn a foreign language the better you can do it, usually, and the better you will be able to pronounce it; let us know how you get along.

Capt. Pearl Izbrand, of 204 Fifty-fourth street, Pittsburgh, writes:

"We have a theme song, codes and a lieutenant and a treasure. When we get our cards and buttons, we are going to start a show. Some of the girls are making carpets from spools. We have good singers too."

There are some ideas for other captains in that letter, Pearl. Many thanks, and be sure to let us hear from you again.

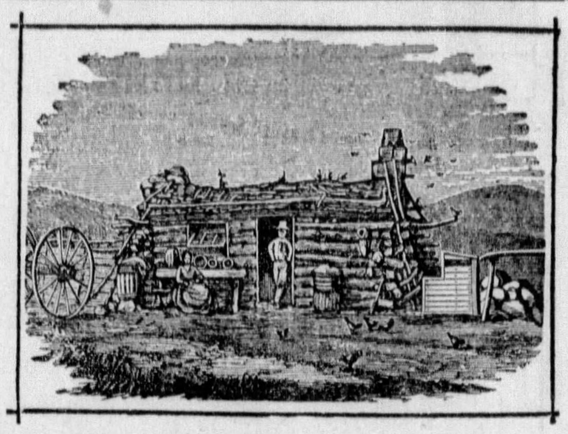
FOUNDING OF SWEENEY'S GULCH.
(Bella's Grampa Sweeney Eulogizes the West.)



Before I took to legal book and sech-like lawyer stuff
I roamed out West as nature's guest (a bum, 'tis plain enough)
And there I trod the unturned sod and led an easy life—
But that was when we men were men, before I met my wife.

'Twas on the range I found a mangey maverick turned loose,
I said to me, how swell 'twould be to put my find to use—
To milk the critter 'twould be fitter to get for me a spouse,
No sooner said than I got wed and builded me a house.

The dame I took, like Tennyson's brook, babbled on forever,
And rather queer, my Hannah Vere, but not a little clever,
Said she, "As how we got a cow, let's up and build a barn."
That's just what irked me, how she worked me, two tuts and one gol darn!

With home and stable we were able to open up a store,
Divide the lots into small plots and sell them to a score
Of local yokels; who grew vocal, whenever we would tax 'em,
Which was quite fair, 'cause I was mayor, and tax 'em was my maxim.

I ran a grand red-hot-dog stand, and sold cold pop and weinies,
And named the gulch right after me, that's why we called it Sweeney's;
Though things did boil when Mike Gumboil with insults turned too loose,
I won my fame when Mazie came to me to beat the noose.

They held no grudge and made me judge, in view of what I done
To show the gulchers that no vultures with Mazie's name could pun,
And that was how a stray lost cow, whose soulful looks enthralled me,
Induced your gramp to found Gulch Camp when nature's open called me!

Sweeney L. Rabinowitz.

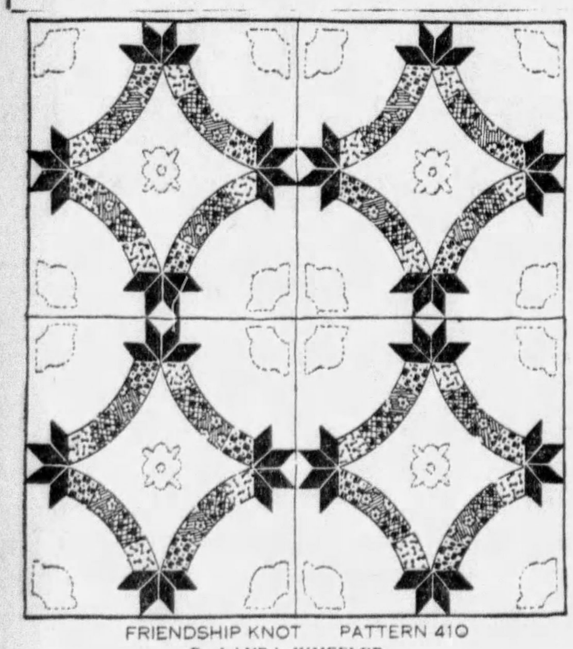
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



FRIENDSHIP KNOT PATTERN 410
By LAURA WHEELER

The quaint title of this quilt, Friendship Knot, is appropriate to the design made of small scraps of material, joined together with a knot of plain material. Like the popular Wedding Ring pattern, it is most economical to make if left over pieces of material are used. The varieties of colors used make it a quilt that fits well into many rooms. The patchwork design can be enhanced by the addition of small quilting motifs at the center and corners of the block.

Pattern 410 comes to you with complete simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, quilting motif, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

Record For Non-Stop Putting

Grant Rice's comment on the writer's ability to sky a putt is authentic.

An old pool shark ain't much good on a table with only one pocket in it. And that pocket in the middle.

The trouble with golfing is forcing a free swinger to choke his bat on the greens. Another mathematical detriment is the way the game is played.

When a blimp bimbles into its hangar it is home. When a baseball player tags a base he is there. But when a golfer is finally on the green he ain't even started yet.

Getting on the green is no child's play. We usually proceed by easy stages from trap to trap. We are waiting for them to beautify the game by planting geraniums in the bunkers.

An 18-hole game is merely equivalent to three pool tables and should be easy for an old established chiseler. But we always putt a la mode. When we finish the ball looks like a dab of ice cream on a chocolate-coated divot.

We fail to see how anybody can dibble a 20-footer into that tiny mouse arcade. We were strong for Gene Sarazen when he proposed an eight-inch cup with a handle so you could catch the overflow of putts.

There never has been a time when we took less than seven on the green and a concession. Once we arrived on the clover tapestry a century of progress could spin by and we would never hear the bong of an hour nor the click of a second.

We don't know what it is. It may be a happy combination of a tsetse bite and the moose fever. We swing all right, we scratch the bean, our stance is natural and we are always willing to let the next foursome go through. Nobody can play any better golf than that unless his stenographer is keeping score.

We once took a putting lesson from Grantland and broke three shafts. He ain't so hot himself. We know he runs a golf magazine but we also notice that Bobby Jones poses for all the pictures except the ones with the high-heel shoes.

So, we intend to keep on golf putting until we either conquer the game or crack under a 30 handicap. When you are coming home in the subway with a nice tan and a bag of expensive clubs, what does the motorman know about your game and all the conductor wants is your fare.

Collect Foreign Debts!

Extraordinary Methods May Be Necessary to Liquidate Obligations.

Apparently the soft and sentimental era in American foreign policy is at an end.

President Roosevelt strongly expressed the new viewpoint at the recent World Economic Conference in which he articulated the right of the United States to pursue economic policies helpful to its own people.

In the transition which has taken place from a vague economic internationalism toward a higher degree of economic self-containment, it will be necessary to liquidate some of the hangover arrangements of the past.

As a creditor people, we shall be confronted with further arguments by debtors that they cannot pay their obligations because reduced foreign trade makes transfer of large capital sums impracticable.

This is not a novel argument.

By using it effectively since August, 1931, Germany has concluded three so-called standstill agreements which postpone repayment of foreign bank advances.

The third standstill agreement was signed on February 17 last, and went into effect for one year.

At the time of this last extension, 3,700,000,000 marks ($880,600,000 at par) was involved, of which it is estimated that 40 per cent is due to banks in the United States.

If the domestic banking structure is to be strengthened, it is important that the federal government aid in the collection of these items, which belong to American bank depositors.

Indefinite postponement is no solution, for it freezes up bank assets at a time when liquidity is desirable.

If, as the Germans argue, it is not feasible for the German institutions to sell marks and buy dollars to liquidate the debt, perhaps an arrangement could be made whereby the American government would take over the private property held in this country by Germans, and use the proceeds to reimburse American banks.

Then the German government by agreement with the Teuton debtor banks could reimburse its nationals in marks for property taken in this country.

Such an international transaction would square the books.

Similar arrangements could be made in the liquidation of other defaulted foreign debts to Americans.

Some such extraordinary liquidation becomes doubly necessary if trade is to be carried on to a greater degree within national frontiers.

For in the past the means for paying external foreign debts has come out of the proceeds of exports.

The matter deserves the expert study of the American government.

Through deft diplomacy, it should be feasible to collect just debts without losing the friendship of debtor countries.

This suggestion offers a practical technique for debt collection from a defaulting outside world.

Are You Assessed?

Make Sure That You Are Qualified to Vote in the Important Elections That Are Approaching.

The Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes reports that the assessors have been refused permission to canvass a large number of apartment houses, and that in consequence the tenants may find themselves unable to vote in the important elections that are approaching.

Citizens vote this fall not only for candidates for numerous city and county offices, but also on questions of governmental policy. There is the referendum, for example, on the Sunday baseball question and the one on repeal of prohibition, and a referendum on 12 proposed amendments to the constitution. Every citizen should express an opinion on these matters.

Another opportunity to be assessed will be afforded tomorrow, when assessors will sit in 25 localities in Pittsburgh, Clairton, Duquesne and McKeesport. If you have not been assessed, here is your chance. Do not let it pass.

No Toothbrushes!

Something Should Be Done for Pennsylvania Children Who Do Not Clean Their Teeth.

A medical missionary in Thibet reports that he examined the teeth of a large number of the natives, including many who were well along in years, and found them dirty, but in most cases sound. And yet the Thibetans are unacquainted with the use of toothbrushes. The missionary thinks that their manner of living and the peculiarities of their diet save their teeth from decay.

Thibetans may go without toothbrushes and suffer no evil effects, but it is the universal testimony of dentists that Americans cannot. Hence it is rather disconcerting to learn that of 149,171 Pennsylvania children examined by school dental hygienists during the last school year 21,069 confessed that they never used toothbrushes.

Lo, the Rich Indian!

Uncle Sam's Wampum No Good.

The Public Works Administration in Washington had the shock of its life the other day when the Menominee Indians in Wisconsin sent back a $30,000 loan for road building, with the information that they didn't need the money.

This at a time when paleface Congressmen, Governors and Mayors have been besieging the nation's capital with urgent pleas for handouts.

The Indians explained that they could afford to build the roads themselves, and that the government probably needed the funds for other projects.

The government, after blinking its eyes rapidly, agreed.

It strikes us that these original Americans show the rest of us up in a pretty poor light.

With most of the villages, towns and cities of the United States frankly out to scalp their Uncle Samuel, they have set an example of self-reliance that their white brothers might well emulate.

Or maybe they are just better businessmen than we are.

Whatever the case, it's evident that the redskins are about the only group of our people that aren't in the red.

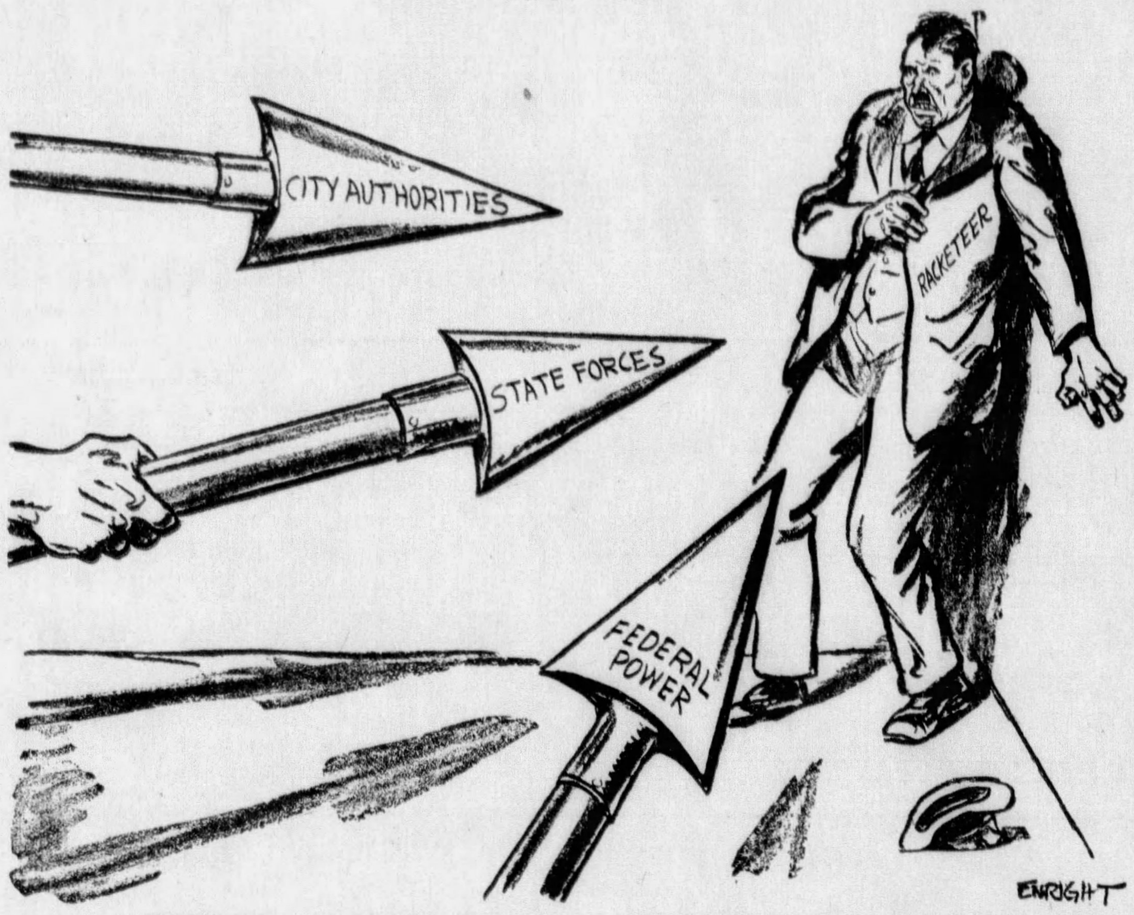
Backing Him Into a Corner

(Copyright, 1933.)



This nation has declared relentless warfare upon the kidnaper and the racketeer.

The war will be won, and quickly won, when Government mobilizes all its weaponry against organized crime.

With a Federal "Scotland Yard" in operation the "twilight zone" of non-jurisdiction between State and Federal courts will vanish.

State boundary lines will no longer serve as barriers behind which lawbreakers may take refuge.

Man's Dangerous Moments

There are many dangerous moments in a man's life. But the average man is so naive that he doesn't recognize them.

* * *

If he is a non-marrying man (and all men are "non-marrying" until they find themselves facing the altar) he will shy and run like a startled fawn from some woman who hadn't the slightest designs on him; and dash right into the arms of the woman who has been trying to bag him.

* * *

Nothing frightens a man more than a girl's frank admission that marriage, a husband and a home are her goal in life. Yet, he's perfectly safe, with her.

* * *

His dangerous moment is when he meets a girl who sweetly agrees with him that marriage is a stupid old institution and loudly sings "No wedding bells for ME!"

By that gesture, she chloroforms all his fears and suspicions and can easily slip the noose over his head, and lead him to the bourne, whence there is no return, save via the alimony route.

* * *

A man is in no particular danger when a girl talks wistfully of sweet, old-fashioned domesticity. But when she begins chanting the praises of "trial marriage" or "companionate marriage," which leaves a man foot-loose at the same time that it offers him all the joys, privileges and comforts of matrimony—that's "holding the apple before the donkey's nose.' And many a man who has listened eagerly to this line has found himself walking the baby and shaking down the furnace.

* * *

When a girl admits that her tastes are luxurious and that only a rich man could satisfy them, it makes a man shudder. But his REAL "dangerous moment" is when she begins lauding the charms of "fifty-fifty" marriage and the beauty of making TWO pay envelopes grow where there was only one.

* * *

As long as a girl is romantic and clinging and hangs around a man's neck he is fairly safe. But when she insists on being "just good friends" and starts doing the "good pal" stuff it's time for him to put on his armour and use his brains.

Few men fall for romantic devotion these days, but many an unwary single-footer has been backed into the shafts of double harness by the gentle and innocent-looking gesture of platonic friendship.

* * *

There are lots of other dangerous moments in a man's life, of course.

* * *

He is never in more danger than when he meets a timid, appealing woman who admires and flatters his STRENGTH—unless it is when he meets one who mothers him and coddles his weakness.

* * *

And there are those moments when he feels lonely or defeated or sorry for himself and needs a woman's tender consolation.

* * *

And finally there is that fatal moment when he begins to wonder if the gray patches over his ears are not signs that he is getting a little over-ripe—and when he goes in for bright cravats and silly sub-debs.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Out through the town and meeting Arthur McKeogh, the editor, who is living on a houseboat this summer. Also came upon Gene Buck and Raymond Hubbell and I came on to think Hubbell's "Poor Butterfly" song was the tuniest of that era.

Home and J. Wilk to see me about writing an original script for James Cagney of the films, but find myself not in the mood. So with my wife to Katharine Brush's tea for Stanley Rinehart and his affianced lady, Fay Yeatman. And Ethel Watters chanted her repertoire, including "Stormy Weather."

In the evening driving to Dick Berlin's on Long Island, he having taken Tom White's beautiful house by the mill-pond. And many there including Joe Moore, Muriel Finley, Dean Cornwell. Thence cityward late in the lunar stillness and I sang "O, Genevieve" while my wife dozed.

* * *

What's to become of 50 of New York's legitimate theaters is a problem that grows increasingly tense. There are roundly 90 theaters of this sort. It is not believed there is sufficient talent or interest in the legit, when prosperity returns, to keep more than 20 open. Talkies have unquestionably won thousands who were orchestra patrons. Mammoth playhouses at Radio City have constituted another serious drain. Taxes are devouring dark theaters. So much so three are to be dismantled and ground space used for parking.

Broadway has had many expansive appetites—Diamond Jim Brady's. Those of Mannie Chapelle, Bat Masterson and Alfred Henry Lewis. But none touched that of the black fighter, Jack Johnson. After a big fight one night he was taken to a private room in the old Metropole, where he devoured two plates of soup, three chickens with "fixings" and two generous slabs of apple pie, washing it down with libations of ale.

When Vance Thompson was in London years ago, an American magazine cabled him to secure a little Christmas story from Sarah Bernhardt. She agreed and had him complete arrangements with her secretary. Thompson had it put into French and the "ghost written" story called "Noel" was printed in America. Ten years later Thompson called on the great actress in Paris. He noticed on a table a deluxe privately printed volume of his "Noel" by Sarah Bernhardt. He had picked it up when she came in. "A slim little tale," murmured Bernhadt. "A fragment of my youth. It haunted me until I had to put it on paper."

"Madam," said Thompson, with a bow, "I am sure it is your masterpiece."

Fannie Hurst's secretary is a brown-skinned Negress with sleek straight hair, an expert typist and accomplished linguist. She has accompanied the novelist on several motor trips for material and observed the racial barriers at restaurants and hotels. Recently at a town in a nearby state they arrived for dinner in a heavy downpour. Miss Hurst was anxious to discuss some stenographic work and hurry to New York. So she shepherded her typist up to the head-waiter imperiously with: "The Princess Zola and I desire dinner in haste." They were piloted to the most commanding table in the room.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

They won't give young Bob an allowance.

Is he, then, a wild spend-thrift? Not at all. He's a normal, happy, affectionate, well-intentioned young American of eighteen. Periodically he raises Cain, as all healthy youngsters do. Gets pop-eyed ideas. Gets in a jam. But it's never serious. He's naturally a good kid, and his parents are proud of him.

Then why won't they give him an allowance?

Because, say they, he "doesn't know the value of money."

But what IS the value of money?

Is it valuable because it's the basis of bank rolls? Is it to be saved and treasured for the wealth it may produce?

Is THAT the supremely important lessons which young Bob must some day learn about money? And is it foolish, if not actually dangerous, to let him handle money before he has learned that lesson?

Or has money quite another value?

Is money important, not because of the cash it represents, BUT BECAUSE OF THE EXPERIENCE IT CAN PURCHASE?

Should money be used, not to increase bank accounts, but to buy wisdom and promote growth?

"But suppose," cry Bob's worried parents, "he doesn't use money to 'buy wisdom'? Suppose he used it for foolish things—wasted it? Then some day he might have to do without!"

Which would probably be the best thing in the world for him, my dears.

THE BEST LESSON YOU CAN LEARN FROM ANY DOLLAR IS HOW TO DO WITHOUT IT.

A WASTED DOLLAR OFTEN BRINGS IN FAR BIGGER DIVIDENDS THAN A SAVED ONE.

THE QUICKEST WAY TO GET WISE TO YOURSELF AND LIFE IS TO MAKE A FOOL OF YOURSELF—AS YOUTH WILL ALWAYS DO IF PARENTS HAVE THE SENSE TO PERMIT IT.

Will the average youngster waste an allowance? Will he buy fool things with it? Unless he's a young monster, he certainly will! But what of it—if thereby he learns to use his head and control his impulses?

Why is life? What is the most important thing in life? Cash-in-hand? Possessions? Or growth?

Growth—that is the greatest thing in life. Growth of intelligence, growth of character.

AND GROWTH IS WORTH ANYTHING IT COSTS.

Does that mean that a youngster should be allowed to run hog-wild with dad's bank roll? Of course it doesn't. But it does mean that a youngster should be allowed to learn how to use his money—AND HIMSELF, by using it—as he learns how to use hammer and saw and gun, under friendly guidance but being allowed to make his own blunders, and being forced to face his own consequences.

What is the value of money? The value of money is GROWTH, and nothing else but.

But just where does that put Mother and Dad? They claim that young Bob doesn't know the value of money.

DO THEY?

Bob thinks they don't.

"Lookit all they could have bought with their money," says Bob, "the swell places they could have gone; the swell things they could have done! But all they care about is saving their old wad. They think if a fellow's rich, that's all there is to life."

Is it? Is a man wise if he passes up the shining adventures and the great risks for the sake of a few bonds, some cowardly safety, some stupid respectability?

"FOR WHAT SHALL IT PROFIT A MAN IF HE SHALL GAIN THE WHOLE WORLD AND LOSE HIS OWN SOUL?"

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

In Silence

Speech is for lesser loves than yours and mine,
For they have use for words like signals shown
To bridge the gulf their spirits must divine,
Of dark extent unguessed, vast deeps unknown.
Those lesser loves must needs be reassured
With light endearments and with pledges bold;
This love we know, which has so long endured,
Is not a flame, to flicker and grow cold.

What words can ever paint the singing sea?
What lusty promise need insure the dawn?
What, then, has speech to do with you and me?
Is it more potent than the seasons gone
When you and I, in silence, hand in hand,
On conquering feet explored love's golden land?

Text for Today

Let not your heart be troubled: Ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also.—John, xiv:1, 2, 3.

The Human Side of the News

The Attractiveness of the National Parks—Yellowstone the Greatest—A Plague of Grasshoppers

By EDWIN C. HILL

"SEE America first" is sound advice, in spite of the overuse of the phrase by the sloganeers. And one of the most inspiring ways to "see America first" is to visit one, at least, of our great national parks. It is difficult to see how anyone, with a spark of adventure in his cosmos, could resist starting out with the old car, the missus and the kids and the few dollars in cash that are necessary to keep them all going, after reading the literature sent out by the National Park Service.

It's colorful stuff, romantic and full of the glow of adventure and new things, that literature, and best of all, it's true and an understatement, rather than an exaggeration of the wonders and beauties that are anyone's for the trouble of taking. One doesn't need much money for a two or three weeks' trip, because Uncle Sam provides so much free of charge.

Probably the greatest attraction of all is the great Yellowstone National Park, containing some of our most thrilling scenic wonders, and alive, under Federal protection, with bear, elk, deer and smaller game. Then, too, there is the great Katmai National Park, up near the Canadian border, which is one of the greatest game preserves in all the world, with 1,000 buffalo and 10,000 elk. And in Glacier Park are villages of Blackfeet Indians and snow-capped mountains and vast glaciers eternally edging toward the sea, and flats covered with Indian paintbrush, harebell and wild flowers of loveliest hue.

In Central California the Yosemite has its groves of sequoias, which were big trees when Jesus was born and Rome ruled the world. And down in Southwest Utah is one of the most wonderful of all the national parks, Zion, a riot of color and fantastic freaks of erosion. Two million people will visit the national parks, east and west, before the summer passes, and this year they will receive an especially warm welcome because the new director of the National Park Service is determined to make his countrymen familiar with the vast playgrounds that Uncle Sam has set apart for his children.

He takes the sensible stand that the more people who can be induced to visit the parks the more will take interest thereafter in their generous support. There is nothing like them anywhere in the world.

Fear Plague Of Grasshoppers

FRIENDS of mine in the West are writing that farmers are in dread, in various sections, of another such plague as descended two years ago upon the corn and wheat lands of western and mid-western states. At least 100 counties were eaten bare by clouds of grasshoppers, and 55,000 square miles of farm lands were left barren.

Incredible stories were told of this plague of grasshoppers. Clothes were eaten off the washlines. Fence posts, hoe handles and wagon tongues were chewed to pulp. A farmer heard that turkeys would devour the insects. He turned his flock loose and they returned with their feathers eaten off.

It was once a newspaper experience to witness the invasion of a horde of grasshoppers in Western Nebraska. I saw the desperate hopeless fight made by the farmers and their wives. In a little Nebraska farming town, one day, the news came that the grasshoppers were coming. People rushed from the town to the battlefront. Farmers and their wives and families, and whoever they could hire to help, were in the front lines, fighting a fight as terrible as war.

Carloads of poisoned bran had been spread through fields of corn and wheat and gardens of vegetables and orchards. Back of the fighting line of farmer-women mixed poison bran mash in buckets, washboilers and tubs. Grim, sweating men carried the poisoned mash to the threatened fields and dumped it into shallow trenches stretched across the front. They worked fast, with the sweat streaming from their faces.

And then the hordes came into sight, leaping, crawling, hopping, devouring. As far as one could see to the right and left, and in the front, nothing but grasshoppers—grasshoppers six inches inches deep in places. Their numbers were countless, incredible. The whole land was carpeted by the creatures. When the horde reached the trenches filled with poisoned brain, grasshoppers ate and died by the millions, died in heaps and piles, but over their dead bodies swarmed the myriad reserves, advancing relentlessly, unconquerably.

* * *

A Year's Work Melts Away

I SAW a fine field of wheat, half a mile wide, melt away—simply melt away—as fast as a horse can walk. The line of fighting men fell back to a second line of trenches, and then a third, each time trying to check the advance with the poisoned bran. Time and time again the grasshopper dead piled up and time and time again the reserves of this terrible army swept over the dead and came on.

Men, stripped to the waist, raved and cursed as they watched a whole year's work disappear. Their womenfolk stood by in silence, hopelessness stamped on their faces.

And I thought then, as I have often thought since, that Nature has ever been the treacherous and unsleeping foe of mankind. In spite of any vigilance, she lies in wait to wipe out the human race by famine, pestilence or earthquake, and within a few centuries obliterate every trace of its achievement.

As Prof. Slosson wrote:

"Civilized man, enthroned in his citadel is, after all, in the same situation as a savage, shivering in the darkness beside his fire, listening to the pad of predatory feet, the rustle of serpents, and the cry of birds of prey; knowing that only the fire keeps his enemies off, but knowing, too, that every stick he lays on the fire lessens his fuel supply and hastens the inevitable time when the beasts of the jungle will make their fatal rush."

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Who wrote:

1. "The devil hath power
To assume a pleasing shape?"
2. "O for boyhood's time of June
Crowding years in one brief moon
When all things I heard or saw Me, their master, waited for?"
3. "Breathes there a man with soul so dead
Who never to himself hath said,
This is my own, my native land?"
4. "To see what is right and not to do it is want of courage?"
5. "On with the dance, let joy be unconfined;
No sleep till morn, when Youth and Pleasure meet?"

Did you know:

6. What is meant by the expression, "berserker rage?"
7. Who is supposed to have made the Bayeux tapestry?
8. In what book of Dickens is there a character, Rose Dartle?
9. What is an allegory?
10. Who is the author of "Anna Karenina?"
11. Who was the "Lady of the Lamp?"
12. When was Joan of Arc made a saint?
13. What is the Book of Kells?
14. Where is the tomb of Napoleon?
15. What is the term Ishmael symbolic of?

Answers to Today's Tests:

1. Shakespeare, "Hamlet." 2. Whittier, "The Barefoot Boy." 3. Scott, "Lay of the Last Minstrel." 4. Confuscius, "Analects." 5. Byron, "Childe Harold." 6. Frenzied fury. 7. Mathilda, wife of William the Conqueror. 8. "David Copperfield." 9. Figurative narrative, with a moral meaning. 10. Tolstoy. 11. Florence Nightingale. 12. 1920. 13. Illuminated manuscript of the four gospels, ancient Irish work, kept in Trinity College, Dublin. 14. Hotel Des Invalides, Paris. 15. An outcast.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You may feel that your service club has outlived its usefulness to you.

You think the contacts have proved of little value.

The entertainments are not up to former standards.

You think they might change their projects and engage in different undertakings, with profit to the club, spiritually and materially.

You take little interest in the meetings and less in the members.

Your enthusiasm is at a low ebb so far as service clubs is concerned.

If you make all these complaints you would better get out of it.

You are doing no good to your fellow members; certainly less to yourself.

But what have you done to make these meetings more interesting?

Have you made any suggestions for approval by the programs committee?

Have you thought out any plan for the ways and means committee?

The fact that you are not on the committee does not signify that you are a blank in ideas.

Perhaps the things that interest you most would not be enjoyed by the others.

It may be yourself that is at fault—anyway, think it over.

If you have never done anything to expand the work of your club and have never suggested anything new and better, you are not worth anything as a member.

Isn't It So?

Nature is the art of God.

Eloquence is the mistress of all the arts.

A woman is a wonder who thinks a man great.

Many a dangerous temptation comes to us in fine gay colors that are but skin-deep.
